Businessmen Submit 14-Pt. Plan to Curb U.S. Spending

Balance Budget and End Relief Projects, Say Industrialists.

Oppose Payment Of Veterans' Bonus

Program to Be Studied by Industry Congress at Next Meeting.

By the United Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—Business leaders tonight submitted a 14-point recovery program to the Nation calling for balancing of Government budgets, stoppage of Public Works relief projects, termination of the Federal dole and determined opposition to immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

The program was formulated by the National Association of Manufacturers, bitter New Deal enemy, whose membership comprises the Nation's most powerful industrialists. Mailed to association members and released to the public tonight, the program will be considered as one of the major problems before the annual Congress of American Industry, to be held here December 4-5 in conjunction with the convention of the association.

"In our opinion the only sound policy for Federal, State and local governments to pursue is to cut expenses to meet reasonable taxes, thus permitting balancing of their budgets as soon as practicable," the report stated. "We recognize that this will not be easy. It involves temporary self-denial, but it is the practical policy."

List Measures.

After a lengthy analysis of the prodigious Government expenditures of recent years, the following measures were recommended as "entirely sound and tending to create local, State and national financial solvency:"

"1. Use of Federal funds for absolutely necessary relief only where private, local and State resources are actually inadequate to provide for existing relief necessity.

"2. Cease using Federal funds for local purposes or for regulation of matters which the Constitution places exclusively within the domain of the States.

Eliminate Loans.

"3. Reduce, and as soon as practicable eliminate, Federal investment or loans to local governments and private enterprise. Such loans and investments operate to establish Government control over industrial policies and Federal control over the internal policy of States and their subdivisions.

"4. Discontinue all Federal grants or 'matching' allotments to States.

"5. Refunding of public debt obligations where this will reduce annual interest charges.

"6. In refunding Government debts, or creating new debts, provide that all bonds shall be serial bonds; that is to say, bonds which must be paid off in approximately equal numbers each year throughout the life of the issues. Serial bonds have in recent years shown a better record than bond issues under which debtor governments undertook to accumulate sinking funds, open to gross abuse.

"7. Convert the Reconstruction Finance Corporation into a liquidating agency. It is estimated that such a policy would result in collecting $1,250,000,000 in the first year.

End Relief Works.

"8. Cease the creation of public works for the primary purpose of providing relief, since experience demonstrates that they provide relatively little employment, invite waste and defer balancing of the budget.

"9. Discontinue the use of public funds to establish or conduct enterprises competing with private industry and labor.

"10. Oppose immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, and all other proposals for advance Gov-

Hopes for Edith's Freedom

Edith Maxwell Eats Dinner Alone in Jail on Thanksgiving

An Edith Maxwell Defense Fund Coupon will be found on Page 3.

By Virginia Lee Warren.
A Staff Correspondent.

Wise, Va., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Anne Maxwell had counted on coming up the road from Pound today to see her daughter, Edith. She wanted to come to the girl's cell in the old red brick jail here and eat Thanksgiving dinner with her.

But the jailer decided last night Mrs. Maxwell had better stay away. She could send up the roast chicken and angel food cake she spent most of yesterday getting ready for the feast. But she herself was advised to stay at home in Pound.

It would have been their first visit since the Commonwealth of Virginia made 21-year-old Edith stand trial ten days ago because her drunken father, Trigg Maxwell, died an hour after she whacked him on the head with a slipper. Edith struck the former blacksmith when he dragged her around by the hair, tore off most of her clothes and threatened to break her neck for staying out after dark with a neighbor boy.

Few Visitors Allowed.

Since the girl was sentenced last week to 25 years in the penitentiary she has been permitted few visitors. During the long days from July 21, when she first was locked up, until the time of the trial a good many of her former schoolmates at East Radford Teachers College came to see her. Her mother and other relatives came frequently. But now she is allowed to see almost no one.

For one thing, the jailer, Jim Dotson, is Edith's uncle and he doesn't want to be accused of playing favorites. He is probably with her more than with the other prisoners.

Another thing—Dotson knows the feeling of the people here and at Pound. He knows everybody in the mountains for miles around believes Edith had "no call for to raise her hand against her pappy no matter what he done to her."

Along the trail of the lonesome pine any man has the right to whip his own children and keep his wife in line. It was Edith Maxwell's disregard of this ancient code as much as Trigg Maxwell's death which turned folks against her.

Trip Caused Bitterness.

There were other things, of course, which contributed to the almost universal bitterness at Pound against the girl. Her brother, Earl, who got out of the mountains years ago to become a traveling salesman, spent part of last summer at home. He took his pretty sister to

Waiter Quizzed, Napkins Tested In Loring Case

Police Try to Link Murder to Suspect in Assault on Child.

Samples of paper napkins from the restaurant in which Victor H. Redmond works have been collected by police investigating the murder of Corinna Loring, it was learned last night.

Redmond was arrested early yesterday in Baltimore when he slid down a rainspout from the roof of his father's home. He was taken to Marlboro, where he was charged with attempted criminal assault on a 9-year-old girl, who lived near Corinna.

It is believed the napkins taken from the cafe where Redmond worked will be compared with a bloodstained napkin found on Saddleback Ridge a few feet from the body of the slain girl.

Robert Hicks, criminologist who is aiding the investigation, has determined that the napkin found on the ridge was stained with blood of the same type as Miss Loring's.

Hicks has collected napkins from all eating places within 3 miles of the Loring home and compared them with the one found at the scene.

Police will make an examination of Redmond's automobile to determine if its interior is bloodstained.

Police said Redmond was identified by the Mount Rainier child as the man who grabbed her last Sunday night as she walked along a street near her home, which is about two blocks from the Loring home. The girl's assailant fled in an automobile when she screamed.

The child's father and three other girls accosted by a man in recent weeks at Mount Rainier were present when Redmond was identified.

Redmond vehemently denied he

Elkton Police 'No Diplomats,' Iran Envoy to Protest to U. S.

The Minister of Iran (Persia) plans an official protest to the State Department because of his temporary arrest at Elkton, Md., because of a traffic violation. The following statement was issued at the legation last night:

The Iranian Minister, Ghaffar Djalal, wishes to deny the story stated in the newspapers concerning his alleged ill-conduct when accosted by the chief of police at Elkton, Md. The minister's story was given by him yesterday in a telephone conversation with the secretary of the Iranian Legation.

"The minister states that the police in question seem thoroughly unacquainted with their duties in a diplomatic case of this sort and that their inexperience and incautious actions but served to prove their lack of knowledge of their official duty under the circumstances.

"The minister also informed his secretary that he not only wished to deny the false publication, but that he wished it to be known publicly that he would enter an official protest upon his return from New York, where he was rushed for an urgent official engagement."

The incident at Elkton was reported by the Associated Press Wednesday. The police chief charged that the minister had pushed him from the running board of a car which had been stopped for speeding. The minister's car was stopped a second time. This time, the policeman said, the minister "grabbed onto my tie and pulled it out of my vest." The minister was then handcuffed, the report stated, but released when he identified himself.

Children Eat Turkey Sliced By President

Roosevelt Heads Table With Family of 350 at Warm Springs.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.
A Staff Correspondent.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 28.—Laying aside all the importance and solemnity of his office, President Roosevelt tonight became the carefree "father of the family" as he skillfully carved generous slices of white and dark meat from two huge turkeys.

The "family" was composed of the 350 patients, members of the staff and visitors at the Warm Springs Foundation, recuperative resort for those having suffered the dreaded infantile paralysis. In what is an annual event, marking founders' day, they gathered together for their turkey dinner this evening in the new colonial Georgia Hall.

Mr. Roosevelt did not carve for all those at the dinner. His carving for the "family" was symbolized when, sitting at the head of the large hall, he sliced from two turkeys for Mrs. Roosevelt and 13 of the patients, selected by a drawing to share the place of honor with him.

Boy, 11, Is Excited Guest.

On one side of the President sat 11-year-old Russell Reynolds, son of an army major at a nearby CCC camp, and on the other was Mrs. Roosevelt. Russell could hardly eat turkey in his excitement at sitting next to the President, who frequently turned to the boy to tell him an anecdote or to draw him out on one of his own experiences.

Seated immediately in front of the President's table were a score or more children recovering from infantile paralysis.

In the isles between the long tables at which the adults sat were a dozen or more wheel chairs, occupied by those whose disability made it impossible for them to have places at the table.

Here was a boy, reclining, his arms outstretched in braces, his body rigidly held to the chair. There a little girl, with her legs braced. The faces of these patients, in some cases, were marked by all they had suffered. But there was no suffering, no grief and no tragedy apparent in Georgia Hall tonight.

Just One Big Family.

It was just one big family party—all as gay as the smiling, cheerful man at the head of the room, who had felt the blow of the dreaded disease, but fought his way back to become the leader of the Nation. These children were as gay as the brightly colored hair-ribbons worn by the little girls, as gay as the bright autumnal colors which flooded the room, and the toy balloons, which, bobbing about, reflected the light of a hundred candles.

It is apparent that to these children and even to the older patients, Franklin Roosevelt is not only the President of the United States. He is their personal hero. The affectionate, hopeful way at which they look at him indicates that to them he has been of greater aid than all the physicians here, for he has inspired in them hope in the future, a belief that what he has done, they can do.

Something of this was expressed in the brief talk of the President, which brought the party to a close. Mr. Roosevelt said he would not talk of the past, as pleasant as that subject might be to "old timers" at Warm Springs. Instead, he urged those present to think of the present and future.

The President expressed happi-

52 Nations Listed As Potential Foes

Recall of All His Envoys Reported on Premier's Plan of Action.

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.

Rome, Nov. 28.—Responsible persons with high connections said tonight a war that might be a world war would be certain to result if the League of Nations places an oil embargo upon Italy.

These persons were not officials. They said Premier Mussolini, at a midnight session of the Fascist Grand Council November 18, adopted this three-point program to be used if an embargo is applied:

1. Italy would withdraw her ambassadors and ministers from all "enemy" countries (those applying the oil sanctions).
2. Italy would quit the League of Nations.
3. Italy's "death squad" air force of the navy would strike immediately at the British fleet in the Mediterranean. This is reported to be a force of 125 pilots pledged to go to certain death. Each would carry one huge bomb in his plane, pick out an enemy warship and dive upon the vessel.

52 "Enemy" Nations.

It would be a sudden, desperate war in an attempt to break through the ring of 52 besieging nations, these sources said.

This determination was said to have been given by Premier Mussolini to Sir Eric Drummond, the British Ambassador, here last Saturday and through the Italian Ambassadors to Premier Laval, of France, and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, on Monday and Tuesday.

It was knowledge of this program, these sources continued, that caused postponement of a meeting of League of Nations committee scheduled for tomorrow to consider an oil embargo.

[The Italian cabinet will meet at 10 a. m. Saturday, the United Press reported. It was declared the cabinet would make an important political declaration after hearing Premier Mussolini's report on the international situation. Nature of the declaration was not revealed. Some observers believe it will be an assertion of just what Italy will do if the League attempts to deprive her of needed materials. —Editor's note.]

Officials Reticent.

A government spokesman, interpreting the phrase "oil means war," said war might not be immediate, but oil would be "another step which might eventually lead to European hostilities." Beyond that officials do not go.

Mussolini plainly recognized the possibility of a European war in his talk with former Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, more than a month ago.

In a speech to the country the day before his troops entered Ethiopia, Il Duce declared: "To acts of war we will respond with acts of war."

What constitutes "acts of war" was never defined officially, but authorities said military sanctions or a blockade would come in that class.

Financial experts said today sanctions and patriotism have solved Italy's gold problem.

The gold drain, it was said, has been halted by public offerings so great that before the end of the year Italy may increase her reserve by 50 per cent.

Gold gifts are being received by the Fascist Party in every community. An authoritative financial source said the people will give huge sums in gold, amounting to 50 lire (about $3.10) for every man, woman and child in Italy.

The bank of Italy is offering 15.25 lire in its program of securing gold, instead of the legal rate of 12.63.

The bank's reserve October 20, on its last statement, was 3,936,396,-

$1,800,000,000 Sought in New Housing Bills

Ellenbogen and Wagner May Combine Measures; Shortage Is Cited.

By Felix Bruner.

Enormous appropriations to continue the Government's housing activities will be asked of Congress in bills being prepared for presentation at the opening of the session.

With the Government already in the housing business on a tremendous scale, and with authorities agreeing that there is a serious shortage of dwellings, Congress is expected to give considerable time to consideration of the question.

Neither of the two bills now being prepared provides for suggested co-ordination of the various activities. Both provide funds for continuance of the Government policy of directly financing slum-clearance and similar projects.

Representative Ellenbogen (Democrat), Pennsylvania, is expected to introduce a measure providing for a United States housing authority within the Interior Department. This authority would be much wider in its scope than the present PWA housing division. It would work with local communities, giving both financial and planning assistance.

To finance the authority, Congress will be asked to authorize issuance of $1,000,000,000 in bonds, the proceeds to go into a revolving fund to provide Federal grants up to 45 per cent on a basis similar to present public works grants. The authority would be given wide powers to make terms with local communities.

A bill to be introduced by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, as now drawn differs from the Ellenbogen bill in that it provides for a continuation of the present housing division and makes a direct appropriation of $800,000,000 to finance its activities. While it provides for

Paris Warns Mussolini France Will Fight on England's Side

Laval Gives Reply to Italian Ambassador Who Talked of Oil Embargo Reprisal; Premier, However, Moves Cautiously.

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Premier Pierre Laval has warned Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy that if he attacks Great Britain in retaliation for the proposed oil embargo, he must fight France also, the United Press was informed authoritatively tonight.

Laval's warning was given to Italian Ambassador Vittorio Cerutti when the latter indicated that Italy would be compelled to regard oil sanctions as military measures to which she must make "warlike" reply.

Meanwhile, believing that the time is ripe to strike for peace, Britain and France have instructed their ambassadors in Rome to ask Mussolini to inform Premier Laval or British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin confidentially what terms he considers acceptable for cessation of hostilities against Ethiopia.

Laval is understood to feel that Italy can be won to peace if the powers give her the non-Amharic or conquered provinces of Ethiopia. The French are anxious to get fruitful diplomatic talks under way before the League imposes an oil embargo and embitters Mussolini beyond compromise.

The French premier, according to the United Press informant, "undertook to warn Mussolini that any warlike measures such as attack upon a British warship would mean not only war against Britain but against the whole League, including France."

Laval conferred with Cerutti again today at the Quai D'Orsay, endeavoring to maintain his lines of diplomatic communication to Rome to facilitate the settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute for which he is striving mightily.

Laval's firm answer evidently indicates he believes a settlement would be hastened by a strong Franco-British front, whereas any sign of weakening might delay the eventual compromise by Mussolini.

Opinion differs in authoritative French circles as to whether Il

Capital Man, 5 Others Killed In Holiday Motor Smashups

The Washington death sent the city's 1935 toll to 103. The dead:

B. F. Lyle, 815 Massachusetts avenue northeast, a carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kershaw, 1306 North Cleveland street, Clarendon, Va.

Mary Elizabeth Otey, 18, of Roanoke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Otey.

Anthony Z. Mattis, 36, of Hampden, N. J.

The casualty toll ran into the scores on streets and highways of the District, Maryland and Virginia made slippery by rain.

Mattis was the Washington hit-run victim. He was lying in a puddle when found by police about 6 p. m. He had died of a crushed chest by the time officers reached Emergency Hospital with him. His face and head were also cut and battered. Pieces of wood scattered nearby indicated to police and Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald, who performed the autopsy, that the man had been struck by a lumber truck. Cards found in his clothing identified him.

Lyle was crushed to death beneath a Roanoke beer truck near Woodstock, Va. His wife, taken to the Winchester Memorial Hospital, was believed to have a broken back.

The Kershaws were killed in a head-on collision a short distance north of Shady Lane on U. S. Route 29. Earl Campbell, a resident of the community in which the wreck occurred, was in Virginia Baptist Hospital in Lynchburg, unconscious as the result of his injuries.

State police told the Associated Press that Campbell drove his old coupe down the left side of the road, ramming the front of the Kershaw machine with such terrific force that the motor, cowling and steering apparatus was crushed against the Clarendon couple. They died a few minutes after the crash, seated in their car.

Mrs. Kershaw, the former Mamie Pixley, was 65 years old. Mr. Kershaw was 63.

An employe of the Government Experimental Farm in Arlington County, he expected to retire soon and he and his wife had planned an auto tour of the country.

Japan Masses Tientsin Force; China Protests

Note Charges Treaty Pledge Broken, Invaders Rush New Air Base.

Nanking, China, (Friday), Nov. 29 (AP).—The government submitted a formal note of protest today to Japan over the seizure of Fengtai, near Tientsin, Wednesday. The note, given the Japanese embassy by the foreign office, asserted the seizure of the railway center by Japanese troops violated treaty pledges. The town was occupied as part of a widespread Japanese military movement in the north China autonomy area.

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.

Tientsin, Nov. 28.—This city was taking on the aspects of an armed camp today as Japanese troops moved in while Chinese forces were withdrawn from the Tientsin-Peiping area.

Gen. Shang Chen, former governor of Hopei Province, was withdrawing his troops rapidly.

Simultaneously, Japanese soldiers were busily stringing military lines through the streets.

The lines were connecting with Tangku, where two Japanese destroyers have arrived.

Reports that the Chinese garrison at Tsangchow has rebelled and is marching northward aroused Japanese military apprehension today that the hitherto bloodless autonomy movement might emerge into open hostilities.

Japanese advices said 700 Chinese troops revolted at Tsangchow, 50 miles south of here, and were trying to join the campaign farther

China Clipper Off On Hop to Manila

Last Leg of Pacific Flight Over Unknown Trails.

By the Associated Press.

Guam (Friday), Nov. 29.—The China Clipper headed along the final stretch of its first transpacific airmail flight today, hopping from Apra Harbor here at 6:06 a. m. (3:06 p. m. Thursday, Eastern standard time) for Manila, 1,700 miles distant.

The hop was over an unblazed air trail. Previous legs of the 8,000-mile journey from California to the Philippines have been made in exploratory cruises.

The China Clipper is scheduled to reach Manila about 4 p. m. Friday (3 a. m. Eastern standard time), after about 12 hours in the air. Capt. Musick carried in his pocket an airmail letter from President Roosevelt for President Manuel Quezon of the island Commonwealth.

Rep. Fish Backs Borah as 1936 G.O.P. Nominee

Wadsworth Says New Deal Undermines Our Form of Government.

While Representative Hamilton Fish (Republican), of New York, boomed Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, for the Republican Presidential nomination yesterday, Representative James W. Wadsworth, another New York Republican, accused the New Deal of designs on both the Supreme Court and the Constitution.

Fish conferred with Borah yesterday and issued a statement saying the Idaho Senator could get more votes in New England, New York and Pennsylvania than any other Republican.

Though "a few of the reactionaries would oppose him because they can't control him," Fish said that Borah "would come nearer carrying New York City than anyone who could be nominated on the Republican ticket, as he has great strength among important elements that make up that population, and he would develop a tremendous support among Jefferson Democrats."

Undecided on Candidacy.

While saying he had not decided whether he would be a candidate for the nomination himself, the New Yorker demanded that the G. O. P. "shall not compromise with the socialism of the New Deal, or go back to any alleged old order of special privilege, selfish interests and domination of wealth."

He declared that all candidates should enter the Presidential primaries, to prevent "a handful of Old Guard politicians" from selecting the nominee "in a back room."

Borah had said he has a "definite objective" for 1936 and some observers have concluded that prevention of the nomination of an "Old Guard" candidate was that objective. The Idahoan declined to comment on his conference yesterday with Fish.

The two have another meeting scheduled for Monday.

Wadsworth Continues Talks.

Meanwhile, Wadsworth, continuing the series of radio talks under sponsorship of the Republican Congressional committee, voiced the suspicion that the New Deal "intends to deluge the Supreme Court with a flood of cases, and thus pile up against the court and the Constitution itself an aggregation of grievances and resentments sufficient to break down both."

Speaking on "Undermining Our Form of Government," the Representative declared President Roosevelt's arrival at the White House upon his inauguration was "skillfully and attractively staged, and hence welcome."

"An impressive gesture of economy," he said, "was indulged in at the very beginning of the Congressional session. Within a few weeks, however, the famous economy act was utterly forgotten, and shortly after its enactment there commenced an orgy of spending such as the country has never known in time of peace."

Dictatorship Powers.

He asserted that the New Deal involves a "vast expansion of the power of the President and a corresponding suppression of the power of Congress," and continued:

"Only a dictatorship heading up to a single individual can begin to wield such powers. Therefore, we have seen Congress presuming to turn over to the President large elements of the law-making power, doing so upon his demand and upon the demand of the bureaucracy established under him."

The question of "grievances and resentment," he said, "is a very simple one."

"We see it standing out conspicuously," Wadsworth declared, "in the Bankhead cotton control act, under whose provisions a cotton farmer who sells cotton in excess of the quantity allotted him by the Secretary of Agriculture, without paying the prohibitive tax, may be prosecuted in the Federal courts as though he were a common criminal."

Condemns Labor Act.

He also condemned the tobacco and potato control laws and the Wagner labor disputes act.

"These laws, and others like them," he said, "are on the statute books. It is the intention of the President and his lieutenants to enforce them. Likewise it is their intention to contend against those citizens who, feeling their liberty abridged, may appeal to the courts for a judicial determination of their rights under the Constitution. Some people are of the very earnest belief that liberty is no longer the most precious thing in life. They are tempted to applaud an exhibition of limitless power in government and to forget or ignore what happens to the soul of man.

"It will not do for us to say, 'Oh, let the Supreme Court knock it all out.'

"The Court may do so and it may not, or the end sought may be accomplished by indirection or undermining, by the use and abuse of the taxing power, for example."

Criticism Not Enough.

As another political development, former Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, according to the Associated Press, yesterday offered the party a farm plan with which to oppose the AAA.

He warned the Republicans could not win on "mere criticism of the AAA," and suggested they offer farmers an income based on the cost of production for the domestic portion of their crops, with the Government handling the exportable surplus.

Hamilton's Shoulder May Be Put to Landon's Wheel; Roosevelt-Hoover Parallels.

By Raymond Clapper

THE movement to make Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas the Republican Presidential nominee next year is entering its second phase.

Up to now it has been totally unorganized, spreading throughout the country entirely because of the wide general interest in what the Governor of Kansas was doing. He had no organization. Little was known about him as a person. Many of those who were enthusiastic over the idea for which he stands were not even sure of his name.

But it is realized among Landon's friends that general interest is not alone sufficient to bring about a nomination in a national convention. Accordingly, the organization phase is about to develop.

Over the next few days several important conferences will take place in Topeka. John Hamilton, Kansas national committeeman and general counsel of the Republican national committee, is in Topeka now. The question is whether he shall take over the direction of the Landon campaign.

The young red-haired committeeman was brought to Washington before the Landon movement developed and became assistant to Republican National Chairman Fletcher. His work, and he has been the active mainspring in party organization activities around the country, was financed by a group of leading Republicans who are not anxious to release him. On the other hand, as a Kansan with national political experience, he would be especially valuable in setting up a pre-convention organization for Gov. Landon, and would be a logical choice for national chairman in event of Landon's nomination. Hamilton's wide acquaintance among national party leaders, and the rapid recognition he has won as an aggressive and able organizer, would instantly give the Landon candidacy a potential practical strength of formidable proportions.

Another Topeka visitor over the week-end will be Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman for the District of Columbia. He is a former Kansan and already is committed to the Landon candidacy. Gov. Landon is anxious to have Colladay take over organization work for him in some of the Eastern territory and possibly in certain of the Southern States.

Although Gov. Landon dislikes being called the Kansas Coolidge, he has spent considerable time recently listening to advice from two men who were extremely close to Coolidge. While Landon has a general progressive viewpoint which Coolidge did not have, there are some similarities in that he is as poor a public speaker as Coolidge was. Consequently those who labored to help Coolidge overcome his personal handicaps in this respect probably have some suggestions which will be helpful to Landon.

Landon continues to decline invitations to speak. He is waiting for the Kansas Day dinner to be held in Topeka, January 29. At that time, it is planned now, Landon will outline his views on national questions. This address will serve as his pre-convention campaign platform. He is not expected to make any formal announcement of his candidacy. But it won't be possible to doubt that he is a candidate.

Mr. Hoover's recurring attacks on the Roosevelt recovery measures recall an analysis of his own recovery program made by Walter Lippmann in the Yale Review last summer. Apart from the Roosevelt reform measures, the fundamentals of the New Deal were instituted under Hoover, Lippmann argues. The thesis probably is equally displeasing to both principals, but Lippmann makes a plausible case for it.

It was Hoover, he says, who committed the Federal Government to responsibility for recovery. He placed the business cycle within the orbit of government and attempted to substitute conscious control for laissez faire.

Lippmann itemizes the fundamentals of the Hoover recovery program as follows:

1. To counteract deflation by a deliberate policy of inflating the base of credit.

2. To reduce the normal expenses of government, but to incur extraordinary expenditures covered not by taxation, but by deficit financing.

3. To expand public works in order to create employment.

4. To have the Federal Government assume the ultimate responsibility for relief of destitution, where local or private resources are inadequate.

5. To draw upon government credit to supplement the deficiency of private credit.

6. To reduce hours of labor, while maintaining wage rates.

7. To peg farm prices and encourage farmers to organize to curtail production.

8. To organize industry with a view of adopting common policies in respect to wages, hours, prices and capital investment.

Lippmann says the only important difference in monetary policy between Hoover and Roosevelt is that Hoover attempted to regulate the internal value of the dollar, whereas Roosevelt is attempting to regulate its external value as well. Hoover, he says, was just as eager as Roosevelt to raise prices, to stop deflation and to bring reflation. He lowered discount rates and expanded open-market operations. The Government's right to regulate credit was exercised, although not avowed definitely as in the Eccles banking bill.

On spending, Lippmann says that Hoover, as far back as 1921, was an advocate of public works pump priming and that in the depression he used deficit financing. The difference between Hoover and Roosevelt is, he says, that Roosevelt is free and easy in spending for non-liquidating expenses, while Hoover tried to hold to self-liquidating enterprises.

Of course no one would contend that the two men are much alike in their outlook. The significance of the foregoing parallel is that conditions are more powerful than men.

Hoover was driven reluctantly by the same forces to which Roosevelt yielded more willingly.

As for the future, the parallel signifies that no matter how much the Republicans want to scrap the New Deal recovery policies, they will inevitably be governed to an extent by conditions.

One party might give better administration than the other. That wouldn't be hard for the Republicans to do. Republicans might apply the brakes more quickly on recovery measures. They might strip off a good deal of the trivial gingerbread work which has become encrusted over the recovery program. It is probable that they would check further reform legislation sharply. They would be more friendly to business.

But just as the Republicans, returning to power in 1920, retained the Federal Reserve system, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission, the U. S. Tariff Commission and other Wilsonian reforms, likewise now it is a question how much dismantling would take place with a change of party control. Especially since it is a mathematical impossibility for the Republicans to take control of the Senate next year.

In other words, a good deal of what both parties have to sell in the coming Presidential campaign is baloney.

Guffey Coal Act Heads for Final Test in Court

Adkins' Ruling on Partial Invalidity Speeds Up Last Appeal.

By the Associated Press.

The Guffey coal act headed toward Supreme Court review last night as tests of an even dozen New Deal measures before the high tribunal were projected within the next year.

In the midst of a political campaign which already has raised the Constitution as an issue, five laws sponsored by the Roosevelt Administration are now awaiting high court interpretation.

The Guffey act, intended to stabilize the bituminous coal industry, promised to become the sixth, following a midnight ruling by the District of Columbia Supreme Court holding it partly invalid.

Five more pieces of challenged New Deal legislation are slowly moving up through the lower courts and lawyers are preparing a case to test the twelfth.

Legal Batteries Lined Up.

Some of the best known legal talent in the Nation are arrayed against the Government. Crack New Deal lawyers who formerly were busy writing laws or helping administer them are being shifted around to defend their validity.

In the Carter Coal Co. case, generally regarded as the one chosen by the Government to provide the Guffey law test, Justice Jesse C. Adkins declined Wednesday night to issue injunctions restraining the company from accepting the coal code and the Government from imposing the law's 15 per cent tax.

His oral opinion upheld the taxing and coal price-fixing provisions of the law, but declared sections providing for regulation of wages and hours of labor in the industry "invalid under the Schechter (NRA) opinion."

When Frederick H. Wood, New York attorney, served notice of appeal, Justice Adkins issued a stay preventing the Government from collecting a tax of more than 1½ per cent from the company until the case is finally decided. This is the tax the Government would retain after refunding to complying companies the rest of the 15 per cent levy.

It was generally believed that Wood, who succeeded in having NRA overthrown in the Schechter case, would attempt to take the Carter case directly to the Supreme Court after filing notice of appeal in the District of Columbia Circuit Court.

This "short cut" to the high tribunal for major cases was followed in the railroad pension case last spring. Government lawyers said today they believed the Justice Department would agree to the quick action which might bring the Carter case into the Supreme Court shortly after the first of the year.

May Combine Cases.

They also indicated the justices may be asked to combine the Carter case with a Louisville suit, in which the entire act was upheld by Federal Judge Elwood Hamilton.

Some Government lawyers indicated they felt the Supreme Court would not pass upon the hours and wages section of the law for the reason that the Carter company has an agreement with its employes, and that this automatically places it in compliance with the act.

Cases already before the Supreme Court involve constitutionality of the agricultural adjustment, Bankhead cotton control, Tennessee Valley Authority and Public Works Administration acts, and a minor section of the law which created the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

In the lower courts are challenges to the constitutionality of the public utility holding company, Wagner labor disputes, securities exchange, new Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium and Federal alcohol control laws.

Attorneys for the major railroads are holding frequent meetings to draft the case which will test the new railroad retirement pension act and the taxes imposed to finance it.

Tiniest Quint Walks On 18-Month Birthday

Callander, Ont., Nov. 28 (AP).—Little Marie has been pitied as the weakest of the Dionne quintuplets, the one who always tagged along behind her sisters. But today, when they were 18 months old, she stood up and declared herself among the select circle of "quints" who can walk.

Marie was crawling on the Dafoe Hospital floor when her mother and father, Elzire and Oliva Dionne, dropped in from their farmhouse across the road to watch the youngsters celebrate their 18-month "birthday."

To celebrate it, the children were served breakfast in new dishes.

Marie promptly stood, waved aside a nurse's helping hand and walked five steps in her mother's direction.

It was Marie's first real walk, although she had taken a step or two before. Her sisters, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile and Emilie, all are toddling about every day.

Outlook Bright For Roosevelt, Farley Reports

Tour Reveals 'No Trouble Ahead; States Strong for Re-election.'

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight asserted on his return from a swing around the country that his "hasty survey of the political situation" revealed no trouble ahead for President Roosevelt.

"In one respect the journey was a failure," he said in a statement. "To speak frankly, it was a quest for trouble—and I found none."

Farley listed 18 States—including Ohio, Pennsylvania and California—which were on the direct route he traversed and which he said will be in the Roosevelt column next November.

Names Other States.

He named nine other States contiguous to his route which he said yielded assurances that they and neighboring States would provide "undiminished support of the President."

Farley said also that "everybody seems pretty well satisfied" about the reciprocity agreement with Canada and he deprecated straw votes as no indication of trends until the Republicans name their candidate.

The States Farley listed definitely in the Roosevelt column were Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Utah, Nevada, California, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Ohio and Indiana.

Support Pledged.

Farley asserted he encountered representatives from Washington, Montana, the Dakotas, West Virginia, Missouri, Kansas, New Mexico and Arizona and "these men brought me word that they were one with their neighbor States in undiminished support of the President."

Farley said the question he most frequently was asked was who he believed would get the Republican nomination. He said he had put the question, too, to many Republicans "and found they were just as much at a loss for a direct reply as anybody else."

"Many of them told me who, in their opinion, should not be nominated," Farley said, "and the list embraced pretty nearly every aspirant for the honor so far disclosed * * * but I gathered the impression they generally agreed with me that it did not make any difference who carried the Republican banner in 1936.

"Possibly it might be fairly stated for me to say that most of the Republicans are resigned to whomever the convention hands them, and this includes Mr. Hoover."

The action was taken under the law of February, 1933, "for the protection of the state and the people."

Berry Will Seek Federal Board For Industry

Permanent Council Would Study Capital-Labor Problems.

By the Associated Press.

Plans for a permanent organization of business and labor leaders under the Government's wing to give continuous attention to industrial problems are being developed by George L. Berry.

President Roosevelt's co-ordinator for industrial co-operation expects to propose such a program to the industry-worker conference December 9 to seek a meeting of minds between these traditionally conflicting interests on the future of NRA's principles.

The proposal would create a temporary council in the conference. As different industry groups separate into committees to consider specific problems, each group would select a representative to carry its views to the temporary council. The council would attempt to resolve conflicts.

Favors Permanency.

Berry has said he saw no reason why this council should not be made permanent. But the fact that he is definitely planning to push the idea of permanency became known only yesterday.

His associates said they saw no reason for conflict with other Government departments—Labor and Commerce, particularly—nor with the group of 50 top business executives comprising the advisory council set up some two years ago by Secretary Roper.

The council, it was said, would study long-term problems which may not be capable of solution in the short time of the general conference meeting. It would be available for discussions at all times and would attempt to meet and answer conflicts between industry and labor as they arose.

Permanent Offices.

Permanent offices would be set up in Washington, presumably with a secretary. There was some talk in business circles that Berry himself might head the new group. He is both a labor leader and an industrial executive.

In some quarters, possible creation of the council was considered the major potentiality of the conference.

Officials emphasized there would be no effort to "push the council down the conference's throat." But they said some major business leaders already have indorsed the plan in private messages to Berry.

Industry, itself, however, generally was silent on the plan, with opinion apparently divided. Some opposition was based on the theory that business would be "put on the spot" in being forced to negotiate with labor on a much broader basis than it desires.

Czech Police Seize Man In Theft of Documents

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 28 (AP).—Police announced today they arrested a man named Sergei Kosimoff at Hirschberg, near the Silesian border, and charged him with the theft of Soviet documents and funds from the Soviet ministry here Tuesday night.

Authorities said they were searching for a woman who had often been seen with Kosimoff, who has been employed at the Soviet ministry but a short time. Approximately $41,000 was reported stolen.

Shipowners Reject Mediation on Strike

Houston, Tex., Nov. 28 (AP).—The Houston maritime committee, composed of Houston steamship interests, declined today to meet with a three-man longshore mediation board, appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, at a conference called for 10 a. m. tomorrow in an effort to end the seven weeks' old water-front strike here.

"We are willing to come before the board when they meet our demand that representatives of the State longshore unions, with which we have signed contracts, are allowed representation," J. Ross Dunn, of the maritime committee, said.

Constance Bennett Signed by Gaumont

Hollywood, Nov. 28 (AP).—England took another first-ranking American movie star from Hollywood today. Constance Bennett, blonde actress, went under contract to Gaumont-British Films, of London.

Michael Balcon, executive of the company, said Miss Bennett had been signed for two pictures, the first to be produced in February. Balcon also announced the signing of Boris Karloff, actor, and Charles Reisner, director.

"11. We recommend to taxpayers and public officials in all States careful study of possibilities involved in existing constitutional limitations on tax-rate limitation in several States.

"12. We recommend further that taxpayers and public officials carefully consider the advocacy of constitutional provisions such as those in California and Oregon under which the maximum annual budget can not increase in any year over 5 per cent and 6 per cent respectively.

Study Budgets.

"13. We recommend careful study of existing budget systems, to see if they are sound in theory and actually work in practice.

"14. We recommend study of possibilities of reducing Government expenditures by reducing the vast number of taxing units. There are over 175,000 separate Government units in the United States with the power to impose taxes."

The recommendations were signed by A. L. Green, chairman of the association's committee on government finances. They comprised only the first section of the final report which will be submitted to the congress of industry. A second section has not been completed.

Additionally, committee reports will be submitted on Government relation to industry, tariff, Government competition and social security.

William B. Warner, president of the McCall Co., New York, will be chairman of the resolutions committee of the congress, which will pass on the reports.

"Adherence to sound principles never was more needed in America," said C. L. Bardo, association official, on releasing his organization's program.

Arthur A. Ballantine, former Undersecretary of the Treasury, will speak at the convention session devoted to taxation discussions. Other convention speakers will include Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors Corporation; Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, Washington; J. Warren Madden, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, and Bruce Barton, advertising executive.

Women Believe Edith Maxwell Unjustly Tried

Virginia club women are convinced Edith Maxwell should not have been tried for her life in the mountain community of Wise, whose tight code of morality demands that its womenfolk stay home after 9 o'clock at night, Miss Elizabeth M. Ramey, of Alexandria, president of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, declared last night. Meanwhile the fund being raised by The Post was increased by $43.60 despite the rain and the holiday.

Edith faces 25 years in prison because her father, Trigg Maxwell, died of wounds she inflicted with a high-heeled slipper when he attempted to beat her for staying out with a boy until midnight.

"The club women are convinced something is wrong and the girl should not have been tried for her life in a prejudiced mountain community," Miss Ramey said.

"My personal feeling is that the basis on which the jury apparently made it decision (the code of the Virginia hills) is decidedly unfair."

As president of the federation, Miss Ramey heads an organization with a membership of 800 business and professional women throughout the State.

Committee Here Studies Case.

Miss Ramey has appointed a special committee to make a personal investigation of the case. The committee is comprised of Miss Cornelia Adair, of Richmond, an official of the National Education Association; Mrs. Geline McDonald Bowmen, also of Richmond, a former president of the federation, and Miss Florence Buford, of Charlottesville, chairman of the State public relations committee.

Miss Ramey was in telephone communication with Mrs. Bowman yesterday. She was advised that Mrs. Bowman and Miss Adair expected to make the trip to Wise this week-end.

The course of action to be taken by the federation will be determined after the investigating committee reports its findings.

In Washington Edith Maxwell has won the sympathy of hundreds of hearts. Letters have reached The Post from women in all stations of life, from women who see—judging from their writing—in Edith's judgment a judgment of all young women who want to stay out until midnight.

Pastor Urges New Trial.

Responses also have come from men in numbers almost as large as those from women. One of these was the pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo. He said:

"All of us believe in justice. But we believe in justice tempered with mercy. If it is not coupled with mercy, then justice has not been completely served. Justice was not merciful in this case. I am in favor of the case being reopened, and a new trial being granted."

Shelton T. Cameron, an attorney, inclosed with his contribution to The Post's Edith Maxwell defense fund an indictment of the conditions under which the girl was condemned to spend the best years of her life in prison. He said:

"Nothing could better illustrate the impossibility of Miss Maxwell getting a fair trial than the remark of her jailer that if those seeking a new trail 'riled' the judge, it might be bad for Miss Maxwell. If a new trial is granted a change of venue is absolutely necessary."

Contributions Increase.

Constituent clubs of the Virginia federation, meanwhile, were going ahead with plans of their own for Edith Maxwell. The Norfolk club, it was learned, has suggested financial aid for the girl. The Petersburg club has adopted a resolution urging the case be reopened. Other branches of the State federation were arranging early meetings for discussion of courses of action.

Contributions for The Post defense fund continued to arrive over the holiday. Yesterday's total was $43.60, boosting the fund to $202.45. Most contributors wrote letters. Most of them agreed with Attorney Cameron that Edith Maxwell's trial had not been a fair one, that she should be given another trial in a different jurisdiction. An anonymous contributor quoted:

Nations Honor China At Exhibit in England

London, Nov. 26 (AP).—All great nations of the modern world honored ancient China today in a ceremony at Great Britain's Royal Academy. Representatives of Japan participated, as did those of the United States and other countries, in opening the greatest exhibition of Chinese treasures ever assembled in the west.

The exhibition was arranged to show China as the empire, which conquered and for centuries ruled over half of Asia. More than 900 objects of art were brought from Peiping. Emperor Hirohito of Japan loaned priceless possessions, and other treasures were sent by American institutions and individuals.

visit relatives in Detroit and Cincinnati, proud to show her off.

For these trips Edith got a couple of evening dresses. That was enough to condemn her in Pound. And then she made the mistake of saying when she returned that she had had a wonderful time; she gloried in the wonders she had seen beyond the rim of the mountains.

But today the fine sights in Detroit and Cincinnati were far away. Even the majestic peaks covered with the pines she knows so well seem a long way off. Edith Maxwell, who taught school last year in these mountains, where she was born and grew up, ate her Thanksgiving dinner alone, in jail.

Well, not exactly alone. There were three other women in her cell; coarse-mouthed creatures brought in a week ago from a dance hall called the Wildcat, somewhere between here and Big Stone Gap.

Edith could look out the small barred window and see the dismal rain dropping relentlessly all day long. Her cell is in the basement and the ever-present dampness and the odor from lack of ventilation are more pronounced in wet weather. The jail, always a revolting place, seemed more squalid than ever.

But Edith enjoyed the chicken and angel-food cake, she said with a weak little smile.

Mrs. Maxwell Shows Strain.

Mrs. Maxwell was afraid they wouldn't be good.

"I been so nervous ever since this thing happened, seems like it even affects my cooking'," she said yesterday between trips to her oven to peep at the cake.

Mrs. Maxwell herself is free on $3,000 bail. She is to be tried in March as a murder accessory before and after the fact in her husband's death.

Her thin, pinched face shows plainly the strain under which she has lived, not just since that turbulent night last July, but ever since she married Trigg Maxwell more than 30 years ago.

When he was sober "he was so quiet you wouldn't know he was around the house." But there was time after time when Trigg was not sober. His only son, Earl, believes he started drinking when he was 10 or 11 years old.

"Drink ran in his family," said the son. "Why one of his brothers died not long ago, drunk as he could be."

Mrs. Maxwell usually could calm Trigg down when he was on a rampage. However, she stood by while one child after another slipped away from his brutal domination. Earl left home years ago, Alma, an older sister of Edith's, left the family's mountain shack shortly afterward and made her way to Detroit, where she has a job. Another girl married the miller at Pound, H. Clay Robinson, and has a home of her own.

Edith taught one year at a nearby mountain school and was working her way toward freedom when she and her father had their fateful quarrel in July. Two younger girls are still at home, Anna Ruth, 16, and Mary Catherine, 11. The former was staying in town with her uncle and aunt, Jailer Jim Dotson and his wife, the night Edith and her pappy had their trouble. Mary Catherine saw the struggle and was an important witness at the trial.

"Even when Dad was sober he never was what you'd call a companion to his kids," said Earl, while Mrs. Maxwell was off one of her never-ending trips to the kitchen. "He'd come in and sit by the hour with never a word to say. He always wanted his family at home and fussed with any of them if he came in and didn't find them here. Then, as Edith got older he got stricter than ever with her. He was afraid she'd be talked about."

Old-Fashioned Standards.

Trigg, who stopped work at the smithy a good many years ago to become a mine pump inspector, believed in the old-fashioned standards of his forebears who settled in these mountains generations ago. He "carried on something terrible," when Mrs. Maxwell got a permanent wave last year. Earl paid for it. Some months back Mrs. Maxwell got another one as a gift from Edith.

Earlier on the same night that he had the fatal clash with his daughter, Trigg sneered at his wife for "havin' her hair all frizzed up" and intimated she wouldn't have gone to that trouble and expense if she weren't "a-favoring another man."

Mrs. Maxwell "paid him no mind." She learned long ago a mountain woman is not to answer back. But Edith had not learned that lesson as well as her mother. She had been far enough out of the range of the lonesome pine to observe other women and their equality with men. And so, when her roaring drunk pappy took after her, the slim young school teacher not only answered back, she struck back. That was her crime.

Posse Kills Convict Fleeing Penitentiary

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 28 (AP).—One of two convicts fleeing from the Lousiana Penitentiary at Angola was shot and killed late today after gunfire exchange with a posse. The other convict was captured. The man killed was Robert Hudson, 22, serving a robbery and larceny term from Lake Charles, La. His companion, who surrendered after the shooting, was Robert T. Fuller, 31, under sentence for assault with intent to rob from Oberlin, La.

Hudson and Fuller escaped by knocking down a guard, taking his gun and riding off on two plow horses. They shot and killed two hounds with which the posses was trailing them.

6 Hurt as Stairs Break In Crush to See Santa

Galt, Ontario, Nov. 28 (AP).—The first 1935 visit of Santa Claus to this city today resulted in a tragedy when a crowded stairway in a store collapsed. Six children and a woman were seriously injured. Many others suffered minor hurts.

Santa Claus was holding court on the fourth floor of the establishment and elevators and stairs were crowded to capacity. The stair structure between the second and third floors gradually began to give way, precipitating a screaming mass of children upon others below.

6 Dead, 11 Hurt In Fort Worth Apartment Fire

Gas Explosion Converts Building Into Death Trap in Texas City.

By the Associated Press.

Fort Worth, Tex., Nov. 28.—Police and firemen, after an exhaustive search, expressed belief tonight that six dead and 11 injured accounted for all the victims of a gas explosion, which converted a two-story apartment building into a flaming death trap early today.

Among the dead was Mrs. Bell Stephens, 78, believed by firemen to have lighted a match near a leaky gas stove that caused the explosion.

Other dead: Dewitt C. Turbeville, Fort Worth, 81; Mrs. Dewitt Turbeville, about 78; Mrs. Lola Kirby, 24; Howard Kirby, two; Miss Ozelle Hollingsworth, 18.

Mrs. Cary Cashion, sister of Mrs. Stephens, sobbed out the story of the tragedy:

"Bell always tended the stove. I got up and went into the kitchen and Bell got up to light the fire in the bedroom. Then I heard an explosion and saw a flash. I managed to get out the back door somehow."

Mrs. Stephens, her clothing in flames, was blown into the hall. C. S. Slater, who lived across the hall, beat out her blazing dress and carried her outside, but she died of burns in a hospital later.

Fire Marshal Ligon said an investigation showed leaky connections on a gas stove in Mrs. Stephens' room.

Huddled at the end of a second-floor "blind" hallway firemen found the bodies of Mrs. Kirby, Miss Hollingsworth and the Kirby child. Nearby the bodies of the Turbevilles were found in their room.

Mrs. Jesse Bowden, 60, trapped upstairs, leaped from her window and ran to a back fence. Rescuers were forced to tear down the fence to move the terrified woman to a hospital. She suffered a fractured skull and burns.

Miss Ruth Bellen, 29, was treated for a fractured spin and burns and Mrs. Minnie Robinson, 49, suffered a fractured skull.

Other injured were Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Willis, burns; J. A. Brewster, 40, broken toe; Mrs. Brewster, 31, fractured ankle and burns; Tom Brewster, 7, and Arthur, 12, slight injuries; Mrs. Retta Turpin, 23, broken ankle; Miss Essie Martin, 21, sprained ankle.

Most of them were hurt when they leaped from second-floor windows and balconies.

Nanking in Darkness During Air Raid Drill

Nanking (Friday), Nov. 29 (AP).—China's capital experienced the thrills of an enemy air raid tonight, without its damaging effects.

The city was plunged in darkness for three hours while authorities staged their first air defense maneuvers designed to prepare the populace for "any eventualities."

was the man who assaulted the child. He insisted he knew nothing about the series of attacks or about Corinna's murder.

Investigators said they traced Redmond through the license number of his automobile, which was given by the girl. Police said the car was found parked three blocks from his home in the 5900 block of Piney Branch road the night of the attack.

Sergt. Ralph Brown, of Hyattsville, led a squad of Baltimore police in surrounding the home of their quarry's father, James E. Redmond. A woman responded when they knocked on the front door and said Victor Redmond was not there.

Climbed Down Pipe.

A few moments later, however, Redmond clambered down the pipe into the arms of police stationed at the rear of the house. Investigation later disclosed he reached the roof through a skylight.

Redmond, questioned about the fact that he was fully clothed at 4 o'clock in the morning, said he had been preparing to return to Washington to report for work in a restaurant where he has been employed 22 years.

A rogue's gallery photograph of Redmond, who has a police record, was submitted to Mrs. Loring after his arrest.

Police quoted the mother as saying she could not be certain, but she believed the prisoner resembled a man employed last June as one of several painters on a house owned by the Lorings in Brentwood, Md.—not the dwelling in which they live.

Other relatives and friends of Corinna were questioned as investigators attempted to learn whether Redmond actually was employed by the Lorings and whether he knew their daughter.

Arrested 8 Times.

Redmond, Washington police reported, was arrested here eight times between July, 1921, and January, 1931, on charges ranging from indecent exposure to assault. He was twice fined $100 in police court and on two other occasions forfeited collateral.

Meanwhile, Lieut. Joseph H. Itzel, of Baltimore, in charge of the Loring investigation, assigned several aids to search wooded sections near Mount Rainier for a dark blue winter hat worn by Corinna just before her disappearance November 4.

The hat was the only article of clothing missing when the girl's wardrobe was inspected by relatives at the request of police.

Investigators, long baffled in their efforts to establish whether Corinna was slain at the spot where her body was discovered on Saddleback Ridge near Mount Rainier, believed discovery of the hat might lead to a new break in the case.

Driver Kills Himself After Traffic Accident

Malden, Mass., Nov. 27 (U.P.).—Apparently motivated by remorse, George R. MacCully, 28, of Medford, shot and killed himself today, police said, after his automobile allegedly had struck a jacked-up car in Medford and critically injured the driver, Joseph Salima, 43, of Cambridge, working beneath the car.

Police said MacCully shot himself in the head near Malden Hospital after he had taken Salima to a Lawrence hospital, reported the collision and gone home, presumably to get the .38-caliber revolver which later was found beside his body by a milkman.

A thousand rounds of .45-caliber pistol ammunition of the type used in army automatics, a smaller quantity of army rifle shells and two cases of dynamite were seized today in a North End home as police sought additional loot obtained in more than 20 burglaries the ring has confessed.

A. F. L. Unions Failed in Test, Lewis Charges

Says Labor's Future Does Not Lie in Craft Organizations.

Craft unions failed in the "crucial test" of their ability to organize the vast mass-production industries, John L. Lewis charged last night in a radio address, in which he upheld the industrial union movement that rocked the American Federation of Labor and resulted in his own resignation as vice president of the federation.

He said that the drive for industrial unionism is an effort to start a labor movement that will "crystallize the best aspiration of those who really wish to serve democracy and humanity."

"It is our purpose," he said, "to encourage the formation of industrial unions, equal in economic strength to management in steel, automobile, rubber, glass, textile, radio and other basic industries.

Jurisdictional Claims Hit.

"We have no opposition to craft unions which are established and successfully functioning. We do not believe that any craft union, however, as in the American Federation of Labor, should be permitted to interfere, through paper jurisdictional claims or othewise, with the organization of the great majority of American wage and salary workers in our basic manufacturing and mining industries."

He contended that the evolution of mass production by machines has brought the need for industrial, rather than craft unions.

"The majority of industrial workers came, in time," he said, "to be composed of the unskilled and the semi-skilled, and the skilled craftsmen of former days were reduced to a small group of pattern, die makers, and machine-maintenance workers."

Then came the test of the ability of the federation to organize mass production industries, he said.

Craft Unions Failed.

"Even under the favoring influence of the Federal Government during the World War or during the great industrial activity extending up to the year 1920," Lewis asserted, "the craft unions were unable to meet this test. Moreover, they also failed utterly during the prosperous era of 1923-1929 to secure any foothold in the big industries. Finally, after the passage of the recovery act of 1933, under the provisions of which the Congress of the United States provided for the guarantee of labor's fundamental right to organize and bargain collectively, and despite the further fact that the exploited workers in many of these industries spontaneously, and on their own initiative, revolted and formed their own unions, the craft unions of the American Federation of Labor made no effort to consolidate these gains, or to establish an organization of their own. On the contrary, they opposed real plans for organization and left the new unions to their fate. In addition, this situation permitted anti-union managements of industry to preempt a large part of the field of organization through the formation of company unions.

"This tragic failure upon the part of the craft unions was a logical outgrowth of their fundamental weaknesses and inabilities. Even though they formed coalitions at times, in the effort to secure unity of action in mass production industries which they were attempting to organize, because of jurisdictional claims arising between the different craft organizations they were unable to develop that unity of purpose which is one of the leading values of industrial unionism and which is indispensable to successful collective bargaining in our basic industries."

Not a Conflict.

He expressed the hope "that the significance of our movement will not be misunderstood."

"It is not a conflict among unions, or a striving for power among organized labor groups," he asserted. "We are working for a labor movement, which will assure a proper future for America."

Declaring that forces are at work that would wipe out the labor movement in this country "just as it was wiped out in Germany, or Italy," he expressed the conviction that "the establishment of industrial unionism involves real recovery and reform; that shorter hours of work and reemployment of the unemployed are dependent upon its success; that it will secure a living wage for all and not profits for the privileged few; that it offers the only way to emancipation from industrial autocracy—to economic and political freedom to those who work by hand or brain."

Delegates Sail For Naval Arms Parley Today

U. S. to Seek Limit Despite Odds Against Curb on More Construction.

By the Associated Press.

America's delegation sails today for the London naval conference, frankly recognizing tremendous odds against success, but determined on an effort to stave off a threatened armaments race.

The United States was represented yesterday as determined to utilize every diplomatic means to carry out President Roosevelt's instructions to oppose sea-power increases that will further pyramid mounting naval costs. The Government was expected to seek agreements to reduce tonnages or maintain existing navies for another five of six year period.

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the delegation, has been drafting the address in which he will set forth American aspirations for the conference in its opening sessions.

Roosevelt at Helm.

He has been guided by instructions from President Roosevelt. During the transatlantic voyage Davis will confer on the final form of the address with the other two delegates—Undersecretary Phillips, of the State Department, and Admiral William W. Standley, chief of naval operations.

The task before the conference, beginning December 6, is that of seeking to limit naval construction after the Washington and London treaties expire on December 31 next year.

While not optimistic of success, American officials hoped the situation that would spring from unrestricted naval construction might eventually force major sea powers into recognizing that some international action should be taken.

The Government also is hopeful that the interchange of views in London may "educate" all concerned and, even though no definite written agreement is achieved, provide some means to avoid translating rivalries into battleships.

The British already have suggested a solution through a series of "gentleman's agreements" concerning limitation of construction of new types of warcraft and armaments, coupled with mutual announcements of proposed building programs.

Until now, however, the Japanese have rejected the proposals unless they are accompanied by designation of a common upper limit of tonnage to which all nations could build. Japan thereby would gain parity.

But in their demand for a fleet equal to that of any other sea power, Japan will encounter opposition from both Great Britain and the United States.

Officials here have emphasized that British interests in the Orient are far greater than American and that Great Britain has opposed granting Japan parity as strenuously as, if not more so than, the United States.

U.S. Finds 10% Ratio of 'False' Ads Broadcast

Trade Commission Reports on Incomplete Study of Continuities.

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Trade Commission said yesterday that about 10 per cent of the radio advertising continuities it has analyzed have been found "possibly false and misleading."

The commission began examination of radio advertising a little over a year ago after many years of study of newspaper and magazine advertising. It has the power to stop false advertising.

Up to June 30, the commission said in its annual report, 439,253 radio continuities had been received. Of these a preliminary review had been completed on 376,539, resulting in 38,873 being set aside as "possibly false and misleading," for further consideration and possible action.

In the magazine field, between January 1 and June 30, 1935, magazines having a circulation of 27,220,061 copies had been received. Up to June 30, the commission said, "a discerning preliminary scrutiny of 1,126 individual current advertisements had been performed, resulting in 284" being reserved for special consideration.

No Newspaper Statistics.

No statistics on newspaper advertisements were given. The magazine advertisements were collected from magazines in special classes. The commission found it unnecessary to "review all the issues of publication of a high ethical standard where the publishers carefully censor all copy before acceptance."

Expanded powers to protect the consumer from unfair industrial and commercial practices were asked of Congress by the commission.

The commission, for years concerned with such practices as they affect competitors within an industry, said in its annual report this authority was insufficient to protect the public.

"This recommendation is made, the commission said, "to give the commission clear jurisdiction over a practice which is unfair or deceptive to the public and is not necessarily unfair to a competitor.

"There are times when such a practice is so universal in an industry that the public is primarily injured rather than individual competitors. In such cases it is very difficult, if not impossible, to show injury to competitors, but the injury to the public is manifest."

Language of Proposed Law.

For example, it was said all members of an industry might represent that an article would do certain things which, in fact, it would not do. Competitors in such a case would not be injured, but the public would.

The proposed new law would read:

"Unfair methods of competition in commerce and unfair or deceptive acts and practices in commerce are hereby declared unlawful." The words, "and unfair or deceptive acts and practices in commerce," would be added to the existing statute.

Observers viewed the proposal as broad, even if limited simply to acts which obviously damage the public. They said that if expanded to cover acts indirectly affecting the consumer, such as those of basic industries several steps removed from retail sale, the commission would be given a major weapon which might exceed some powers of the old NRA.

The commission also recommended that it be given additional powers to prevent price discrimination by getting a clearer view of the extent to which volume buyers of goods may be favored with special discounts. This, the commission said, might involve a requirement that industry report to the commission when it granted discounts not generally known in the trade.

A former recommendation that the commission be given power to prevent one company from acquiring assets of another in the same industry was repeated. At present, the commission has power to prevent the acquisition of stock control, but not actual physical properties.

Child Mother's Joy Symbolizes Day of Thanks

Meal on Holiday Lightens Young Matron's Burden; Many See Games.

Washington's—Indeed, the entire Nation's—observance of Thanksgiving yesterday could have been symbolized in the expression on the face of a child mother who faced a plate of turkey at one of the downtown "handout" stations.

In her crooked left arm lay an infant. With her right, the mother, who could not have been over 17, managed the food which had been given her in exchange for a charity card. Occasionally she would lift a glass of milk to the baby's lips. From course to course, her small, pinched face bore the same smile—of thanksgiving.

The holiday was celebrated in the Capital, as elsewhere, with traditional enthusiasm, in spite of weather that was not of the best. Usually, it rained almost continuously. Aware, snow and frigid temperatures gave Thanksgiving a different aspect in many parts of the country, with Devils Lake, N. Dak., reporting 4 degrees below zero.

The more fortunate among Washington's half million celebrated by topping off their turkey with an afternoon at the football games, the race track, the movies or, in many cases, at home where the belt might be loosened a peg or two with impunity. Nor were the needy forgotten. Thousands of special dinners, in which turkey predominated, were served at missions, District Jail, hospitals and other institutions.

From an "official" standpoint, the city was below its normal strength. President Roosevelt and his family were at Warm Springs, Ga. The Secretaries of State, Commerce, Labor, Navy, Agriculture and Interior spent the day here while the other four Cabinet members were at their homes or elsewhere.

Hopkins Issues Statement.

Here and there a Thanksgiving Day statement was born. As reported by the Associated Press, Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, boasted that "several millions who until recently were on the relief rolls" sat at festal boards; Everett Sanders, G. O. P. leader, was "thankful that Americans are becoming tax-conscious;" Chairman Jesse Jones, of the RFC, saw "greatly improved conditions throughout the country," and C. Bascom Slemp, former secretary to President Coolidge, gave thanks because "we will soon have an opportunity to ask the Republicans to come back home."

Special services were held in churches here and throughout the land, providing a spiritual balance to an observance whose original significance, critics complain, has come to be overshadowed by table gorging and gridiron spectacles. At Plymouth, Mass., where the Pilgrims held the first Thanksgiving 314 years ago, the landing rock was visited by throngs and union services were conducted in Memorial Methodist Church.

In the Capital, there were the annual Pan American mass at St. Patrick's, a co-operative service of four downtown congregations held at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church, a similar mass service at Francis Asbury M. E. Church, an elaborate program at Washington Cathedral, a joint service for Jewish congregations at Ohev Sholom Synagogue and many others.

"None Hungry" Slogan.

"No one shall go hungry on this day," was the byword of the five downtown agencies, the aim of which is to feed, clothe and shelter the indigent—Salvation Army, Central Union Mission, Gospel Mission, Good Samaritans and Volunteers of America.

At the Central Union Mission, Superintendent John S. Bennett said 800 men, women and children were fed a beef loaf dinner between 11 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. A turkey feast was served the 50 children in the mission's emergency home. On Wednesday baskets of food were sent to 350 poor families. At 3:30 p. m. today 125 persons, selected by the mission, will partake of a post-holiday dinner as the guests of Jenner's cafeteria, said Bennett.

At 638 C street northwest, just a block away, Assistant Corporation Counsel May Helm got behind a cafeteria counter and helped serve the 510 women and children who were fed free by the Good Samaritans organization. Several hundred men also were accommodated, but they were required to pay 23 cents or an hour's work for the complete meal, which included roast turkey, gravy and cranberry sauce, three vegetables, soup, dessert and a beverage.

Pork featured the menu at the Gospel Mission, in John Marshall place, where 361 were handled between noon and 2 p. m. More than 300 more were attracted by yesterday's special breakfast and supper. Hundreds more were remembered by the Volunteers of America and the Salvation Army, either by meals on the premises or by bags of food delivered to homes.

About 500 prisoners in District Jail welcomed a fare of roast pork and the 1,400 at Lorton Reformatory further down the river dined on turkey with the customary trimmings.

Among the post-holiday affairs intended for relief of the poor are two theater benefits arranged by the Good Samaritans. They will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, one at the Tivoli and the other at the Avalon. Admission price will be 35 cents and the entire proceeds will go to assist destitute children, it was announced.

Nationally, as recorded by the Associated Press, Thanksgiving Day brought joy, tragedy, comedy and fear.

Five Cleveland families received checks aggregating $90.60 from a former bandit, serving a 55-year term in the Ohio Penitentiary, who is eager to compensate his victims. His name is Joseph Russell, but he was more popularly known as the "gentle bandit" when police caught up with him eight years ago when he was 15.

Youngsters Eat Turkey Carved By President

Roosevelt Heads the Table With Family of 350 at Warm Springs.

ness over the use of the $1,000,000 raised at "someone's birthday ball" recently, pointing out that none of this sum had gone to Warm Springs. He said that $700,000 was being used in local communities to aid the recovery of infantile paralysis sufferers while the remaining $300,000 was distributed for the promotion of research work seeking to find ways of stopping epidemics of the disease.

Research into the causes and cure of infantile paralysis, the President said, was one field of medical research that was at last adequately financed, due to the generosity of the American people.

All were in the hall when the President entered, leaning on the arm of his eldest son, James Roosevelt. Adding to the excitement of the children over seeing the President was the work of the motion picture cameramen as they photographed Mr. Roosevelt carving turkey.

Some of the children found it difficult to see everything at once—the clicking cameras, the flashes of light and the President carving. For the moment these little patients forgot even Gus Gennerich, the former New York police sergeant, who is the President's personal bodyguard. Gus, their second hero and their playmate around the foundation campus, was there helping this or that one to a better view of what was happening.

When the picture-taking was done, however, the former police sergeant was saluted with cries of "Hey, Gus——hi, Gus!" And then the business of eating turkey, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, peas, harvester salad, plum pudding and ice cream and cake began in earnest.

But the turkey dinner was just half of the party. G. Fred Botts, one of the patients who holds a managerial position, took charge as master of ceremonies, leading community singing, in which President and Mrs. Roosevelt joined. There was a tableau, depicting Thanksgiving Day many years ago, when the Indians came to Warm Springs for their health and amid cries of joy the several hundred balloons overhead were showered down on guests.

Portrait Presented.

A more serious note of the evening was the presentation to the Warm Springs Foundation of a portrait of its first physician, Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard. The portrait, painted by Miss E. Leslie Emmet, was presented by former patients of the resort and was accepted by the President on behalf of the founders.

Earlier in the day the trustees of the Foundation held their annual meeting. Many of these, including Henry L. Doherty, the public utilities magnate; Leighton McCarthy, of Toronto; Keith Morgan, of New York; George Foster Peabody, of Saratoga Springs, and Cason J. Calloway and Cator Woolford, both of Georgia, attended tonight's party.

The President worked most of the day on the address he will deliver tomorrow at the Georgia "homecoming" demonstration in Atlanta.

The 13-year-old boy who held the knife which took William's life is being held at the Receiving Home. He will appear at the inquest.

Funeral services for the dead boy will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Methodist Episcopal Church at Potomac, Md. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Berlin, Nov. 28 (AP).—Germany elevated German legations to Argentina, Brazil and Chile to the status of embassies today. The three South American nations similarly raised their respective envoys to Berlin to the rank of ambassadors.

Colorful Mass Is Celebrated In St. Patrick's

Rev. Connell Is Preacher; Diplomats, Churchmen Mingle at Rites.

Diplomats and churchmen mingled in the colorful annual Pan-American pontifical high mass at St. Patrick's Church yesterday morning.

The Rev. Francis Connell, C. S. S. R., professor of dogma at the Redemptorist House of Studies Esopus, N. Y., preached the sermon on "The Divine Plan of Human Government."

Solemn high mass was sung by the Most Rev. Amleto Cicognani, apostolic delegate.

"It is a basic principle of Catholic ethics that every civil society has been established as a means to the common welfare of its citizens," Father Connell said.

"The state is for the citizen, not the citizen for the state. The reason is because every member of society has an immortal soul by virtue of which he will live forever, whereas every government will pass away.

"In our own days we have seen great nations establish absolute governments; we have witnessed the revival of the theory that the state is an end unto itself and possesses sovereign jurisdiction over every detail of the lives of its citizens.

"Under a government of this type the individual is a mere impersonal unit of a vast organization which considers itself bound by no obligations either to God or man. It proves convincingly that when rulers of a nation reject an omnipotent God they soon aspire to be omnipotent themselves."

Nazi Ultimatum Hits Confessional Synod

Berlin, Nov. 28 (AP).—Hans Kerrl, head of the Nazi department of church affairs, issued an ultimatum today to the Confessional Synod (Protestant opposition) that unless it co-operated with his church committee the synod would be dissolved Monday.

100,000 to Join Atlanta's Fete For Roosevelt

Clear Weather Due Today; Supporters Meet to Map State Fight.

By the Associated Press.

Atlanta, Nov. 28.—Georgia will put on a big home-coming celebration here tomorrow in honor of President Roosevelt.

Forecasts of a clear day brought prediction tonight that more than 100,000 visitors will come to Atlanta for the day.

A festive air with a political undertone prevailed as early arrivals thronged bunting-bedecked streets, with Young Democrats holding a get-together in advance of tomorrow's program.

There was activity among Roosevelt friends who seek a preferential primary in Georgia in 1936 and a Roosevelt-instructed delegation to the national Democratic convention.

Bid by Talmadge.

Roosevelt leaders swung into action after interpreting actions of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, outspoken critic of the New Deal, as forerunner of the effort to head the delegation to the national convention without a primary.

Talmadge is in control of the State's Democratic executive committee, which has the power to name the convention delegation without a primary.

The Governor had himself named national committeeman following the death of Maj. John S. Cohen and had Mrs. Susie T. Moore, one of his leaders, named to the woman's committee post.

Although the committee is empowered to name convention delegates without a primary, preferential primaries have been the rule in the past. Mr. Roosevelt was an overwhelming victor in his last race.

Supporters Meet.

Roosevelt supporters on the State committee meet tomorrow before Mr. Roosevelt arrives from his vacation retreat at Warm Springs. At this session they plan to formulate a campaign to arouse sentiment for the primary in event Talmadge's friends on the committee outvote them when a meeting is held to decide the issue.

Mrs. Roosevelt is scheduled to attend a reception of Democratic women during the afternoon. This assembly also will have a political note.

Gov. Talmadge, delivering a fresh broadside at the New Deal yesterday in an address at nearby Villa Rica, branded the entire celebration a "political convention."

Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication what he will talk about in his 30-minute address at Grant Field, Georgia Tech's athletic stadium. His address will be broadcast by Atlanta stations WSB and WGST, and the national hookups of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System. The address will be between 1 p. m. and 1:30 p. m. C. S. T.

Merchants and hotel men scanned the weather report and estimated a crowd of 100,000 would boost their day's business by $1,000,000.

The Georgia delegation in Congress is sponsoring the celebration in honor of Mr. Roosevelt, the eighth President to pay a formal call here.

British Flier Brings Midget Plane to U. S.

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—A British flier brought with him on the Manhattan today a one-man plane which he said weighs 350 pounds, costs $350 and will fly 45 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

The midget has a 19½-foot wing spread and can be built by the purchaser from a knocked-down set of parts, Sydney Arram, who plans to exhibit the craft, said. Its maximum speed is 75 miles an hour. It was designed by Henri Mignet, of France.

Derns at Wake Island For Thanksgiving

By the Associated Press.

A Thanksgiving dinner on distant Wake Island, which included turkey, fresh American tomatoes and ice cream, was served Secretary of War and Mrs. George H. Dern.

The War Department was advised by radio that the Cabinet couple stopped off to spend the day on the small isle in mid-Pacific while en route home on the cruiser Chester from Manila.

So enthusiastic were they at their dinner that the Secretary sent a radiogram to Juan Trippe, president of Pan American Airways, which maintains a station at Wake Island.

The message carried a footnote that the food for the repast was delivered by the China Clipper.

Secretary Dern was taken on a fishing trip after his dinner. Mrs. Dern was the second white woman ever to land on Wake Island. The first was the wife of a member of the air base installation crew.

Gifts to Chest Still Come In; Goal Hoped For Donations Before Dec. 5 Will Be Counted in Final Total.

Belated contributions to the Community Chest are still trickling in and may yet boost collections to the unattained goal of $1,877,900.

Herbert L. Willet, jr., director, said that any gifts received before December 5 will be counted in the final total. As a result campaign groups are seeking to reach or pass their quotas by that time.

Donations announced yesterday included:

An additional $100 from Mr. and Mrs. John St. Clair Brookes, jr., bringing their pledge up to $150; $400 from Karl D. Loos, $100 from Butler, Pope, Ballard & Loos, $250 from Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hamilton, jr., $40 from Mrs. Fred L. Chapin, $20 from Isadore Breslaw, $30 from Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Wolf, additional pledge of $150 from the estate of Milton Hopfenmaeir making a total pledge of $500; pledge of $25 from the Sisterhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, additional pledge of $25 from Sigma Omega, Pi and a $100 pledge from a New York firm which prefers to remain anonymous.

Johnson Aids Silent On Guild 'Blackballing'

By the Associated Press.

Representatives of Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA chief who now is a newspaper columnist, declined yesterday to comment on the Washington Newspaper Guild's refusal to admit Johnson as a member.

In a report which the guild adopted Wednesday night, Johnson was assailed as "the most notorious strike-breaker in the United States."

Johnson, his representatives said, could not be reached for comment."

Direct Relief, Short of Goal, Will End Dec. 1

New Deal Plans to Balance Budget in 1938; Cities Complain of Burden.

By the Associated Press.

The Capital cocked an eye last night toward December 1—deadline for ending direct Federal relief to "employables"—for a hint on budget-balancing prospects for next year.

Chairman Buchanan (Democrat), of Texas, of the House Appropriations Committee, has forecast that "if" President Roosevelt asks for more direct relief money, "it would not be over a billion."

The drive to put 3,500,000 "employables" to work through the $4,000,000,000 appropriated this year, however, appeared still short of its December 1 goal.

Latest figures listed 2,367,242 at work November 16, and Administrator Harry L. Hopkins recently estimated 80,000 more were being provided jobs each work day.

States Complain.

States and cities were complaining, coincidentally, that they would be unable to take over the direct relief burden of their "unemployables" and those "employables" not absorbed in the Federal program or by private industry.

Despite President Roosevelt's recent assurance to mayors that the Federal Government does not intend to let anyone starve, Buchanan said he would oppose new appropriations for the dole after the $4,000,000,000 is exhausted.

The appropriations chairman also said it was his personal objective to come within $500,000,000 of balancing the budget in the 1937 fiscal year beginning next July 1 with the approximately $4,500,000,000 in estimated revenues, and to have the outgo equal income in the 1938 fiscal year.

Still "Too High."

This presumably would leave roughly $1,500,000,000 for the "recovery and relief" column in the financial year of 1937, since "regular" expenditures now are in the neighborhood of $3,500,000,000.

Although Mr. Roosevelt has said estimates of regular expenditures had been trimmed by $400,000,000, Buchanan said frankly they were still too high for his own goal.

Two great uncertainties also remained—the possibility that the Supreme Court will invalidate processing taxes, and the prospect that Congress may order immediate cash payment of the bonus.

Mr. Roosevelt has implied new taxes may be asked if there is necessity to obtain the approximately $500,000,000 brought in annually by processing taxes from some other source. The bonus payment would bring a $2,000,000,000 expenditure into the picture.

'Mad Killer' Hunted In Officer's Death

Girl's Story Implicates Two in Bandit Gang.

By the Associated Press.

Indianapolis, Nov. 28.—A gun battle at Richmond, home territory of Willard Carson, Indiana's mad killer, and statements by Janet Henderson, 21, of Chicago, sent State police to all parts of Indiana today in their search for slayers of Frank M. (Pete) Levy, Anderson policeman.

The Henderson girl, a ruddy-faced blonde, was brought here today from Vincennes, where she was arrested yesterday and where she said two men companions were implicated in the Levy slaying.

Capt. Matt Leach placed her in the Marion County Jail and immediately left for Kokomo, Anderson and other cities to check her story of wanderings of a bandit gang which she claims had a part in the killing of the policeman.

The search for Carson, wanted almost ten years for the murder of his father, turned back to Richmond, a few miles from Carson's former home, after police there engaged in a gunfight this morning with two men and a woman. Police expressed the belief the trio may have included Carson.

Washingtonian, 5 Others Killed In Auto Crashes

engaged in the mechanical side of the construction of the Panama Canal. Subsequently he was a machinist at the Navy Yard.

Two students, James W. Price, 21, of Stuart, Va., a senior at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and William Young, 22, of Roanoke, were hurt in the crash that killed Fortune and Miss Otey.

The young people were returning to Roanoke from Blacksburg after a dance, according to the Associated Press, when the car sidewiped a truck driven by Sherman Royall, of Cambria. It then ran several hundred feet and turned over, one of the occupants being thrown into the river.

State police said the auto belonged to Fortune, a graduate of 1934, V. P. I., and was being driven by Young. Price said he was asleep when the crash occurred. He was not injured seriously.

Crash Occurs at Bridge.

The accident happened on a curve at the west approach of a bridge over the Roanoke River on the east limits of Elliston. The officers said that the car apparently was traveling at high speed, judging from the distance it traveled after grazing Royall's truck.

Miss Otey was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Otey, of Roanoke.

Six persons, three from Washington, were sent to Emergency Hospital by a crash on the Washington-Richmond highway in Virginia Highlands.

The injured, all colored, are:

James Beasley, 28, of 1834 Ninth street northwest, possible fractured hip; William Robb, 23, of 2903 Georgia avenue northwest, possible fractured pelvis; Lessie Comback, 35, of New York City, broken left wrist; Wade Holland, 42, of 7644 Irving street northwest, possible fractured pelvis; Marie Comback, 5, of New York City, minor lacerations, and Wheeler Barton, New York City, fractured right arm.

Beasley, Robb and Holland were removed to Gallinger Hospital.

Cars Meet Head-on.

Police were unable to ascertain immediately the details of the accident beyond the fact that two cars crashed head-on near Twenty-third street in the heart of the town.

Five persons were hurt, two seriously, in two other automobile mishaps on the Lynchburg highway near the scene of the Lyle accident within an hour after it occurred.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Perkins, 52, of Alfred, Me., suffered a concussion of the brain when the car in which she was driving skidded over a 15-foot embankment. Mrs. Harry M. Bryant, of Ocean Park, Me., a passenger in the Perkins' car, received cuts on the face and head.

Mrs. Leroy Andrews, of Philadelphia, received a serious spinal injury while her husband and a passenger, Miss Paulla Harris, of Easton, Pa., were hurt slightly when a machine driven by Andrews plunged over an embankment.

Two Hurt, Driver Arrested.

Two women were injured seriously and a motorist was arrested for reckless driving in a collision at Fifteenth street and North Carolinia avenue northeast last night. The women are Bertha L. Cross, 50, of 1621 G street southeast, and Bernice Shuey, 18, of 518 Ninth street northeast. Both suffered possible brain concussions and were taken to Casualty Hospital.

Clayton W. McAllister, 23, of 3030 Ninth street northeast, was taken into custody at the Ninth Precinct. Moses L. Harris, 35, 2611 Otis street northeast, was released. Neither man was injured.

A hit-skip driver bowled over three colored persons on Benning road between Central avenue and C street southeast. One of them, Joseph Coleman, 20, of 629 W street northwest, suffered a possible fracture of the skull. He was taken to Casualty Hospital.

John L. Turner, 28, colored, 1304 Q street northwest, was thrown from his machine as it struck a police patrol box after a collision with a hit-run auto at Q street and New Jersey avenue northwest. He was in Freedman's Hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Charles Singleton, 46, of 1600 Eckington place northeast, suffered a possible fracture of the hip when he was struck by an auto on North Capitol street. Police said Thomas McDaniel, 21, of 630 Massachusetts avenue, was the driver of the machine. Singleton was removed to Gallinger Hospital.

Tugwell's Car in Collision.

The automobile of Rexford Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, was involved in a crash on Rock Creek Parkway, just south of P street, about 1:30 o'clock.

Richard Sutton, of 2008 F street northwest, said to be Tugwell's chauffeur, was driving the Government car, which United States park police said appeared to have been on the wrong side of the road.

Hurt in Ickes Crash, Mrs. Herrick Returns

Tax Collections Net $200,000 In Alexandria

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Collections of the second half of real estate taxes and personal property taxes for 1935 have so far amounted to approximately $200,000, according to Purvis Taylor, city collector. This amount is said to be considerably in excess of that collected by this time last year, although the exact figures are not yet available. Many checks were received by mail, and these will add considerably to the total.

The dead-line for payment of taxes was extended by the city council from November 15 to November 25, because a very short time had elapsed between the mailing of the bills and the original dead-line.

In cases where payment has been made of the first half of real estate taxes, a penalty of 1 per cent until December 31 will be added; if the first half has not been paid, there is a penalty and a graduated scale of interest added.

The personal property taxes are for the entire year. They are not divided as the real estate tax is, and the penalty for nonpayment of this tax will become effective immediately.

The Rev. Thomas William Hooper, grand master of Masons in Virginia, paid a visit to Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons last night, at the regular communication held in the Cameron street Masonic Temple.

Austria to Forego Profits of the War

By the Associated Press.

Vienna, Nov. 28.—Baron Egon Berger-Waldenberg, foreign minister, told the federal Diet today that Austria will not take advantage of the opportunity to make war profits through non-participation in League of Nation's sanctions.

"We will not misuse our special position," he said.

He recalled that the treaty of peace concluded at the end of the World War forbade the exportation of war materials and munitions from Austria, and said "observation of these treaty stipulations is being watched by the government."

Austria is in effect abiding by the sanctions, the foreign minister added, because the country's trade balance with Italy is favorable and money therefore flows from Italy to Austria.

This clarification of Austria's foreign policy was made shortly before the arrival of Julius Goemboes and Koloman von Kanya, respectively, premier and foreign minister of Hungary.

Informed quarters stated the Hungarian statesmen came to discuss the prevailing agitation for restoration of the Hapsburgs to the Austrian throne, problems arising from sanctions, Autro-Hungarian trade relations and the significance of the expected resignation of President Thomas Masaryk of Czechoslovakia.

Republican Chairmen Named In Montgomery Election District

8 Precincts Are Included in Choices for Wheaton Voting Area.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
1111 Oak Ave., Silver Spring, Md.
Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Republican precinct chairmen for the Eighth Precinct of the Thirteenth, or Wheaton, Election District of Montgomery County were announced yesterday by Dr. C. C. Galloway, member of the Republican State central committee for Montgomery County from that district.

Appointments in the Takoma Park precincts are: DeWitt W. Zook, Fourth Precinct; John W. Coffman, Sixth; Mrs. Laurel G. Walker, Ninth. Silver Spring chairmen are: George F. Mergell, Second; Elmer E. Boyner, Fifth; Mrs. Helen L. Koch, Seventh; Mrs. Esther L. Fleishell, Eighth.

Wilson L. Townsend was named chairman of the Third Precinct at Kensington. The chairman of the First Precinct at Wheaton will be announced later.

Comparing the policies of the present Administration with the methods used in Russia in the early days of Communist control, Mme. Julia Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Grant, addressed a meeting of the Montgomery County Federation of Republican Women at the home of Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman in Bethesda.

Mme. Cantacuzene declared those who advocate communism in this country fail to tell the whole story. They paint pictures of a Utopia that cannot exist, and their main obsession seems to be to upset the orderly processes of Government much as a child spills a bottle of ink, for no gain, but from pure mischievousness, the former princess said.

Declaring it is estimated there are 3,000,000 alien criminals, agitators and persons illegally here, Mme. Cantacuzene urged that pressure be brought on Secretary of Labor Perkins and on Congress to have them deported. Their presence in the country adds to the burden of relief and unemployment, she said.

Ralph S. Fowler, chairman of the Montgomery County Liquor Control Board, spoke on the policies of the control board. He said the board is striving to prevent sale of liquor to intoxicated persons and minors. Mr. Fowler deprecated the complainants who refuse to testify against violators of the liquor laws, yet insist that violators be punished. He estimated that $60,000 will accrue in revenue to the county this year from the control board's dispensary system.

Gov. Nice, of Maryland, and other State and Federal officials are asked to expedite construction of the grade-crossing elimination at Kensington in a resolution adopted by the local chamber of commerce.

The resolution brands the grade crossing as extremely hazardous and appeals to the Governor, the State roads commission, Maryland's representatives in Congress and Public Works Administration officials to start work on the project immediately, pointing out that the PWA already has made an allocation of $145,000 for this program.

The chamber also has forwarded a resolution to the board of county commissioners asking for a reply to a previous request for an expression of opinion on a location for a junior high school in Kensington. Another resolution commends the county board of education for approving a junior high school and placing it at the head of the list for future construction. The county commissioners, however, control the construction program and their approval is required before the school can be built.

The Sligo Park Hills (Md.) Citizens Association went on record favoring four civic matters of Silver Spring area at a meeting at Jesup Blair Community House, Silver Spring, Md.

Resolutions were adopted favoring the 2-cent tax for the Silver Spring Public Library, asking for the rezoning of the commercial section about the Montgomery-Blair High School; P.-T. A of the Montgomery-Blair school resolution of urging paving of the road leading from Dale drive to the school, and indorsing a petition of the P.-T. A. of the Takoma-Silver Spring Junior High School asking the Montgomery board of education for immediate improvement of the water in the basement of the school.

George Webster, chairman of the streets and roads committee, said the road condition at the Jesup Blair High School was a hazard to children attending the school. Mr. Webster also spoke of water rising in the locker room of the Takoma-Silver Spring School, caused by springs under the school foundation. The association voted to send letters to the county commissioners and the members of the board of education. The association indorsed the dental clinic of the public health lay committee, to be established in Rockville in January.

William Wight was appointed chairman of the transportation committee in place of Richard Barker, who recently moved from the community. The next meeting will be held December 17.

Christmas Seal Drive Started In Arlington

More Than 6,000 Tuberculosis Stamps Already Are in Mails.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With more than 6,000 seals in the mails, the annual Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale was launched in Arlington County yesterday under direction of Mrs. Myrtle Melnick, county chairman.

Mrs. R. N. Davies, public health nurse, said it should be looked upon as a great privilege to purchase and use the tuberculosis seals.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, declared he knew of no greater work being done in Arlington County than that which is made possible from the funds derived from the sale of the seals.

"Illness is the greatest cause of depression and there is no disease that has any greater bearing on poverty than tuberculosis. I appeal to the citizens of the county to purchase their seals from the organization in the county in order that the money they spend will be used to relieve suffering within the county," he said.

The county board at its meeting today at the courthouse will determine upon a definite policy as to methods to be used in making connections from homes to county sewerage system lines, according to County Manager Roy S. Braden.

Other matters to be considered will be the proposal for a central postoffice for Arlington County. Braden says he has requested representatives of the Postoffice Department to appear before the board and answer any questions that might be asked on the subject.

The Arlington County Monarch Club luncheon meeting will be held today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

The Greater Need.

Chairman Buchanan, of the House Appropriations Committee, believes that the Federal budget can be brought within $800,000,000 of balancing during the coming fiscal year by careful pruning and by refusing to make further appropriations for direct relief purposes. He rightly asserts that the sooner the country faces the necessity of transferring responsibility for care of the destitute back to the State and local governments the better for everyone. As business improves, local revenues for meeting direct relief needs increase, while demands for aid become less pressing. But so long as the Federal Government remains in the field, the process of transferring relief workers to private employment will lag because of the absence of local pressure to economize.

Of course, precautions must be taken to minimize hardships resulting from a sudden and decisive withdrawal of Federal direct aid. But the greater need is realization that the country is confronted by a situation that requires resolute action. Even after elimination of direct relief appropriations, the deficit for the coming year would be huge. Moreover, if AAA processing taxes should be invalidated or if the veterans' bonus should be voted, the country would find the goal of a balanced budget receding even farther into the background.

Representative Buchanan is fully aware of the obstacles which he confronts in attempting to eliminate the Federal dole and in trying to prevent new raids on the Treasury. He deserves the support of all far-seeing citizens in his campaign to translate demands for a balanced budget into a definite economy program that really holds a guarantee of national fiscal stability.

Co-operative Litigation.

The SEC is bringing suit against the Electric Bond & Share Co. and five subsidiary holding companies to compel registration under the holding company act. But in so doing the commission takes pains to explain that it has singled out this company because it provides an excellent test of the constitutionality of a highly complex law. Elucidation of the statute seems to be the only motive in this as well as other utility prosecutions envisaged by the Government. And the utilities, for their part, state with emphasis that desire to speed final decision on the validity of the act is the only motive behind their recalcitrant attitude toward immediate registration.

The bitter hostility manifest while the holding company legislation was being pushed through Congress stands in striking contrast to the moderation, even good-will, which has been in evidence in the contest between the SEC and the companies that have elected temporarily to disregard the registration provisions of the law. Attorney General Cummings has stated that there will be no criminal prosecutions pending settlement of the constitutional issues, and the SEC has done its best to persuade the companies that they will forfeit no constitutional rights of defense by complying with the simple registration statements. Moreover, failure to register is not regarded as evidence of recalcitrancy but is accepted as a legitimate method for speeding a decision as to the law's validity.

If Government enforcement agencies had throughout been as eager to determine the constitutional limits of their regulatory powers in the courts as the SEC appears to be, the country would have been spared a great deal of the justified nervousness and uncertainty which has hampered business in its recovery efforts.

Dr. Pearson's Successor.

At the recent meeting in Washington of the National Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities a resolution was unanimously adopted memoralizing the "unselfish, loyal and constructive leadership" of Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, retiring after 20 years as a member, and 17 years as chairman, of the association's executive committee. Thus did educational spokesmen from all sections of the country register their esteem of the man who not long ago was relieved of his duties as president of the University of Maryland.

As yet, his permanent successor to the executive chair at College Park has not been named. Present conjectures are undoubtedly premature. But the honor paid to Dr. Pearson should automatically eliminate several possible contestants from the field. It stands to reason that his successor will have to be a man who can command the national academic esteem just shown for the former president, in addition to possessing the qualities which it was said he lacked.

An appointment of any other character, as the Board of Regents will be quick to recognize, would obviously mean that the University of Maryland is going down, not up, in the scale of educational institutions.

Making Insurance Work.

Adequate, yet simple, registration procedure is essential to a successful unemployment insurance system. And in moving to make its registration requirements conform with both these attributes the District Unemployment Compensation Commission is going far to eliminate future impediments to the smooth operation of the local scheme.

The clumsiest and least satisfactory method of registration is that of a periodic governmental census of the unemployed, fortunately no longer seriously discussed. By the time such a tabulation is completed it is out of date. Even its momentary statistical value is questionable because of the difficulty in obtaining any uniform definition of unemployment.

Emphasis upon registration of the employed—rather than the unemployed—is the necessary first step in launching an insurance system. This is because benefits for the individual who loses his job are made contingent upon his having "earned" them through prior employment. If benefits are paid without relation to prior employment the system is not insurance, but doles under another name.

Registration by employers, of course, is only an entering wedge to solution of the problem of those who have no employer. But as employment certificates are prepared for those with work the totally unemployed and unemployable groups are gradually segregated. For them some form of direct relief remains essential. But this must be kept distinct from the relief afforded by earned insurance benefits, or else the latter system will collapse.

The local authorities, therefore, are properly working out plans for an employer registration of all Washingtonians eligible under the unemployment insurance act. And instead of the universal card-index classification at first suggested it is now proposed to differentiate between permanent and casual employes. For the former only summary periodic reports would be required. For the latter, more likely to become unemployed, there would be detailed monthly reports to the compensation board.

Since the board desires comment before the evolving scheme is finally adopted it may be pointed out that the vital part of the plan is the separation report.

This must show, when a man leaves work, how much employment there is to his credit and why he was discharged. The report must be checked when he applies for insurance benefit. And to make the system really effective eligibility to benefit must also be made contingent on willingness to accept other suitable employment, if available. To provide this test unemployment insurance benefits should always be paid through the public employment exchanges, where reliable proof of whether or not the applicant is work-shy can be obtained.

The unemployed are not an unchanging body. In time registration of the employed will cover nearly all local workers except those who may properly be classified as unemployable. For them direct relief will have to be continued. For the others unemployment insurance should gradually become the scientific alternative to slapdash FERA methods.

But this desirable end can only be achieved if registration of the employed is thorough, which means simple in application; if insurance is rigorously confined to those who have earned it, and if it is paid only in conjunction with a work-test at the employment exchanges.

Without such essential safeguards the whole social security structure is likely to prove merely another costly disappointment, the more so because of over-advertisement.

Lean Literature.

The literary philosophies of H. G. Wells and Thornton Wilder are far from being in conformity. Wilder, engrossed "with the mystery of death and judgment" is eternally asking "Why?" The Wellsian attitude, of the essence of which Utopias are made, is "Why not?" Yet in his latest book, Wells has adopted two of his contemporary's pet theories. One is that the novel, as an artistic medium, is slowly yielding to the drama. The other, and more important, is that life is best portrayed by "action without comment."

Mr. Wells has just sold to an American publisher a motion-picture scenario that will come out in book form exactly as it stands. Even the directions for the cameramen will be included. His hero, Mr. Fotheringay, is a man who performs miracles with a few magic words. A sample of Mr. Wells' literary skeleton, which clearly demonstrates the encroachment of playwriting upon the novel, goes like this: "Close-up of Mr. Fotheringay's amazement. He keeps his hand out; mouth open."

Such terseness has attractive elements, particularly by contrast with intentionally digressive writing. But from the viewpoint of reader enjoyment it leaves much to be desired. Though life itself may be considered "action without comment," it does not naturally follow that literature is so definable. Sparseness of phrase is highly commendable. But only an author who employs lean sentences with artistry can hope, like Mr. Fotheringay, to "perform miracles with a few magic words."

A Cavalier Attitude.

The Iron and Steel Institute has decided not to be represented at the conference called by Maj. Berry, co-ordinator for industrial co-operation, to discuss means for furthering recovery and increasing employment in private industry. In declining the invitation to participate in the discussion the executive secretary of the Institute stated that leaders in the industry believe that "recovery would be hampered rather than helped by any further legislation designed to regiment business enterprise." For that reason, he explained, the Institute thought it inadvisable to take part in conferences which "appear to be planned for the purpose of discussing possible future legislative measures."

Maj. Berry has made it clear that attendance implies no indorsement of plans for reviving the NRA, nor does it commit those present to advocacy of any kind of legislative program. Organized labor will be well represented at the conference, prepared to urge proposals whose passage would necessitate new types of Federal regulation of industry. Moreover, the downfall of NRA makes it imperative to review the position of organized industrial groups subjected once more to the rigid prohibitions of the antitrust laws. Many industries are far from satisfied with existing conditions.

Consequently Congress will doubtless be called upon to consider various plans for altering the character of Federal regulatory laws affecting industry. If efficiently organized groups, such as the steel industry, remain aloof from the preliminary conference called by Maj. Berry to discuss the problems that have arisen with the demise of the NRA, they will forfeit a chance to influence the character of future legislation. They may also find that they have left the field open to advocates of restrictive legislation permitting little scope for self-regulation of industry.

Moreover, trade associations in the position of the Iron and Steel Institute can hardly afford to risk incurring the hostility of Government officials at this juncture. Secretary Ickes, for instance, has repeatedly charged that steel companies (members of the Institute) make identical bids on public works projects. In his opinion, that practice indicates price collusion, and shows a disposition to overcharge the Government.

An organization representing virtually the entire industry and professing to be jealous of maintaining high standards of trade practice should be prepared to suppress or disprove the existence of alleged abuses of this sort. Otherwise its insistence upon the adequacy of self-regulation fails totally to carry conviction. In any case, there are many reasonable forms of price and production control designed to curb destructive competition which are illegitimate under existing laws and, if carried on, render trade association members liable to prosecution.

It would have been strategically wiser, to say the least, for the trade associations that are absenting themselves from the conference to have been less complacent and less confident of their ability to function efficiently without Federal legislation re-defining the relations between government and organized industries. Liberalization of existing laws is needed, and the best way to secure it is for industrial leaders to cooperate in developing a constructive program for submission to Congress.

The End Of A Death Trap.

With traffic fatalities continually mounting, the opening of bids for construction of a viaduct over the railroad tracks at Kensington, now scheduled for next month, will be a welcome bit of news. In spite of difficulties, the Maryland State roads commission and the PWA are determined to proceed with the project. Anyone realizing the existing dangers at this grade-crossing will agree that these bodies are entitled to the personal gratitude of many people in the Washington area.

Traffic officials are baffled at the increasing toll of highway accidents, in spite of the mechanical improvement of automobiles, more rigid law enforcement and anti-accident campaigns. Appalling tragedies follow in the wake of motor vehicles, regardless of these efforts. It is apparent that no single remedy will be found. But some notable hazards can be removed, and foremost among them are grade-crossings. Many times the sums available for grade-crossing elimination might be profitably spent to remove death traps similar to the one at Kensington.

Give And Take In Tariff Treatics.

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When it comes to tariff agreements, Lincoln's much-quoted saying should be revised to read: "You can't please all of the people all of the time." The new pact with Canada pleases most of the people in this country, who foresee increased exports, hence more employment, hence greater buying power and greater demand for all domestic products. The National Grange and several other farm organizations are displeased, however. It is true that other fields are more greatly benefited than that of agricultural production in this particular treaty. But the Roosevelt Administration has negotiated six other reciprocal tariff agreements since it took office, with Cuba, Haiti, Belgium, Sweden, Brazil and Colombia. In all these, farm products get treatment more advantageous than other commodities.

Someone's toes are always trodden on in setting up a new tariff schedule. No system has yet been devised for selling abroad without buying foreign wares in return. The criterion for judgment must be the greatest good to the greatest number, and not the protests of a few.

Philippine Suggestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is appropriate to say that the new Philippine Commonwealth is merely a Filipinization of the insular government, which is but a short step from the former position, since over 98 per cent of the personnel are already Filipinos. For this Filipinization the Philippines get an American high commissioner, who will act as guardian of American authority, and they surrender two precious privileges—the free and unrestricted energy of their products into the United States and immunity of Filipinos from the operation of the American immigration laws.

Knowing the psychology of my own people, however, I am confident that the present Commonwealth government will continue after the ten-year transition period. Many intelligent Filipinos are now advocating a relationship based on mutual advantage and built on political equality, with no separation, a political status similar to that of the self-governing members of the British Commonwealth of nations.

To America the Philippines could serve as a source of tropical raw materials, a market for American goods and a base for the promotion and protection of America's vital interests in the Orient. To the Philippines association with America could mean protection from external aggression, economic advantages, political privileges and cultural opportunities.

Far Northeast's Needs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The lack of representation in the national resources committee by citizens of the District of Columbia is the cause of many miscarriages in allotting the benefits of taxation and PWA and WPA projects.

One recent glaring case of discrimination is the failure of the local authorities to give any portion of more than $2,000,000 for land and its improvement for recreational areas and play grounds to the far Northeastern portion of the District. When the proposed improvements are made, the far Northeast will be the only area having no parks, recreational area and playgrounds. This area covers three and one-half square miles and has a population of about 20,000.

The purchase and development of Watts Run Parkway is the key to the solution of our most pressing problems and which would be greatly advanced by the participation of local representation in the work of the national resources committee. HOWARD D. WOODSON.
Washington, Nov. 23.

Problem Of Peace.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Both we and the League have failed to face the most vital problem of peace—the need of growing nations for access to raw materials. We have left this problem wholly to German, Japanese and Italian militarists to tackle in their own time-honored fashion. But so long as we do not solidify the ranks of the land-satiated nations by backing the League verdict and its sanctions, we are still free to speak out on the hitherto unrecognized root of modern warfare.

Secretary Hull's labors in building up reciprocal trade relations and his recent allusion to the problem of internationalizing access to raw materials would lose all meaning and promise if we took the wrong way out of the "dilemma of neutrality." And they are all the poorer in meaning today because of the sinister silence that surrounds our virtual protectorate of Mexican persecution. W. T. M. GAMBLE.
Washington, Nov. 22.

Opposes Canadian Treaty.

To The Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest your editorial in last Thursday's issue on "Premature Protests." I notice that you have an occasional pro-New Deal editorial in The Post, but I am amazed at your line of reasoning. It sounds as though it were written by Secretary Hull or some other free trader.

The writer will speak of only one "special interest," of which he has some knowledge, the dairy industry, having owned a dairy farm in New York State for many years. The dairy farmer is the underdog of agriculture. He has been paid nothing to reduce production and wants nothing, except the American market. He works ten to fourteen hours, 365 days a year, producing the best food known to the human race and at the same time keeping up the fertility of the soil to feed future generations. He is, therefore, more deserving of governmental interest and solicitude than any other type of farmer, who works only a few months a year.

Milk is the principal product of the Eastern farmer. Just now they are working to bring the six States comprising the New York City milk shed into one organization in order to better conditions, and now comes along President Roosevelt, smiling, with a club in his hand in the form of this trade agreement with Canada to knock the dairy farmer in the head.

We have been killing cattle and pigs and paying processing taxes in order to curtail production and increase prices, and then you seem to favor letting down the bars to Canadian farmers for milk, cream and cattle and give them the benefit of our sacrifices. The proposition is as cockeyed as all of the rest of the New Deal gymnastics. It doesn't make sense. It is positively idiotic.

You say to wait and see what happens. Why wait? Every pound of these products that comes in will depress the price and take the market away from the American farmer. None of it should be allowed to come in. Giving the President treaty-making powers is of doubtful constitutionality and certainly unwise. He can kill any industry, from which there is no appeal. He now proposes to sacrifice agriculture to benefit the automobile industry, after professing undying love for the farmer.

Curious Suggestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post's sponsorship of a fund to assure adequate legal aid for Edith Maxwell is to be commended.

Yet the mere fact that your aid can be enlisted for a drive involving only the known prejudice of a backwoods community provides an ironic commentary on your refusal to editorialize or to help in any other way in the campaign for the release of Angelo Herndon, victim of the unbridled prejudices of an entire State, acquiesced in by the supposedly enlightened members of that State's Supreme Court.

If The Post cares to be consistent, I suggest that half of the funds collected for the Maxwell girl be applied to the fight for Angelo Herndon. WARREN WOODS.

Jellicoe's Passing.

To The Editor of The Post—Sir: When the great German High Seas Fleet steamed back into port after fighting an indecisive battle off Jutland in 1916, a controversial battle began which will not end with the recent death of its subject, "Hell Fire Jack," the Admiral in 1916 of the British Grand Fleet, later created Earl Jellicoe of Scapa.

British naval tradition demands more than defense from actual coastal attack. It demands a smashing victory, like Nelson's at Trafalgar, which not only kept Napoleon's bargeloads of soldiers at Boulogne, but left no doubt about who ruled the waves. When Jellicoe failed to bring the Great War to a speedy close by such a triumph at Jutland, British opinion was far from satisfied. The Admiral was withdrawn from active command, and ingloriously promoted to the post of First Sea Lord.

There is ample reason for British interest in this case. Jellicoe's caution may have prevented a severe defeat, by which the Germans might have invaded the mouth of the Thames, where no enemy warship has been seen since the Dutch attacks in 1667, and gained control of the Channel, which English seamen have been determined to hold for five centuries. But while the Admiral's Fabian tactics safeguarded something better than a naval stalemate, German planes were bombing London and the Yorkshire coast.

And now the uneasiness of which the Jellicoe controversy has been a symptom causes a tightening of Conservative government, the collapse of the Liberal Party, and a frantic attention to British armaments. The old confidence in the "wooden walls" the naval security of England, bred a sane political liberalism. If fear for the integrity of the new military frontier to which Baldwin has called attention, the Rhine, should ever force a gradual adoption of political methods prevalent across it, then Lord Jellicoe could be remembered as one of the last tenacious defenders of the constitutional system which has been England's pride.

Should Help The League.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Frank W. Hutchins was absolutely right in his letter of November 25. The countries belonging to the League of Nations should smash Italy by all means. And the United States should help the members. But when we and our allies are bearing down on Italy, let's do a good job.

I say down with any country that dares to change the status quo so satisfactory to the "sated imperialists." Treaties have always been so sacred—and it never has been exactly "cricket" to break a treaty—unless, of course, for national gain.

The Jefferson Memorial.

To the Editor of the Post—Sir: Your editorial, "Quoddy at Low Tide," advising Administration reconsideration, comes at a time when the President announces he will issue an executive order placing the O. K. on the proposed $30,000,000 Thomas Jefferson Memorial in St. Louis.

As this memorial is purely a pork barrel proposition, engineered and fostered by machine Democrats, may I inquire—"Who is afraid of the big white elephants?"

The Post Impressionist

Birds Of Ill Omen.

Post Office, Friday.

EVERYTHING was going splendidly. He was at the head of his profession. One would have supposed that his future was as rosy as his present.

We're speaking of Diaghileff, who—as ultimate instigator, inspiration and impresario of the modern Russian ballet—did almost as much as its dancers to make it what it is today. The story is told in that biography which Arnold Haskell has written, in collaboration with Nouvel, and which Simon & Schuster published the other day.

* * *

The glass-smash happened in Paris. Nouvel, Diaghileff's lifelong friend and his associate in the early presentations of Prokofiev and Stravinsky, thus supplies its story—ominously near the end of the volume:

"He (Diaghileff) had left the theater, and Lifar and I were to rejoin him in a restaurant . . . (While we were) reaching for a package, a huge mirror crashed at our feet."

Nouvel says they didn't dare to let the impresario know, for he was "full of superstitions."

And so, it seems, were his friends:

As soon as the first numbness of the shock had passed, those guilty wretches did what they could to divert the disaster thus presaged—or started. Of course, there is only one thing to be done in such cases—the broken pieces must be dropped in running water:

"Carefully we gathered the fragments together and . . . solemnly threw them into the Seine."

However, some particle must have been overlooked.

Two months later, in Venice, Diaghileff died.

The Post-Impressionist had always been under the impression that it was invariably the glass-crasher who suffered, in his own person. The Post-Impressionist had also understood that Diaghileff had, for some time previous to the mirror's fall, been anything except well.

Still—

The point is that he was, though an artist, a man of the world. Yet he had ever been "full of superstitions . . . and he had learned many new ones in Italy."

That's what we at first thought so odd: Huckleberry Finn as a maitre de ballet and opera manager, the man-in-armor—with such a chink in his armor.

And then we began to wonder whether most people are not Diaghileffs—in this respect.

There was that sturdy Tory, Dr. Samuel Johnson, before whom all his world quailed: he touched the posts as he passed them, or, if he missed one in passing, he turned back to touch it. There was Zola, the idol, the literary father, of contemporary realists, with the little carvings of animals on his writing-table—unable to begin his day's plodding until he had fingered each figure. "Ghosts?" said Johnson. "I do not believe—but I tremble."

Napoleon was notoriously superstitious. Not long ago, the Post-Impressionist sat opposite, at dinner, to one of the ablest diplomats in Washington; he paused in his table-talk with his hostess to toss (without comment) some spilled salt over his shoulder. "Certis rebus," wrote strong Cicero, "Certa signa praecurrent"—certain signs precede certain events. Strong Homer's "birds of ill-omen!"

After all, Woodrow Wilson's alleged lack of superstition was merely a sort of superstition in reverse. He believed that 13 was his lucky number.

St. Paul perceived that the men of Athens were in all things too superstitious. Our old friend Brewer describes superstition as "that religion which survives when real religion is dead"—which is just about what St. Basil the Great said also. Within the church, superstition is a sin, without the church it is the church's substitute: we never knew an atheist who would willingly walk under a ladder when there was nobody present to admire his bravery. "In union there is strength"—in union there is courage: that must be the explanation of the Thirteen Clubs.

Somebody could write—perhaps somebody has written—a plausible essay on the Sanity of Certain Superstitions: the sort that St. Paul and St. Basil didn't have in mind. Expense? Mirrors were once luxuries hard to replace. Health? "If you put an umbrell' on the bed still"—many a Pennsylvania Dutchman will assure you—"there'll be a death in the house yet." And, if the umbrella happens to be a wet one, there is some chance of the superstition's verification. Chesterton was right about this sort: they are more bother to break than to observe.

* * *

But the other sort: they are a sin in particular that carries the conviction of sin in general. By their very prevalence they convince us that "all men are sinners!"

No End Of Books

By Theodore Hall

Those Victorians.

IT is an astonishing thought that our parents, or certainly our grandparents at the most, were Victorians. For the Elizabethans felt themselves no less far from the days of Chaucer and "Piers Plowman," 200 years earlier, than do we from the time of the Great Exhibition and the Diamond Jubilee. British terms, those, but if 1851 and 1897 found your forebears already on this side of the Atlantic, and indeed if their blood lines had been Teuton, Gallic, or Siamese, they were, nonetheless, as indubitably Victorian as if they had been reared to snap the stems of their wine glasses at the words, "The Queen, God bless her!" Just as the eighteenth century belongs to the French, the nineteenth century belongs to the Little Old Lady at Windsor—and, in Mr. Kipling's phrase, "all that that implies."

Turn over the coin of British imperialism and on the American side you have our westward expansion. Turn over the coin of Britain's industrial revolution, and you have our own—a credo followed more avidly than the original. In art and music, literature, furniture, family life, what not, you don't have to turn anything over. Victorianism blanketed the English-speaking world.

• • • •

SO we are reading of our own roots when we come to Esme Wingfield-Stratford's wise, vivacious and magnificent trilogy on the English Victorians. With a deft compound of history, anecdote, the arts, the familiar scene, in a range of 30 octaves from "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" to Gladstone, he tells us of every aspect of the era. "Those Earnest Victorians" (published in 1930) treats of the four great decades, 1830-70. "The Victorian Sunset" (1932) carries the tale to the death of the Queen-Empress. "The Victorian Aftermath" (1934) brings Victorianism to its logical, crucial product—the shot at Serajevo.

These three works have now been gathered into one plump volume—"The Victorian Cycle" (Morrow, $5)—as entertaining, instructive and indispensable a swatch of reading as I have ever recommended to you.

NOW Mr. Wingfield-Stratford, 53, one-time fellow of King's College, Cambridge, resident student at the London School of Economics, and captain in the Q. O. R. W. Kent Regiment, is far more than a faintly smiling chronicler of Victorian oddities. We are all given to a certain chuckling at busbies and antimacassars, Mr. Jorrocks and Mrs. Grundy, and our author fills in that side of the age to any reader's delight. Yet, with acumen, he takes advantage of his perspective to pipe a sterner lay.

"The Victorian tragedy is that of their failure to get to the root of any one of the main problems before them. The edifice of their civilization was like William Beckford's splendid mansion at Fonthill, with its staggering proportions and lavish ornamentation, but without foundations—so that the whole thing ere long toppled in ruin. The Victorian Age was, to adopt a phrase of its own prophet, one of shams—its religion, its morality, its social system, whatever it had of philosophy, were the supports of a spiritual Fonthill, under the protection of a vast decency that forbade any probing into foundations or examination of fissures."

By virtue of the Carlylean exhortation: "Produce! Produce!" (and we ourselves have taken that as the law of the Medes and the Persians), the age succeeded in making everything bigger and bigger—from cotton mills to shipping lines, from the mileage of paved roadway to the extent of crown colonies. "What is there," asks Mr. W. S., "more necessarily lovable in Empire than in elephantiasis?"

• • • •

AND we had better not wait for an answer. With all our present-day smiling at the dear dead Victorians, we cannot observe with equanimity the plain, out-like-a-sore-thumb fact that the greatness of their material achievement left them, in the end, with a conspicuous littleness of vision and spirit. We cannot amuse ourselves over Victorian picturesqueness and at the same time complacently take note that their minds stood still in the midst of a torrentially changing environment.

Because we, the Candid and Enlightened Generation for which we are sure the world has waited, are struck from the very same pattern. We still glory in bigness; we exult in production; we rally to resounding and empty catch-words; we are as ready to make a Gadarene rush into war as was the world of 1914. If we look at our foundations at all, it is with the pretty confidence that a coat of paint will mend them.

The really astounding thought is that we ourselves are still, in this year of grace, Victorians.

Couple Returns Safe From Hawaii Volcano

Hilo, Hawaii, Nov. 28 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lucas, unreported for several hours while hiking across the lava-swept sides of erupting Mauna Loa, returned here today and said that neither actually had been lost except from each other. Fear for their safety was expressed yesterday and searchers started out to hunt them.

"We knew at all times the location of the road and our car and only regret we caused anyone anxiety," said Lucas, Y. M. C. A. secretary for Hawaiian Islands. Fog caused them to become separated before dawn yesterday. The erupting volcano has drawn scores of sightseers.

The Down East View

Boston Greets Canadian Trade Pact With Joyous Visions Of Returning Port Activity, But Rest Of New England Looks Dour.

By Peter Cheseborough.
Special Correspondence of The Post.

Boston.

BOSTON feels pretty good about the new United States-Canada trade agreement. At least that is the reaction of its city fathers after a hasty glance at the pact. Time may modify their first impression, but the mere fact that anyone in New England, outside Gov. Curley's office, applauds anything done by the New Dealers is indeed news.

Not a little of Boston's pay roll comes in via the sea. A clause in the Canadian agreement promises to fatten that pay roll—hence, one cause for the rejoicing. For eight long years the ports of New England have borne the burden of a Canadian duty against goods entering the Dominion through the United States. Such goods suffered an assessment not levied against those deposited on Canadian docks. The effect of that trade discrimination is graphically illustrated in Halifax and St. John, shipping centers that hum with the hurry of new commercial activity, lost to Boston, Portsmouth and Portland.

Boston, then, could not have been much more pleased had its own Yankee traders written the clause in the pact that lifts this barrier against its port. That paragraph reads:

"The products of any non-Empire countries shipped to Canada in transit throught American ports will hereafter receive a favorable treatment by the Canadian customs as if they had come directly into a Canadian port."

• • • •

IF port authorities can convince shippers that henceforth the least expensive entrance to Canade is up the gangplank of Boston Harbor, stevedores down along salty Atlantic avenue may order a second spot of grog of a Saturday night. And it requires no remarkable foresight to predict that the efforts of the port authority in this direction will be strongly seconded by the alert Boston & Maine Railroad. Theirs is the gain in completing the link from the sea to the border.

Machine manufacturers, and there are hundreds of them in and around Boston, anticipate a sales spurt as a result of lowered tariffs in this classification. The duty on textile machinery has been cut in half, and a basket concession includes a long list of small tools and machine parts of the nut, screw, bolt order.

However much Bostonians may seem to favor the pact, their guarded approval is not supported by the gracious lady legislator from Lowell, Edith Nourse Rogers. She has vigorously opposed it, denying that it promises to be a boon to the industries of Massachusetts. First to present a demurrer at the White House, she insists that the pact serves but to give Canadian manufacturers a toehold in American markets. An echo of her complaint reverberates from the hills of New Hampshire, where Gov. H. Styles Bridges, busy trying to put 12,000 textile workers back at their Amoskeag mill spindles, raps the agreement as another New Deal crack at the business interests of New England. The Granite State Governor remarks tartly: "If a Presidential election were held today, Roosevelt wouldn't carry a single New England State."

• • • •

IT can be stated without fear of contradiction that if such an election were predicated on the Canadian reciprocal trade agreement, Vermont and Maine would be found aligned with the opposition. To the extent that an early prediction can be reliable, it is these States, separated from their northern neighbor only by a line on the map, that will feel the harsh effects of the agreement. Lumbering, maple sugar, dairying and seed potato enterprises compete with each other at the border.

It may be a fact—as Mr. Roosevelt was careful to suggest at his newspaperman's economic class in Washington—that the creamery concession would amount to no more than a pint annually for every 15 persons, but Vermont maintains that because of its geographic location the State stands in the greatest danger of losing much of its market. The duty on cream, conceded on not more than 1,500,000 gallons annually, has been reduced from 56.5 cents to 35 cents per gallon.

Where Maine wedges its blunt northerly snout into Canada, there is Aroostook County—a synonym for potatoes. Husbandmen of the spud, running begrimed fingers down the long list of articles on which the American tariff has been lowered, stop at this item: "White or Irish seed potatoes—old rate, 75 cents 100 pounds; new rate 45 cents per 100 pounds." One is heard to ask: "Dad gum it, Si, how'n 'ell did that come about?" To which Si replies: "Wal, son, less'n it's one o' them New Deal shuffles, yer got me. Jest means we're liable to lose some gol dern good business right here in the ol' Stater Maine."

And, less'n times have changed, an arched stream of terbaccer juice kerplunks into the garboon—a down East exclamation point to a sentiment that forebodes no compromise with the tariff goin's-on in Washington.

Thanksgiving Dinner Last for Wife-Slayer

Fort Madison, Iowa, Nov. 28 (AP).—A Thanksgiving dinner today was the last one for Reginald Tracy, sentenced to be hanged tomorrow for plotting the murder of his wife. Both the Supreme Court and Gov. Clyde Herring have declined to intervene to prevent the execution scheduled for 7 a. m. Friday.

A former Manchester, Iowa, insurance man and choir singer, Tracy, 54, and his paramour, Mrs. Flossie Fear, 32, were convicted of hiring Adolph Berg, a former convict, to fatally shoot Mrs. Tracy. She was slain last October 3 in a fake holdup near Manchester.

Revolt Quelled, Death Toll Put At 138 in Brazil

1,300 Soldiers Arrested; Position of Vargas Held Stronger.

By the Associated Press.

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 28.—The Brazilian government announced the complete suppression of a Communist-inspired revolt today, and said 138 persons were killed in the four days of savage fighting.

The nation was rapidly returning to normal, although a "state of siege" is still in existence.

President Getulio Vargas advised governors of the vatrious states that estimates of the dead in Rio Grande do Norte and Pernambuco states totaled 100, and officials said 38 were killed here when a revolt was smashed yesterday.

Eighteen soldiers died in fighting around the barracks of the Praia Vermelha (Red Beach), and 20 others were slain when federal aviators bombarded the aviation school.

Among those killed here were six army officers, 15 sergeants and one civilian. An Associated Press survey of Rio de Janeiro hospitals showed 76 persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of wounds.

With the situation apparently well in hand, the federal government sought to arrest more Socialist plotters. Some 1,300 soldiers of the regular army are under arrest and 300 of them have been taken to the Isle of Flores, near the capital, for safe-keeping.

The revolt, which was strongest in the north, broke out among noncommissioned army officers. Those arrested face court-martials.

The general impression among political observers was that President Vargas' position is stronger than ever as a result of his prompt squelching of the Socialist uprising. The fact that he appeared personally in the fighting zones of the federal district here appealed to the Brazilian mind.

In Natal, which was captured from the rebels yesterday, a hunt was being pressed for hundreds of rebels.

2,000,000 Bricks Clog D. C. Output

Surplus Piles Up; Occoquan Production Curtailed

With more than 2,000,000 surplus bricks now on hand, the brick-making plant at the District Workhouse at Occoquan, Va., has been slowed down to minimum production, Capt. M. M. Barnard, general superintendent of penal institutions, reported yesterday.

More than 1,000,000 brick now are stored at the District wharf at Ninth street southwest, and another 1,000,000 are stored on the wharf at Occoquan. Reduction in building operations is responsible, it was said.

"Unless construction of District of Columbia schools and repairs to District sewers and roads start within the near future our revolving fund will be seriously handicapped for the remainder of this fiscal year," the report said. Lack of funds credited to the institution, as a result of the situation, has greatly curtailed purchase of raw materials, it was said.

Chamber Gives Premier Laval Support in Vote

Smashing Victory Won in His Program to Save Gold Standard.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Premier Laval, fighting to maintain the gold standard and prevent devaluation of the franc, today won a smashing victory in the Chamber of Deputies.

The embattled premier threw the fate of his cabinet into the balance shortly after Parliament had reconvened to debate vital domestic and foreign questions.

Gets Majority of 120

When the votes were counted, the government had 345 votes to 225 for the opposition—an unexpectedly large majority of 120.

The cabinet may not survive its forthcoming tests with so great a margin, but the majority of 120 it was able to assemble for the first confidence vote augured well for Laval's future.

The next vote will be on whether to support Laval's financal program. Following that, the deputies will debate the government's foreign policy—a question sure to stir heated argument, for many Frenchmen still bitterly oppose the employment of sanctions against Italy. After that the chamber will debate a measure to suppress Fascist organizations such as the Croix de Feu.

Deals With Radicals.

Agreement to argue this measure was believed the price of Radical-Socialist collaboration with Laval's coalition cabinet in finances and foreign policy.

The chamber suspended session at 6:30 p. m. until 9:30 a. m. Friday.

Picked soldiers moved into Paris from barracks for hundreds of miles around the capital, stood guard to prevent demonstrations to influence Parliament. The government denied the troop movements were more than normal reinforcements of the Paris garrison. The royalist morning newspaper, Action-Francais, said 20 battalions of infantry and four regiments of cavalry moved into Paris during the night. This was denied.

The troops were kept in their quarters all day and were not needed.

Gold Drainage Continues.

Paris, Nov. 28 (AP).—Loss of 1,364,000,000 francs in gold (about $90,024,000) during the week ended November 22 was reported by the Bank of France today. This loss reflected the heavy gold shipments which, during the last four weeks, have drained 3,132,000,000 francs in gold from France's steadily decreasing gold reserve.

The outflow was dwindling, financial quarters said, but shipments continued, with the United States dollar quoted at 15.19 francs (6.58375 cents to the franc).

The bank showed gold reserves of 69,025,000,000 francs on November 22, providing a banknote coverage of 72.27 per cent. It had been reported that gold shipments since November 22 have brought the bank's gold reserve to less than 69,000,000,000 francs.

New Earth Shocks Jolt Helena, Mont.

Damage to Quake-Torn City Is Slight.

By the Associated Press.

Helena, Mont., Nov. 28.—Earth shocks that ranked in intensity with the major tremors of a few weeks ago, jolted Helena today, but the city escaped serious damage.

The jars, starting at 7:41 a. m., mountain standard time, (9:41 E. S. T.), extended over a 250-mile radius and were recorded for 10 to 15 seconds here. Officials called them the fourth most severe in the series of 1,052 earth movements felt in Helena since October 12.

Damage was confined, however, to weakening some of the buildings torn by previous shocks.

Housing and Rent Conference Called

A city-wide conference on housing construction and rent regulation has been called by the Washington Central Labor Union for December 10, Henry Rhine, secretary, announced yesterday. He said 40 local unions are interested in the movement.

The labor organizations were responsible last year for the introduction of a rent regulation bill, which failed to pass, in Congress. The conference is expected to decide whether there is need for the bill to be revived at the approaching session.

Future Status of U. S. Troops In North China Is Uncertain

By the Associated Press.

A large question mark last night shadowed the eventual status of American troops in north China in view of heavy Japanese military concentrations there and the seizure by Nipponese soldiery of control over the railway lines in eastern Hopei Province.

Two battalions of the Fifteenth United States Infantry are stationed at Tientsin, principal northern Chinese port city, where recent large Japanese troop movements have taken place simultaneous with the autonomy campaign in that region.

Thus far no incident has occurred to involve the American soldiers in any conflict, either of force or interests. They participate with military units of other foreign nations in guarding the line of communications between Peiping and the sea.

Japanese Wary.

Unofficially, the impression prevailed here that no matter what complications may arise between the opposing Chinese political factions, the Japanese military, which is supporting the autonomists, will take every precaution to prevent any such incident.

It was said yesterday at the War Department that the "status quo" continues so far as the detachment in Tientsin is concerned and that no special instructions have been sent to it from here.

Speculation arose in other quarters over the probable future necessity for maintaining a garrison at Tientsin, if—as now seems probable to some observers—the Japanese army assumes responsibility for protecting the transportation system traversing eastern Hopei, recently proclaimed an autonomous government.

The presence on Chinese soil of the Fifteenth Infantry and other foreign detachments is authorized under the Boxer Protocol, signed in 1901 by China and 11 nations after it became necessary for foreign troops to go to the rescue of many of their nationals menaced by the fierce anti-foreign uprising of that period.

3 U. S. Detachments.

Far Eastern news dispatches indicate that the Peiping-Tientsin Railroad now is under the full control of the Japanese army, which already was participating with troops of other nations in guarding it.

If this situation continues, it was believed in well informed quarters, there would be little reason for the further presence of other foreign troops in that area.

The Fifteenth Infantry unit at Tientsin consists of 48 officers, two warrant officers and 700 enlisted men under the command of Col. George A. Lynch, a native of Blairstown, Iowa.

In addition to this force, a Marine Corps detachment of between 500 and 600 is stationed at Peiping as an embassy guard under command of Col. Presley M. Rixey, jr., of Fairfax County, Va., while 1,000 more marines police the American section of the International Settlement at Shanghai, commanded by Col. John C. Beaumont, of Washington.

Asiatic fleet, commanded by Rear Admiral Orin C. Murfin, is now at Manila, with the exception of six gunboats on patrol in the Yangtze River.

State Department was without any official advices yesterday on reports that Japanese military authorities had taken over an airport at Tientsin in which Pan American Airways was interested.

Official comment was withheld, but it was believed in unofficial quarters that whatever incident may have occurred was of a character that could be adjusted by local authorities.

King of Greece, Premier Clash Over Amnesty

Copyright, 1935, by the United Press.

Athens, Nov. 28.—King George II of Greece, restored to his throne only five days, tonight neared an open break with Gen. George Kondylis, walrus-mustached premier and former regent.

The democratic, English-bred George insisted on extending political amnesty to Eleutherios Venizelos, exiled republican firebrand, and other republican leaders. Kondylis sought to rally the army and navy against the King's proposal.

George's reply was to summon Constantine B. Demerdjis, Athenian lawyer and veteran politician, to organize a new cabinet.

Threatens to Quit.

The King was reported reliably to have told Klondylis frankly that if the militarists openly resisted a sweeping amnesty to all factions, he would return to exile in England.

Sentiment against Kondylis was was reported growing in the army, which previously the former war minister had counted upon as his source of strength. If he continues to lose ground it is believed his hope of remaining as "strong man" in the restored monarchy will be shattered.

Kondylis' partisans attempted to hold an anti-Venizelist mass meeting in Constitution Square late today, but were dispersed by police. The prime minister's followers ran through the streets shouting "down with amnesty."

The King, meantime, indicated he intends to be ruler of Greece in fact as well as name by insisting upon having his way in his first clash with a prominent politician.

Chiefs to Resign.

Kondylis informed the King that if Venizelos, Gen. Nicholas Plastiras and other republican leaders are permitted to come home, the chiefs of the defense services will resign.

Kondylis named Gen. Reppas, commander of the air force; Gen. Papagos, commander of the first military corps, and Admirals Oeconomou and Sakellariou and other responsible leaders among those who would quit the government if the King did not give in.

George then replied that he would quit himself if the amnesty did not include republicans.

The meeting broke up in cool spirit. Kondylis and his deputy and foreign minister, John Theotokis, who were said to be seething with rage at the King's stubbornness, retired to consider their next move. It was reported they planned as a last resort to call the assembly tomorrow to veto George's amnesty decree. It is doubtful whether they could get a majority, however.

Study New Cabinet.

The King, for his part, immediately summoned Demerdjis, a veteran politician. After a conference with the King the lawyer began conferences with prominent personages with a view to forming a new cabinet pledged to support the King 100 per cent.

Demerdjis was understood tonight to have completed a list for submission to the King tomorrow. Lucas Kanakaris Roufos, former Governor of Crete, was rumored as choice for foreign minister. This post is important in view of Greece's position between Great Britain and Italy. The King, because of his years of exile in England, naturally leans toward supporting the British in the Mediterranean. Gen. Kondylis reportedly leans toward Italy.

Despite the strong anti-Venizelist feeling among army and war veteran elements, the King has strong popular support and it is generally believed he will succeed in showing politicians that he is the real ruler of Greece.

north for secession from the central government.

The rebels were reported in danger of a clash with the army of Gen. Shang Chen, who resigned as governor of Hopei Province because of failure to check the autonomy movement near Tientsin.

Chang Yuen-Tien, named in Japanese reports as the leader of the rebels, had previously been appointed to a high post in the autonomous state established by Yen Ju-Keng, Chinese administrator of the demoralized zone in eastern Hopei.

3,000 Troops Ready.

Three thousand Japanese troops assumed stations in Tientsin, and yesterday's Japanese military coups in seizing railway centers gave the army control of all railroad arteries in Hopei Province.

Japanese aviation personnel took possession of the international race course here and its buildings.

Authoritative sources at Peiping, northwest and inland from Tientsin, expressed the opinion that massing of Japanese military power in north China was a prelude to imminent political changes in Hopei and Chahar provinces.

Three troop trains were reported being held in readiness ostensibly to rush forces into southern Hopei if they were needed to forestall any movement of Central government troops, and to check any hostile act by Gen. Chang's army.

Chinese sources reported a squadron of Japanese fighting planes was expected to arrive here momentarily.

While the autonomy program threatened to cut loose Hopei and Chahar provinces, Chinese reports said, provincial officials in neighboring Shantung Province remained at least outwardly cool toward the self-rule movement.

517 lire. A responsible authority said that amount was almost exactly the same today.

British Deny War Threat.

London, Nov. 28 (AP).—Rome reports that Premier Mussolini had advised British officials of his determination to resist oil sanctions with war met a sharp official denial tonight from the foreign office.

"It is officially denied that any such communication or information was received from any source at any time," said an authoritative source.

Police Dash to Capitol, Catch Clerk at Work

Nearly a score of uniformed and plain clothes policemen dashed into the Capitol building yesterday with guns drawn.

The reason was the sounding of a burglar alarm in the Senate Disbursing Office which a few minutes before had startled Police Headquarters and the guard rooms in the Capitol, Senate and House Office Building.

Police arrived so fast that the "intruder" was caught in the act.

But Chester M. Reich, assistant financial clerk of the Senate, gave a satisfactory explanation when he said he had come in for a few extra hours work.

Duce is bluffing about oil—as the British believe—or actually would precipitate a war in Europe if deprived of vital war materials. The best way out of the situation, as the French see it, is not to stretch the crisis to such a decision.

Therefore diplomatic negotiations are being renewed vigorously. French Ambassador Count Charles de Chambrun and British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond are expected to seek Il Duce's minimum terms immediately.

Meanwhile the foreign office African experts of Britain and France are nearing completion of a settlement at the Quai D'Orsay.

New Crisis Impends.

By the Associated Press.

Paris, Nov. 28.—A new Anglo-Italian crisis loomed tonight in the Mediterranean, officials said, as Premier Mussolini of Italy, impatient with Britain's reluctance to withdraw her fleet from the southern sea, threatened to reinforce his forces in Libya.

Chances of ending the Italo-Ethiopian war before Christmas were considered nil in diplomatic circles, where it was said that Britain blamed Italian propaganda for bloody anti-British riots in Egypt and that Britain refused to withdraw part of her home fleet in answer to Mussolini's recall of one Libyan division two months ago.

Extra! Phantom Tackle Admits All!

The Mystery of the Floating Tackle or, "Who Was That Civilian Who Tried to Stop the Princeton Football Teams?" has been solved. All football fans have read how, in a croocial moment of the Tiger-Dartmouth game, a fan leaped onto the gridiron, lined up on the Dartmouth side and made a flying tackle of a Princeton runner. Today the truth came out. It was Elmer Twitchell, not Mike Mesko, counterman in a Rahway, N. J., diner, as previously reported.

"Yes," said Elmer, today, still breathing heavily, "I am the roving tackle of the Jersey wilds. Why deny it?"

• • • •

"And what's more," he added as he bent over as if in a wholly imaginary huddle, "I think the committee should have picked me for the Rose Bowl game!"

• • • •

One point that bothered everybody—whether the phantom tackle was a Dartmouth man or a Princeton grad, who had become confused—was cleared up. Elmer is neither!

• • • •

"I'm a Yale man," said Elmer sheepishly. "I was at the wrong game!"

• • • •

"You know how it is at those Saturday football games," went on Mr. Twitchell. "Well, I made the mistake of starting too early and on cocktails. My original idea was go to Harvard game at Cambridge and then I got the idea somehow that it had been shifted to New Haven. How I wound up at Princeton still puzzles me!

• • • •

"Anyhow, along about the third period I began to wonder why I didn't hear any Harvard songs. A fellow next to me said it was the Princeton game and that Princeton was ahead by two or three touchdowns."

• • • •

"So you leaped out of the stands and went to the assistance of the Yale team, which wasn't there!" put in a reporter.

• • • •

"Precisely!" confessed Elmer, shaking his head as if still a little puzzled. "All that flashed through my mind was that Old Eli was in need of help!"

• • • •

"Who was the player you tackled?" asked a correspondent.

• • • •

"I thought I tackled the entire team," said Elmer. "It felt that way. I still think it wasn't quite cricket for them to throw me off the field so summarily."

• • • •

Elmer slumped into a chair and looked pretty dejected. We tried to cheer him up. "Don't feel so badly," we said. "Maybe the idea was to save you for that game at New Haven against Princeton."

In Chicago she was Sadie,
In Detroit he called her May,
In Duluth the name was Mabel,
But in Pittsburgh it was Fay.

She became Estelle in Yonkers,
All of which suggests a hunch:

Just plain gas and oil and lunch.

Mr. Grover Whalen, official welcomer of visitors to New York City under Mayor Walker, says he never wore a gardenia in his life, despite the newspaper stories. It seems it was a couple of carnations.

Mr. Lewis W. Douglas says that the big hust is ahead and that the New Deal is the Old Deal in different clothing. Perhaps it is hard to recognize because it is in so many new suits.

Rudy Vallee and the Howard Boys Will Join "Scandals" Here, Prior to New York

White Revue Is Being Readied For Broadway

Reported Much Improved; Benny's New Dance Star; About the Showshops.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Rudy Vallee and His Connecticut Yankees and Eugene and Willie Howard are the new stars who will make their first appearance with the new White gaucherie when it unfurls itself before the vision of Washington's eager showgoers a week from next Monday night. But to go back a bit.

George White has never had a losing "Scandals." He does not now intend to have one.

While reports of the first-night presentation of the current, or pre-Briadway, "Scandals," emanating from Richmond, Va., on the occasion of the recent premiere of the twelfth edition in the distinguished line of revues fostered by the former "hoofer," noted for his shoestring neckties, were not so hot, as the vernacular has it, all that is changed now—or will be when the attraction opens in the National Theater for a week beginning Monday, December 9.

On accorunt of for what?

On account of because Mr. White has made important additions to his cast of principals, foremost of whom, as recited above, will be seen for the first time with the touring trou the first time with the touring troupe prior to the New Amsterdam Theater in New York when the piece opens here.

Also Among Principals.

The cast of the "Scandals" in addition to the newcomers, already the victims of first-paragraph disclosure, includes that eminent low comedian, Bert Lahr; Cliff "Ukulele Ike" Edwards, Sheila Barrett, Gracie Barrie, a Washington favorite by all of the Earle's past records; Jane Cooper, Hal Forde, Shea & Raymond, Sam, Ted and Ray, Lpis Eckhart, Harold Willard, Helene Miller, Peggy Moseley, Richard Lane, Claire McQuillan, the Apollo Quartet and Jean Gale, one of the celebrated quadruplets who have been modestly shoved into the background by the superior numbers of the Dionne quintuplets, present marvels of the theatrical and obstetrical worlds.

Mr. White, through the eloquent mouthpiece of his principal stentor, Mr. Nat Dorfman, makes it known that the Howard boys and Mr. Vallee and his accomplished instrumentalists have had their respective names on the dotted lines, now, for these weeks on end.

It just so happened, to be a little colloquial about it, that previous commitments rendered it practically impossible for Mr. White to reveal his booking coup until yesterday afternoon. Mr. Vallee and the Howards, it seems, had signed their names on earlier dotted lines that exercised an appreciably restraining influence upon their individual and collective enthusiasms for Mr. White's prevalent enterprise.

All of this was pointedly hinted by Master Nate Nathan, no longer ago than yesterday in-our-midsting in Impresario White's interests, but the time was not yet ripe to "spill it," in the grotesque terminology of "the profession," until Mr. Dorfman had had his crack at it over the sizzling wires dedicated to the promotion of appreciation of the arts by the various news agencies trafficking in such things.

But there it is, finally, true as life and twice as natural—Rudy Vallee and the Howards. Ain't that somethin'?

Are Not New White Stars.

It is something, theatrically speaking, but not a complete establishment of precedent by long odds. Both Mr. Vallee and his instrumentalists and the Freres Howard have been seen as aids to the White claim to artistic eminence on earlier occasions. Notably in the "Scandals" of 1933. This would be Mr. Vallee of whom we are speaking at the moment. He was in the "Scandals of 1933," which played the Washington Auditorium to a potential audience of $50,000 for the week, but one which in actuality grossed less than would have been garnered at the National.

Eugene and Willie Howard have been with Mr. White so often that it seems a trifle ridiculous to attempt to recall how many times, or precisely when. They were in that 1933 business, too, if memory serves—along with Ray Bolger, Everett Marshall, the Gale Quadruplets, Ethel Barymore Colt and numerous others of the first flight, as revue flights go.

So now here they all come back again.

It ought to be a great show. It ought to be one to belie the white that is creeping into the White hair, originally raven. It ought to be one of the high spots of the season—regardless of Richmond.

Let us hope that it is.

So it turns out that all this pother has, as a matter of fact, been concentrated upon the probable excellence of Columbia's picturization of Dostoievski's story of "Crime and Punishment," scheduled for a so-called "de luxe premiere" in the Metropolitan Theater on the evening of Thursday, December 5, at 8:30 by the clock—just as we surmised in these paragraphs on the morning of Tuesday, November 26.

I mean this interminable succession of apparently hand-lettered beveled cards, warning this desk that there is to be distinguished work at the crossroads on the evening of December 5—something to inspire double awards, all around, on the part of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Some of the boys and girls seemed to think that this hurrah ought, in the very nature of things, to be heard, "Ah, Wilderness." Maybe it should have been. Maybe there are two pictures of superlative merit in the offing. Maybe that is why there has been so much emphasis on the matter of double awards by the Academy.

Maybe. . . . . .

New Juvenile Prodigy.

On this page or the one facing, and may propitious gods make the suggestion tenable, there appears the pictured likeness of a youth who is acclaimed as a real violinist, cast in the role of the third fiddler in Mrs. Clare Tree Major's juvenile drama of "Old King Cole," to be presented as second of their current season's offerings, in the National Theater, by the Children's Theater of New York, of which Mrs. Major is director.

Robert Rudie, just turned 16, is the son of Parisians, but is himself an American, born in New York, on Lincoln's birthday. His father, well-known as a cellist, early decided against forcing a musical education on his son. Vain resolve!

Young Robert insisted he wanted to play the cello. Later after hearing a concert given by a boy violinist, he decided upon that instrument.

Only when the boy, at the age of 7, made himself a crude violin, mounted a stool and accompanied the radio with his improvised fiddle, did his parents relent and buy him a violin of his own.

Is a Real Boy.

Since then, in the space of a few brief years, he has earned his scholarship, played solos with the New York Civic and the Brooklyn Symphony Orchestras, and over radio station WOR, with Philip James' Little Symphony, and with Wallenstein's Sinfonietta.

In spite of his musicianship, Robert is a real boy, a junior in high school, fond of football and outdoor sports. The part of the third fiddler in "Old King Cole" is his first appearance as an actor.

Whether he elects the concert stage or the drama as a career, a future is predicted for him.

District of Columbia officers of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will attend tonight's last projection of Paramount's picturization of Stark Young's novel of "So Red the Rose," chief screen feature for the new week at the Earle, as guests of John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner Brothers' interests in the Washington territory.

The officers will be headed by Mrs. A. E. Barr, division president, who has only recently returned from the U. D. C. national convention at Hot Springs, Ark.

In Mrs. Barr's party tonight will be Mrs. Fred L. Volland, Mrs. Clarence L. Engle, Mrs. Cora Talley, Mrs. Cora E. Settle, Miss Laura Martin, Miss Lorena A. Hewitt, Mrs. C. K. Sprock, Mrs. Charles H. Wagner, Mrs. Richard A. Allen, Mrs. G. H. Alexander, Mrs. Norman H. Britton and Miss Frances D. Shirley.

"So Red the Rose" deals with dramatic elements vitally concerned in the Confederate States' cause in the War Between the States. It will moisten many a handkerchief and give the strains of "Dixie" a new meaning—if possible.

To the Folies Bergere.

As long as we have gone in for the matter of stressing photographic art on these pages today, it might be as well to break down now as any time and point out that one of the featured starlets appearing with Benny Davis and his new "Stardust Revue of 1936" is petite Darlene Walders, who has just been signed to a contract to appear in the Folies Bergere in Paris.

This gives Miss Walders the distinction of being the only American girl so far so honored.

The reason for this selection is that, almost three years ago, Darlene, who is an acrobatic dancer of the most polished type, went to Europe. She had a four-week contract, which was lengthened, finally, into a stay of two years.

She has appeared at the Palladium, the Savoy and the Berkeley in London, repeating her engagements at each several times.

The first of any acrobatic dancers to appear at the world-famous Opera House in Budapest, she came there for a two-week engagement and was held over for nine additional weeks. She has danced to enthusiastic audiences in Berlin, Rome, Lugano, Bordeaux, Marseilles, Paris and last, but not least, literally up and down the French and Italian Rivieras.

Was Heavy Winner.

During her engagement at the Casino at Monte Carlo, she won so much money that the management asked her to confine herself to dancing.

Darlene has given a command performance before the King of Norway at Oslo. She also has another gentleman of world renown whom she numbers among her fans—known to some as the Prince of Wales!

The remarkable part of Miss Walders' career is that she made such a sensational hit while so young. She is not yet old enough to have her own passport, but travels on that of her sister, Diana, who also acts as her chaperone.

The incident that remains the most clearly in her mind of her tour of Europe, Darlene said recently, is her meeting with the King of Norway. When she performed before the King she was much impressed by his bodyguard, six stalwart young men, each an exact six-feet-four in height, and all with baby-pink faces, bright blue eyes and close-cropped blond hair!

A special matinee performance will be given this afternoon in the State Theater, Bethesda, Md., for the benefit of the Montgomery County Social League. The program will feature Shirley Temple in "Bright Eyes," and also will include Walt Disney's "Three Little Pigs," a Chic Sale comedy and a Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy. The doors will be thrown open to the public at 2:45 p. m., with the performance beginning at 3. A uniform admission of 15 cents will be charged. The films are being provided through the courtesy of the Twentieth Century-Fox and United Artists film exchanges.

Dots and Dashes.

Milbourne Christopher, one of the foremost practitioners of the black arts in Washington, once more is prevalent . . . In the cocktail lounge of the Lafayette Hotel, of all places . . . One can see enough strange things in such a place . . . Anyhow, Mil wrote a powerful piece for this estimable family journal a coupla weeks ago . . . On how scientific discoveries are being utilized by stage magicians. Only now in his early twenties, Christopher began the hocus-pocus business at the age of 12 . . . A Spanish picture, "La Cruz y la Espada," the first in that tongue to be shown in the Capital, is scheduled for Pierce Hall tomorrow night at 8 . . . Plans for the annual one-act play tournament, conducted under the direction of the Community Center Department, already are on the fire, as the saying is . . . The executive committees having the thing in charge, selected at a promotional meeting on November 15, are Dorothea Lewis, of the Columbia Players, chairman; Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, of the Arts Club; J. A. Bishop, Montgomery Players; Frank Baer, Pierce Hall; Charles C. Gillman, Triangle Players; Francis McDavitt, Masquers of Sligo Park Hills; James M. Rawls, Bartfield Players, and Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, of the Community Center Department, chairman ex-officio . . . Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting in Franklin Administration Building to consider and discuss questions of policy . . . The Columbia Players, cast for Susan Glaspell's play, "Inheritors," has been completed and rehearsals are well under way . . . Performance in Pierce Hall, December 18 and 19 . . . Never before done in the Capital . . . Wigs and Queues Dramatic Club of the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O streets, are busy rehearsing "Big Brothers" . . . December 6 and 7 are the dates for this one . . . "First Lady," the Sam H. Harris production that was to have premiered in Washington, but didn't, is a hit at the Music Box Theater in New York . . . Max Gordon's "Pride and Prejudice" vacated the Music Box and moved across the street to the Plymouth to make way for it . . . Jane Cowl and Lily Cahill rated rave notices for their work in the rival lead roles . . . Stanley Ridges, former leading man with the National Theater Players, and last here with Philip Merivale in "Valley Forge," is important in the cast . . . He would be in any the way he has gone ahead since the old local days . . . Tomorrow night at 7:30, children of All Souls Memorial Church Sunday School will stage an amateur performance . . . Ten acts . . . plus Clare Borjes, daughter of the former musical director at Loew's Palace, popular song artiste over local radio stations . . . Fencing will close the bill . . . Or perhaps you are not gated to fencing!

Chief Regret Note.

It was not necessary to visit RKO-Keith's and "Annie Oakley" yesterday to get a load of Rain-in-the-Face!

And shivering in a football stadium probably could have been referred to as a "Sitting-Bull," too!

One of Mr. Davis' New Proteges

This smiling young woman is the featured dancer in the "Star Dust Revue," being presented on the stage of the Earle Theater beginning today by that old master of Columbusing new talent, Discoverer Benny Davis. Darlene Walders, whose likeness it is you are contemplating with such admiration, has the distinction of being the only American girl of her years ever to have been signed to a contract to appear as a featured artiste in the Folies Bergere in Paris. She will assume her graceful duties in the famous revue early in the New Year. Miss Walders already has played one "four-week" engagement abroad. The quotes are used because the "four weeks" became two years before she got back home!

Clew Revives Mass Murder Solution Hope

By the Associated Press.

Oklahoma City, Nov. 28.—Hope for solution of the disappearance of nine persons, which ebbed with the death last night of Chester Comer, revived today as a picture of a girl slain in Wyandotte, Kans., a year ago, was "identified" as that of Comer's first wife.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Childers, parents of Elizabeth Childers Comer, made the identification. It was the ninteenth time the girl's bullet-torn body, found October 6, 1934, had been "positively identified."

Comer, itinerant oil field worker, died from the effects of a bullet fired into his brain by a town marshal who captured him Monday. Officers said Comer had mumbled a partial confession which led them to fear for the lives of five missing Oklahomans.

Department of Justice agents indicated he might have been connected with the disappearance of two Illinois couples in the Southwest.

New Era Planned For Jewish Youth

Zionists Open Hadassah Session in Cleveland.

By the Associated Press.

Cleveland, Nov. 28.—Berl Locker, of London, England, urged a threefold program for Jewish youth today at the opening session of the national convention of the Hadassah, women's Zionist organization.

"The immigration problem has never been so grave for the Jews as it is at present," said Locker, a representative of the World Zionist Organization. Locker's threefold program embraces a plan for education, democracy and nationalism.

Mrs. Edward Jacobs, of New York, national president, said that "Jews are being caught in a vortex in the struggle between a waning democracy and the growing forces of a regimented society."

"They must unite to sponsor those causes which will establish Jewish rights," she said. Mrs. Jacobs proposed affiliation with a movement called the "Youth Aliyah," which will provide for the removal of all German-Jewish children from their native land to agricultural colonies in Palestine. Approximately 1,500 delegates from 40 States attended the meeting.

Law to Control Arms Makers Thrown in Gear

U. S. Now Has Means to Check on Traffic as Aid to Neutrality.

By the Associated Press.

The national munitions control act, important cog in the Administration's neutrality machinery, became effective at midnight last night.

Beginning today, all manufacturers, importers and exporters of "arms, ammunition and implements of war" must be registered with the new Munitions Control Board established by Executive order of President Roosevelt under neutrality legislation enacted last session.

The new regulation becomes effective at a time when the Administration is seeking to discourage by Presidential enunciation exports to the east African belligerents, Italy and Ethiopia.

The munitions control law, while it does not prohibit export of war material, does give the Administration a definite source of information on such exports. The legislation was enacted before the east African dispute had materialized into warfare.

Six categories of war implements were proclaimed by President Roosevelt on September 25. They were:

Rifles, machine guns, guns and howitzers, ammunitions, grenades and bombs, tanks and armored vehicles.

War vessels of all kinds, including airplane carriers and submarines.

Revolvers and automatic pistols.

Aircraft and other equipment other than those in the third category.

Ship Saves 6 Men On Her Last Trip

S. S. San Pedro Takes Crew Off Burning Vessel.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—On her last voyage the San Pedro, bound for Italy and a scrap pile, tonight carried the master and five of the crew rescued from a burning schooner last night.

Since her message that she had saved the six men of the R. L. Borden, two-master bound from New York to the Grand Banks, the San Pedro has not been in communication with land stations here.

The S. S. Exilona reported this afternoon that she had arrived at the scene and searched the surrounding sea for crew, but nobody could be found.

The Exilona said she last heard from the San Pedro last night when that vessel reported the rescue.

It could not be determined whether the six rescued men were all of the R. L. Borden's crew.

The San Pedro, one of four American ships sold to Italy for scrap, was en route to Genoa when she encountered the burning boat about 610 miles east-southeast of New York.

Peace Alternatives Outlined by Angell

Surrender or Collectivize Arms, He Urges.

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—Two alternatives for establishing world peace were outlined tonight by Sir Norman Angell, Nobel Peace Prize winner and authority on world affairs. They were:

"Either surrender armed defense altogether . . . or make armed defense collective."

He spoke in a symposium at town hall under the auspices of the league for political education. Other speakers included Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, who denounced the League of Nations as a "war breeder," and Mrs. Grace L. Oswalt, Indiana housewife.

Mrs. Oswalt, who came from her home in West Lafayette, Ind., to present her own plan for world peace, proposed an international organization financed by unpaid war debts.

Ellsworth Ship Moves To Rescue Lost Fliers

New York, Nov. 28 (AP).—The Wyatt Earp, supply ship of the Ellsworth expedition, said in a message to the New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance tonight it had moved closer to the Bay of Whales preparatory to starting a search for Lincoln Ellsworth, who took off early Saturday for a flight across the Antarctic Continent.

No word has come from Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, since 10:40 a. m. (E. S. T.) Saturday. The Wyatt Earp said it had moved from Dundee Island to Deception Island. Depots will be laid along the course of the proposed flight, while the base ship works its way toward the Bay of Whales.

Brothers Hunt Girl, 22, Missing After Murder

Tacoma, Nov. 28 (AP).—Two brothers of Mildred Hook, 22, left today to search for her in Idaho, where her divorced husand, who abducted her recently, is held in connection with the slaying of a State patrolman. Joseph Hook, mystery story writer, expressed belief that Miss Hook, his daughter, was hitch-hiking home and traveling only at night in fear she may be wanted in connection with the slaying.

Hollywood

By Sidney Skolsky

Watching Them Make Pictures.

Hollywood, Nov. 28.

FRED ASTAIRE looks very nice in his sailor suit. It was rather odd to see Astaire not wearing a tuxedo. He said he liked it for a change, not having to get all dressed up. Astaire was on board a huge battleship on the set. He and the sailors had completed singing a sea chanty and the sailors were tossing Astaire about as part of the dance routine. This sea chanty is the opening number of "Follow the Fleet." It is called "We Joined the Navy," and begins in this fashion: "We joined the Navy to see the world . . . and what did we see . . ." and from this Irving Berlin goes into some clever lyrics. You'll be knowing them soon enough.

Now, Director Mark Sandrich shouts to the sailors: "That's not the way to toss Astaire. Do it as if you're enjoying it. Not as if it's a dance routine." The set, with the sailors strolling about, recalls Riverside drive. And the girls working on other sound stages always manage to come over to "follow the fleet." It must be Riverside drive.

• • • •

In the Eddie Cantor flicker, "Strike Me Pink," there is an actor who has been annoying Director Norman Taurog by forgetting his lines. This actor did it daily. Director Taurog had the assistant director write a note to the actor which said: "Please memorize the lines you are to play the following day."

However, the next day the actor spoiled a take by fumbling the lines. "Didn't you get my note?" asked Director Taurog. "Yes," answered the actor, "and I memorized it." He then recited the note perfectly.

• • • •

"THE CHILDREN'S HOUR," disguised as "These Three" so that Philo Vance, censor, won't recognize it, has gone into production. Of course there are many changes to throw the censor off the scent. The flicker version, as stated before, is now concerned with the story of the two school teachers who are in love with the same man. The brat school kid tells her a lie, and the lie wrecks these three—the school teachers and the man. The fundamental theme of the play, the evil of gossip, is retained. It is the lie which has been changed.

Director William Wyler is shooting a scene in the classroom and Mary Tilford is making her initial appearance. Mary Tilford, the brat child, is portrayed by Bonita Granville. The flicker really depends on her.

• • • •

This sequence is short. Bonita merely reads a translation from her Latin book. It is difficult and wholly unfair to try to render a verdict about her. Bonita Granville was selected by Sam Goldwyn after he saw her in the flicker, "Ah, Wilderness." She is 11 or 12, the age of the character she is portraying. Florence McGee, who does the excellent portrayal on the stage, is a married woman.

Director Wyler says that for the movies a child had to play the role; that the camera would tell too much. Bonita Granville was selected because she seemed to understand the role . . . As the picture progresses, more will be learned—and told to you.

• • • •

MARLENE DIETRICH is waiting for Director Frank Borzage to arrange a new set-up for a scene in the flicker "Desire." Miss Dietrich sits in the chair next to me. She is in a talkative mood. We speak quickly of many things . . . the camera man, Charlie Lang, he is a wonder . . . she made some records singing songs in French, did I hear them? . . . Soon the talk drifts to pictures . . . then to the Charlie Chaplin flicker. She is most anxious to see it.

"Paulette Goddard," says Miss Dietrich, "is the most fortunate actress in the world." Marlene looks at it from a marvelous angle. "I'll tell you why," she continues. "Do you realize that Goddard is the only actress who will be appearing in a silent picture. This is wonderful. It is a great advantage. She never speaks, and therefore never breaks the spell. You can dream everything you want into her. She will really have glamour" . . . And this from Dietrich, the glamour gal.

• • • •

Then Marlene went on to tell how hard she had been working in the flicker "Desire." She gets up every morning at 5:30 to be at the studio on time to make up. There's no going out nights.

Fewer Lonely, Only 3 at Feast For Strangers

Maryland's New Professor and Unknown Woman Among Guests.

Maybe a tidal wave of good fellowship has swept the Nation's Capital or maybe it was just the rain, but only three persons felt the pang of loneliness so strongly last night that they went to the strangers' Thanksgiving dinner at the Shoreham Hotel.

Last year's affair, the first one to be held, attracted no less than 100 "lost souls," as the waiter at the hotel called them. The idea, started in 1934 by Mary Haworth, The Post's "love-lorn" editor, was to help cheer the holiday of the countless Washingtonians who had not been here long enough to have friends.

One of the three strangers who preferred not to eat his turkey in solitary splendor was Dr. R. A. Mackie, Maryland University's kindly new professor of political philosophy, who arrived here two months ago after three years of teaching at Cambridge University, England. The second, Miss Marcella Luby, of 1349 Euclid street, said she came to town only three weeks ago from Springfield, Ill. The third, a gray-haired lady, refused to reveal her name.

Dr. Mackie, when asked why he took the trouble to come all the way from College Park, Md., in the downpour, said: "Oh, I was studying all afternoon, had read something about the dinner in the newspaper and just slipped on my rubbers and came."

"However, it is a much more homelike dinner than last year," said Dr. Grace Thompson, bespectacled naturopath, who ran the 1934 show and helped Mrs. Caroline Dane, the hostess, this year. "Why last year," she explained, "there were so many people to introduce and take care of, I couldn't get a bite to eat. This time we really have a chance to know each other, don't we folks?"

The Slightly Lunatic Messrs. Wheeler and Woolsey Break Out a New Film Farce

With Miss Lee As Aid, Comics Match Weather

'Rainmakers' Score a Pat Success on Wet Holiday at Metropolitan.

"THE RAINMAKERS." RKO-Radio picturization of a story by Albert Treynor and Fred Guiol, adapted to the screen play by Grant Garrett and Leslie Goodwins, starring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, with Dorothy Lee, Burton Churchill, George Meeker and Frederic Roland. Music and lyrics by Louis Alter and Jack Scholl. Directed by Fred Guiol. Previewed Wednesday midnight, November 20, by W. A. Whitney.

If, at this late date, there be any who thinks there is any sense to a Wheeler-Woolsey offering, let him hie himself, pronto, to the Metropolitan Theater, see "The Rainmakers," and be promptly disillusioned.

For, in this latest vehicle for these two mad Roberts, one of whom is a Bert, there is the reductio ad absurdum of farce. And that is all right, too; the less rational these madcaps are, the more funny they become!

Perhaps we are too partial to the antics of the Messrs. Wheeler and Woolsey, but what may dull our critical judgment is precisely that which will give the audience the same thrill—you will be sitting on the edge of your seat, too—as it did us.

Off to Mad Start.

The whole thing starts madly, with Mr. Woolsey endeavoring to bring rain to the drought-ridden plains at the height of a driving sandstorm. Routed out of town, he goes to California to attempt another trial in the more-arid-than-usual lima-bean region. En route he picks up Mr. Wheeler.

In order to get the crowd essential to the successful operation of the rainmaking machine, a head-on collision of two locomotives is arranged. Finding dynamite in one locomotive, the engineers decamp in haste, leaving our heroes, unschooled in the matter of high explosives, to negotiate the smash-up.

They do, but not before the wildest ride imaginable. It is that 60-mile-an-hour looping about the countryside which will have you virtually yelling, in sheer excitement. And finally, a downpour comes—and everybody lives happily ever after.

One Song Injected.

Here, indeed, is a grand farce for the Wheeler-Woolsey-Lee combine, with Mr. Wheeler and Dorothy Lee having a chance to "sing" a single tuneful ditty about "when we are married," or something equally to the point.

Burton Churchill and George Meeker are the ones who would discredit the rainmakers and build an expensive viaduct (at considerable personal profit). Frederick Roland acts as Miss Lee's father.

The entire company is good, but the show still remains the property of the two zanies, leaving little to be desired in the way of utterly senseless farce, with plenty of movement and action, snappy repartee, and (quite unusual) realistic drought-area scenes.

Supplementary Subjects.

The supporting subjects were to have included "Regular Kids," a Technicolor juvenile story-revue performed by the Meglin Kids, a nicely done piece with many short, fast-moving performances by the talented children.

The combined releases of the Paramount and Universal newsreels and other selected short subjects round out a program for which thanks may indeed be given, even with the Thanksgiving special inaugural written into a damp and chill past tense.

Fiscal Reorganization Asked for Largest Hotel

Chicago, Nov. 28 (AP).—Reorganization of the Stevens Hotel, recognized as the largest in the world, was recommended today in a report filed in Federal court by Jacob I. Grossman, master in chancery.

The report included a finding of insolvency, and an appraisal of the property, a 2,784-room hotel fronting a full block on Michigan boulevard, at $7,350,000. The value placed on the property when it was erected was $30,000,000. The report gave the hotel's indebtedness as $27,182,000. The reorganization plan recommended provides for wiping out of the preferred and common stock interest.

Plays Role of the Third Fiddler

In the second presentation of the season of the Children's Theater of New York, "King Cole," to be offered on the stage of the National Theater this morning, the part of Halim, third of the "fiddlers three," is portrayed by Robert Rudie, a young actor who really plays the violin. This series of juvenile plays by adult actors is under the local sponsorship of the Women's International League. "Old King Cole" was written by Clare Tree Major, director of the Children's Theater, who also plays an important part in the dramatis personae of her drama.

Runaway Horse Team Causes Owner's Death

Chicago, Nov. 28 (AP).—An attempt to halt his runaway team of horses on crowded city streets cost the life of Michael Kraus, 54.

Kraus, a city garbage collector, was not on his wagon when the horses, apparently frightened by a passing automobile, galloped off. He hailed a car and started in pursuit. When the car overtook the team, Kraus stood on the running board and caught the reins. Suddenly he lost hold and fell underneath the horses' hoofs. He was trampled to death.

Water Under the Bridge.

New York, Nov. 28.

Special Dispatch to New York Herald.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 4: "The South feels that a grand opportunity now exists for Lincoln to avert impending ruin, and invest his name with an immortality far more enduring than would attach to it by his elevation to the Presidency. His withdrawal from the race would make him the peer of George Washington in patriotism. If Lincoln persists in his present position, in the teeth of such terrible results as his election must produce, the South must secede and he will leave behind him a memory more hateful a thousand times than that of Benedict Arnold. If he fails to withdraw, he will totter into a dishonored grave—pushed there perhaps by the hand of an assassin" . . . Three days later, he was elected with Vice President Hamlin of Maine. The Herald noted humorously that despite its own dire predictions, the sun was shining. But in South Carolina, cannon were being wheeled into position, and backstage in a New York theater, John Wilkes Booth, the actor, carefully put away the clipping that suggested Lincoln's assassination.

1870. At San Francisco, the president of the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce, addressing California business men, pleaded with them to recognize Japan as a market for American goods . . . He declared that if a San Francisco bakery would send 50 tons of flour and five bakers to Tokyo, and make bread in the streets, in full view of the people, that their superstitions would be overcome and they would then demand the baker flour regularly . . . He pointed out, too, that Japan was a progressive country, that 20,000 of the natives already were wearing shoes, and that 12,000 were wearing European clothes . . . "Who can tell?" the speaker asked rhetorically . . . "Some day, Japan may even excel your great country in the manufacture of articles which we now seek from you" . . . At Newark, N. J., 200 invited guests saw a murderer hanged . . . Prison attaches congratulated the hangman on his humane efficiency . . . The victim died in 15 minutes.

1860. Visit to this country of the youthful Prince of Wales (later to become King Edward VII) has stirred the country . . . Debutantes of St. Louis and Cincinnati, where he was entertained this past week, complain of three things: (1) His Royal Highness is not much of a dancer, judged by American college standards; (2) he winks indiscriminately at other girls on the floor; (3) immediately the dance has ended, he bows coolly to his partner and leaves her standing in mid-floor, instead of escorting her to her seat . . . President Buchanan will greet the famous visitor at Washington, D. C., next week . . . Army ordnance experts are preparing an amazing fireworks display on the mall near the Presidential mansion . . . Feature of the pyrotechnics will be a 50-foot piece that, when ignited, will spell out "God Save Good Queen Victoria" . . . The Prince of Wales is traveling on a private train, which will cost him the fabulous sum of $2,000 from Pittsburgh to Washington . . . Railroad officials have warned section foremen to examine carefully the fences along the right-of-way, fearful the grazing cows and horses may encroach upon the tracks and cause an accident.

1860. Brigham Young was the life of the party at the thirteenth annual celebration and picnic in the Big Cottonwood district, 28 miles outside Salt Lake City yesterday . . . He danced for three hours with the Morman belles . . . His son climbed as 80-foot tree, cleared the branches and hung an American flag . . . No. 60 won the drawing in the Delaware State Lottery this week . . . Publisher Rollo is being given the chill by Gramercy Park swells, for publishing a daring novel: "Leaves From a Bachelor's Book of Life" (it shows actresses in skin tights) . . . At Phelan's Rooms, Broadway and Tenth street, last night, M. Berger, arrived from France, demonstrated a new game which he hopes to introduce to Americans . . . It is called billiards and is played with three balls . . . The papers reported that while "the balls obeyed him like a set of well-trained hunting dogs, it is to be doubted that this game will catch on here" . . . The residents are bitter in their denunciation of the horse-car companies, which have announced a new fare of 3 cents, and no transfers on certain lines . . . The horse-car companies, however, point out that for safety and speed they are going to use four-horse teams to draw the trams.

1860. From the pages of the Herald: "For Sale: A cottage in Harlem, with two lots, well stocked with plants and fruit trees, ten rooms, gas throughout. Price $3,600 (today that cottage has been converted into the Cotton Club, where Claude Hopkins' band blares out hot tunes) . . . Troops of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy have smashed the armies of the rebellious Papal State . . . French troops have marched into the Vatican City to protect the Pope from possible death . . . At Barnum's Museum, the Siamese Twins are not on view . . . The twin on the left has ptomaine poisoning . . . Something her sister ate, no doubt.

Culbertson on Bridge

From Pillar to Post.

"You'd make a great statesman," my opponent cynically remarked to his partner. "You had all the earmarks of a man making a momentous decision—while actually making a beautiful straddle."

The criticism may have been unkind, but it certainly was justified. East's error was that of many a more experienced player—he wanted to try out every suit.

He should have recognized that this was one of the many no trump hands which contain a stopper or two in each of three suits, and the bulk of the tricks in one long suit. In the race for time which often develops in such a case, the task of the defense is to pick one of the weak spots (the weakest, if possible), and hammer out the stoppers before declarer's suit is established. There often is time for one shift, but practically never for two.

After some deliberation, West led the four of clubs—an unfortunate choice. East won with the ace and I dropped the nine. At this point East made his first mistake by returning the suit. By the "rule of eleven" I was marked with only one card higher than the four. But if this were the nine, his partner had led now from a six-card suit headed by the king-jack-ten! The more logical conclusion to draw was that the lead was not fourth best, in which case a shift was imperative.

I won the club return with the king and led the heart. West covered, dummy ducked, and East overtook with the king to lead a spade. Having won with the spade king, dummy led the heart ace and a low heart, which East snapped up. Disappointed at not finding the spade ace in his partner's hand, East decided to shift once more—a fatal error.

I won the diamond and overtook the jack of clubs with dummy's queen to knock out the last heart. Nothing could defeat the contract at this stage, since the eight of clubs had been preserved as an entry to bring in the hearts and since I still had a stopper in both spades and diamonds. But had East plugged away consistently at either suit, the defense would have taken five tricks before I could run the hearts.

SO RED THE ROSE
STARK YOUNG
The distinguished novelist Ellen Glasgow says: 'There has never been a novel of the South and the War between the States that can compare with it'... And now the book springs into still more vivid life on the screen.

Under the Stars and Bars... the old South rides again

Out of the fury of the War Between the States comes Stark Young's story of the gallant men and the heroic women who fought, suffered, and died for The Lost Cause . . . a great novel made by the glorious acting of Margaret Sullavan, herself a Southerner, of Walter Connolly, of Randolph Scott, of little Dickie Moore, by the inspired direction of King Vidor into a picture no son or daughter of the South will ever forget . . . a picture that will rank among the truly important pictures of our time.

Capital's Needy Given Feast; Kiddies Stuff, Wish for More + Turkey Post Mortem! + Volunteers Feed Hundreds; Bathing Girls Dine in Sun

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

SEEKS ACCLAIM IN ORIENT.—Sono Osato, 15, Japanese-American toe dancer who won acclaim in Europe, Mexico and United States, plans for day she can perform in Japan. Her father is Shoji Osato, Chicago Japanese, and her mother is Frances Fitzpatrick Osato, former Omaha society girl.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST!—These mothers and their children enjoyed Thanksgiving feast yesterday provided by the Volunteers of America. And just look at them enjoying turkey and all the fixin's. The men had their turn at table later. Hundreds were fed.

CROWD TAKES GRID HERO FOR RIDE.—Paul Shu, George Washington High School grid team captain, being carried from the field by enthusiastic rooters from game with Washington and Lee High School yesterday at Alexandria. George Washington won, 12 to 9, in thriller.

TURKEY ON THE BEACH! While Washingtonians had to stay around the fireside yesterday, these pretty girls were enjoying their turkey in sun at Miami.

CLEANING SHIP.—Middies at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, doing janitor work on the side of a battle wagon, learn the business of being an admiral after graduation. And who made that crack about life in the Navy being all fish and skittles?

WORKIN' ON THE LEVEE. Under sunny Southern skies this mule driver and his team (left) find employment in PWA's flood-control program along Mississippi. PWA has allotted $98,500,000 for building leeves to prevent costly floods.

Holiday Crowd Has Its Choice Of Fine Shows

By Chanticleer.

Even the weather can't prevent that holiday feeling from creeping into the bones these days—with the collegians back in town for the week-end and Santa Clauses joggling youngsters on their knees in the stores.

There's just something about the last week in November that says—"Boy, get into those going-someplace clothes and have yourself a time tonight."

Especially good bills of fare invite the holiday crowd's attention for this Friday and Saturday.

* * * *

For example, at the Shoreham—Ramon and Renita wind up their only too brief engagement in Washington tomorrow night. Billed, and living up to the claim, as the most brilliant dance team extant, Ramon and Renita return to Manhattan where they have contracts with the swankiest of the smart supper clubs. They came to Washington from Rockefeller Center's Rainbow room, which any New Yorker will tell you is tops, aces and other superlatives.

* * * *

And at the Club Habana, the holiday spirit is on rampage, still bubbling over from Wednesday night, when Guy Scott celebrated his first anniversary as supper club host in the local precincts. Then Thanksgiving came on top of that celebration and it's just naturally a gala occasion every day from now on. Moe Baer and his orchestra for dancing and Nadine and Girardo in dance interludes.

* * * *

The Madrillon is another spot where the spirit of gayety and abandon can be depended on any Friday or Saturday night when that "we're going to step out tonight" bug bites you. Leon Brusiloff and the Brusilloffians include a versatile trio of vocalists and antic-makers. Really a grand spot for that "let's get in out of the drizzle" feeling.

* * * *

Earl Lindsay's big "Revue of 1936" holds forth at the Lotus Restaurant with floor shows at noon and twice nightly. Al Norton greets the customers from the floor and Bill Strickland's Capitolians keep the feet in tempo to the swing of the evening. This week featuring Mickey Fitch, Shirley Dell, Ted and Ethel Walker and Patricia and Renardo—with a bevy of gals in the traditional style.

* * *

* * * *

Late afternoon or evening—cocktails at the Mayflower Lounge are always a swell idea. Buddy Harmon and his orchestra for the dancing. Rub elbows with brass hats and dignitaries. See your favorite Washington personality and all that sort of thing.

* * * *

If you've been laboring under the impression (as I did) that Russians are dark and swarthy, you can be quickly disillusioned by an evening at Club Volga Boatman. I am advised on reliable and quite voluntary authority that the lovely blonde in Matt Windsor's current show is named Jennie, although the last name means something only to another Russian.

* * * *

Emory Daugherty spent a busy day yesterday saying hello to all the folks who dined at La Paree. Maestro Daugherty takes this opportunity of saying another hello to all you good people who dressed up your own gobbler for the home table. The next best thing, says Emory, to Thanksgiving dinner at La Paree is an evening there tonight—or tomorrow night—w h a t with a brand new floor show in a premiere this very noon.

* * * *

Don't forget there's no cover now at Maryland Club Gardens. Just a modest minimum. Jimmy Harris and the new Winter Garden orchestra for dancing a n d floor shows nightly. Wonder where they keep the pet chimpanzee these cold days. Must think to ask about that.

* * * *

Momentum is being added daily at Dude Ranch—where Milt Barrett is pointing toward the opening of the black a n d gold room about the middle of next week. Last call for Kay and Kaydets—they're leaving after today. And somebody is saying that Host Barrett plans on giving felt hats to the gentlemen that night of the black and gold room opening. Now, I wonder could that be?

* * * *

Life was never like this for Phil Lynch. It's just one charley-horse after another. All because of pushing that little floor piano around the place. Phil hasn't let it interfere, however, with the band's performance. Don't forget there are three floor shows nightly at the Gingham Club.

* * * *

Police Aid County In Accident Probe

Washington police were assisting Prince Georges County (Md.) officers last night in investigating an accident yesterday on Edmonston road, near Hyattsvile, in which James Smothers, colored, of 115 E street southwest, sustained a fractured skull.

Smothers, police said, fell or was pushed from a truck following an argument. Tags on the machine were issued to Larry O'Day, of 203 Cornwell terrace.

$1,800,000,000 Sought in New Housing Bills

Government financing, the measure would make it mandatory that the actual operation of the projects be in the hands of local authorities.

The Ellenbogen bill has the personal indorsement of Secretary Ickes. Efforts are being made by housing officials to obtain an agreement between Ellenbogen and Wagner on a single measure. The bills now differ in only a few essential respects.

Demands from municipalities for Federal housing projects have lately been increasing, in spite of the fact that only $100,000,000 was allotted for the purpose from the $4,880,000,000 relief appropriation. All the projects for which money was allotted are under way. Altogether, the Government has started or is starting about 50 projects.

100 More Projects.

Preliminary surveys have been made for an additional 100 projects, most of which could be started within a comparatively short time if necessary legislation is enacted.

Another bill, to be introduced by Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, will permit the Government to pay municipalities for such services as fire protection, sewers, street maintenance and other ordinary municipal services. One objection to Federal housing is that it pays no taxes and the land on which projects are erected is taken off the tax lists. The housing division has offered to pay municipalities for the services, but the plan has been blocked by Comptroller General McCarl, who has ruled that the money cannot be paid without specific legislative permission.

FHA Unaffected.

None of this proposed legislation will affect the Federal Housing Administration and the Home Owners Loan Corporation, which are engaged in financing private home building. There has been some opposition to actual Government building on the ground that it competes with and restricts private building. Experts agree that there is ample money available for such building and most of them have predicted that a housing boom, privately financed, will occur next spring.

Stewart McDonald, head of the FHA, has indicated that Congress will be asked to broaden the scope of his organization to permit it to act with "more freedom and resilience."

Building permits were issued last month for 8,574 homes, as compared with 3,350 for the same month last year, McDonald pointed out. He predicted that should the present rate of building be maintained, 75,000 homes will have been erected by the end of this year.

McDonald said that he did not agree with the recent recommendation of the Committee on Economic Recovery that down payments on homes should be as low as 5 per cent, with interest rates at 4½ per cent. He said he did not know where money could be obtained for loans up to 95 per cent. The FHA guarantees loans up to 80 per cent of the assessed value of the property.

Texas Cave Men Were Indians, Smithsonian Scientist Learns

Study of 29 Skeletons Basis of Dr. Stewart's Conclusions.

Long clothed in a fog of mysterious origin, the ancient cave men of the Big Bend area of Texas were Indians, although they diverged considerably from the usual type of the American aboriginals.

This conclusion of Dr. T. D. Stewart, physical anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, had been reached after a preliminary study of 29 skulls and skeletons—the largest series thus far obtained.

Scientists have been puzzled by these troglodyte remains since their discovery a few years ago. Some have characterized them as belonging to a mysterious, extinct race. Others conjectured that the cave people were of the Melanesians, the black race now occupying a large extent of islands in the Pacific Ocean.

Dr. Stewart's conclusion is based largely on intact specimens of hair found on some of the skulls. Excavations by Dr. Frank Setzler, of the Smithsonian staff, have unearthed cultural material, which is characteristically Indian also.

The Texas aboriginals were not identical, however, with any other known Indian group. They were among the most dolicocephalic or narrow-headed people known to science. They are believed to have migrated originally from a narrow-headed stock of Asians.

Plane Passenger Is Shot by Sniper

By the Associated Press.

Bryan, Tex., Nov. 28.A marksman with a high-powered rifle wounded George W. Barnes, jr., near the heart as the youth and a companion, Byron Black, flew in an open cockpit airplane over a wood near here today.

Barnes, son of the livestock specialist of the Texas A. & M. College extension service, was rushed to a hospital here. Physicians said the wound was serious, but that he probably will recover.

Black and young Barnes, an amateur photographer, were en route to the Texas A. & M. College to photograph the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between the Cadets and Texas University. The ship was approximately 800 feet in the air when the bullets crashed through the fuselage.

Rome Bombers Wreck Defense At Daggah Bur

Col. Robt. Hockman, U. S., May Have Undergone Air Bombardment.

By the United Press.

Mogadishu, Italian Somaliland, Nov. 28.—Two squadrons composed of ten Caproni bombers attacked and destroyed the Ethiopian fortifications at Daggah Bur Tuesday, the military command anounced tonight

Daggah Bur is less than 100 miles south of Jijiga, Ethiopia's southeastern military base.

The first squadron zoomed low over the town, dropping half its cargo of destruction. Four minutes later the second flew across the Ethiopian positions and released half its load.

Pilots reported fragments of the fortifications flew high in the air amid a great cloud of smoke and dust.

Dr. Robert Hockman, of Wheaton, Ill., chief of an Ethiopian Red Cross unit, last was reported at Daggah Bur.

Circle Over Town.

The big trimotored bombers then circled over Daggah Bur for five minutes until the dust had settled enough to allow them to see that the fortifications were nearly wiped out. They then roared across again, dropping all their remaining bombs and completing the work of destruction. The entire operation took 15 minutes.

The aviators reported many Ethiopian regular troops with hastily donned arm bands clustered under a large building on the roof of which was painted a red cross.

Selassie Off to Front.

Addis Ababa, Nov. 28 (AP).—Emperor Haile Selassie left today for Dessye to take command of his warriors attempting to repel the Fascist invasion.

A huge military escort was provided for the ruler, who traveled by automobile. He was accompanied by Tecle Hawariate, former minister to France and representative at Geneva, who also is one of Ethiopia's best military strategists.

"I leave without knowing when I return or if I shall die for my country," the Emperor told the Abuna (high Bishop) of Ethiopia's Coptic Christian Church.

Asks Benediction.

"But if I never return, I shall be happy knowing that you, my father, are in my place. Give me your benediction and do not forget me in your prayers."

Haile Selassie returned only last week from an airplane survey of the southern front. Dessye is in eastern Ethiopia and is field headquarters between the northern and southern armies.

The government claimed today its attacks on the Italians were bearing fruit on both fronts.

Everett Colson, American adviser to the Emperor, taking a brief respite from his arduous duties, celebrated Thanksgiving tonight with 30 other Americans.

'Alfalfa' Is Plain Hay Dealer Faces Charge

Because a contractor "dressed up" a carload of alfalfa shipped to the District Workhouse at Occoquan, Va., so that inspectors were deceived as to its quality, criminal proceedings against him are under preparation, it was disclosed by prison officials yesterday.

A department of Agriculture inspector inspected only the alfalfa he could see from the freight car door. He graded it No. 1. When unloading was begun, it was discovered that inferior quality hay had been hidden in the car.

Scout Rescued From Potomac

Wind Capsizes Tiny Craft 500 Feet From Naval Air Station.

Donald Yates, 17, a Sea Scout, tried sailing a moth-class boat, one of the trickiest of sailing craft, for the first time in his life yesterday and 500 feet from the Naval Air Station a sudden gust of wind dumped him into the Potomac River.

Yates clung to the bottom of his tiny craft and cried for help. His calls were answered by two boats of the Corinthian Yacht Club Sea Scouts, of which he is a member, and a patrol boat from the air station. Yates and his boat were taken ashore.

The Sea Scout rescue craft were piloted by Marvin Foley, 18, and Forman Shore, 18, both of 602 Maryland avenue northeast.

Yates, who lives at 1227 Franklin street northeast, had named his boat, recently acquired, the Donald Duck. He and Frederick Tilp, skipper of the Corinthian Scouts, had planned to spend the three-day Thanksgiving holiday sailing—until that sudden wind gust yesterday.

Woman, 60, Drinks Poison, Ends Life

A 60-year-old woman, despondent over ill health, mixed a poison potion in the bathroom of her home last night, drank it and died a few hours later in Emergency Hospital.

She was Mrs. Gertrude Barrett, who lived with her husband, J. Nicholson Barrett, an employe of the Otis Elevator Co., at 4420 Volta place northwest. Barrett found his wife lying on her bed early in the evening. He also found a note. It read:

"Nick, dear:

"I love you, but I simply can't carry on. Lil is coming and will take care of you."

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Reducing and Rolling Exercises.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists. Advt.

Capital Society Flocks To Two Debut Parties

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

Two beautiful debut parties yesterday afternoon were attended by most members of Capital society. As they were given in homes not far apart, guests went from the home of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Adolphus Andrews on Kalorama road to that of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. LeFevre on Tracy place, walking the short distance and gathering in small groups along the way to chat about the parties.

Admiral and Mrs. Andrews are residing in the home of Mrs. Sidney A. Cloman this winter. It is a charming house for a party. Mrs. Andrews and her daughter, Miss Frances Andrews, received in the drawing room, where masses of flowers which had been sent to the debutante were arranged to decorate the room. Soft green walls, deep, dull green velours on chairs and sofas, and soft lights made a perfect background for Miss Andrews, who chose for her "coming-out" frock, a robe de style of white lame shot with golden threads. She carried a cluster of white orchids, but during the afternoon alternated these flowers with other handsome bouquets which had been sent to her.

Three Debutantes Assist.

Assisting the debutante were three sister buds of the season, Miss Marguerite Hagner, Miss Emily Davis and Miss Eleanor Flood.

Mrs. Andrews wore an afternoon gown of wine colored velvet, and was assisted by Mrs. Henry L. Roosevelt, wife of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Mrs. William H. Standley, wife of the Chief of Naval Operations; Mrs. David Foote Sellers, wife of the superintendent of the United States Naval Academy; Mrs. John H. Gibbons, Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mrs. Alan Kirk, and Mrs. Albert Niblack.

On Tracy place, Mr. and Mrs. LeFevre were holding a similar reception for their daughter, Miss Sally Mitchell LeFevre. The debutante wore a frock of deep cream colored moire, fashioned on medieval lines with the fitted bodice buttoning down the front, and short puffed sleeves. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of gardenias, lilies of the valley, and yellow roses. Mrs. LeFevre wore a gown of soft green hammered satin with long sleeves, and a shoulder bouquet of brown orchids.

Preside at Tea Table.

Presiding in turn at the tea table were Senora de Alfaro, wife of the Minister of Panama; Mrs. Stanley Reed, wife of the Solicitor General; Mrs. Malcolm Matheson, Mrs. Ralph Worthington, Mrs. Arthur S. Here's System That Will Make Buying Easier Birch Log Flower Packages Are Inexpensive Yule Remembrances.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

TOO MANY, Christmas shopping is an ogre that bears down upon them as soon as Thanksgiving Day is past. It preys upon their minds until they toss restlessly at night making mental lists of cousins, uncles, aunts and friends who must be remembered. It creeps into their consciences and whispers monotonously, maddeningly, "Shop early! Shop now!"

There's one sure system that will vanquish this ogre, and here it is. Take time out some morning when your mind is fresh and rested and make out your Christmas list. Thereafter, whenever a new name crosses your mind, jot it down. Next, take one day off and "do" the shops. Have your list with you and as you see appropriate gift suggestions, write them down opposite the name, with the price on the outside margin. Next morning, when you're fully rested and have the leisure, study your list, add up the prices, picking and choosing to suit your budget. Once these details are attended to, you can phone in your orders as you please. Presto, the ogre hides his head in shame, and Christmas shopping takes on a new aspect.

• • • •

Birch Log Flower Packages.

FOR those casual friends who come between the gift and the card list, why not some little remembrance such as the birch log flower packages shown in a local store. These cost but 50 cents and they're the sort of thing that would be gratefully received anywhere.

Small birch logs (real silvery birch, too!) about a foot long, have been partially hollowed out and filled with moss. Planted in the moss are narcissus bulbs. These are kept from growing by a strip of cellophane wrapped tightly around the log. You remove this, dampen the moss, and bide your time. In a few days the bulbs send up shoots, and from then on it's great fun watching and ministering to this indoors garden.

The Perfect Lipstick.

IN your search for THE lipstick, you're seeking for one with a glowing, indelible, natural and becoming color, one with a smooth texture that gives your lips a velvety softness, and one with an exquisite fragrance.

So many women wonder why it is difficult to get the ideal lipstick. They do not realize that the knowledge, effort and sincerity of purpose required to make a perfectly balanced formula is a large total of requisites. That lipstick must not pull, it must not smear, it must not draw the delicate membranes of the lips, it must not burn, and many other must nots.

One maker of aristocratic beauty preparations believes she has finally perfected THE lipstick. It achieves the desired effect of luminosity, not too yellow for the brunette, nor too blue for the blonde, the color truly an attainment in the research of pigments. Its softness, adherence and sweet taste is indeed a delight. You might give it a try.

Elegant Shaving Sets.

JUST what to put in his stocking (or should one say sock?) when Christmas comes isn't always the easiest thing in the world to decide. One good suggestion, however, is the elegant shaving set featured by a downtown store.

It includes a tall masculine looking bottle of eau de cologne with a real mannish scent, an excellent shaving cream, a box of talcum powder and a giant cake of marvelous soap.

Elizabeth Travis Escapes Stage Fright in Concerts

MISS ELIZABETH TRAVIS

By Hope Ridings Miller.

ALTHOUGH SHE HAS played in more concerts than she can remember, Elizabeth Travis, pianist, has never suffered from stage fright.

In fact, she isn't sure she knows what it is. So when she appears next Sunday as soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra the audience can be sure the slip of a girl who sits at the piano will be as much at home as the most seasoned musician on the stage.

Yesterday at the apartment of Miss Willa Semple, her Washington hostess, Miss Travis said she had virtually "grown up at the piano," had been playing in so many concerts so many years, she had lost track of the number of both. "It has been a good many years," she said. "As well as I can remember, I was 5 when I first played before an audience. I've been at it ever since."

Judging from her youthful appearance, however, "ever since" couldn't cover so many years. "Oh, but it does," she emphasized. "You see, I'm 23 now."

Acclaimed Abroad.

All of that? But wasn't 23 fairly young for a musician who had already scored outstanding success in performing with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and who had also won acclaim for concerts throughout Austria, Germany and Finland?

Miss Travis modestly thought not. She said, furthermore, that "probably anyone who worked at it as hard as I have, could get as far—perhaps farther—than I have. I decided on my career very early, you see, and have plugged away at it steadily for a long, long time."

In her case, "plugging away" has meant studying for years, practicing from four to five hours every day, and filling concert engagements season after season. "It has meant, also, I must spend so much time away from my husband that few persons even know I'm married," she said.

Yet she has been married almost five years. "It doesn't seem that long, though, because I'm away on concert tours for months at a time," she went on. "My home is in Boston, because many of my engagements are there, while my husband lives in New York. Ours is a sort of 'long distance marriage.' The arrangement isn't exactly ideal, but what can we do—when one of us is a pianist who must spend at least half the time running about from city to city and the other is an automobile insurance salesman, whose work keeps him in the same place?"

Washington Debut.

The marriage might not work out successfully at all, Miss Travis explained, "if my husband weren't such an understanding person. He has a deep appreciation of music, is very much in sympathy with what I hope to accomplish, and seems almost as interested in my career as I am."

Miss Travis' appearance will mark her debut before a Washington audience. She is looking forward to it eagerly "because playing with the National Symphony Orchestra is something almost any musician would consider a privilege."

Discussing her recent concert tour in Europe, she spoke of "the enthusiastic reception foreign countries give to American musicians." Yet much as she enjoyed her concert engagements in Finland, Germany and Austria she doesn't feel "Europeans as a whole are any more music-minded than people in this country. Audiences were particularly kind to me everywhere I went abroad," she said, "but playing before an appreciative American audience is just as thrilling, just as satisfying."

Miss Travis will appear in concerts in a number of cities in the United States this winter, and will go abroad again next summer to fill engagements in Rome, Leipzig and Vienna.

2-Piece Dress Is Chic Model And Versatile

By Laura I. Baldt, A. M.

THE TWO-PIECE dress featured today, is quite different from anything you've seen. In plain crepe of new novelty weave, wine, rust or in always smart black, you can frequently change it from a street dress to a cocktail or a dinner dress. Just substitute the plaided wool-like silk ascot scarf and belt to one of gold lame and gold kid. What a joy for the young business women.

You can also use the pattern for a separate blouse or a separate skirt. Style No. 2609 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 years, 36, 38, and 40-inches bust. Size 16 requires 4 yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

PLEASANT HOMES

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

A MAN LIKES a good place to park. That means a sofa and chairs that are big and deep and comfortable . . . not spindley little settees where you have to sit up and be dignified. So—our advice as to the type of furniture for a much-used living room is furniture that is really good to live with. If you like dainty pieces, satisfy that urge in the type of cabinets, tables and desks that you choose . . . you might even have an occasional chair or so in that style. But for the regular sitting to be done, there is nothing like overstuffed for solid comfort . . . and down cushions into the bargain if possible.

• • • •

Virginia Woman Would Open Home to Child Who Is Public Ward.

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I have been reading your column for a long time. Now I wonder if you can help me solve my problem. I understand it is customary for certain organizations in Washington to place children in country homes to room and board. I wonder if there is such an organization in the State of Virginia, where I live. I would like to take such a child into my home. Please tell me to whom I should apply for full information. A speedy reply will be appreciated. Yours, truly,
PEGGY M.

Routine Procedure.

DEAR PEGGY M.: By writing to the Children's Bureau, Department of Public Welfare of the State of Virginia, State Office Building, Richmond, Va., you can obtain full information concerning your State's regulations governing child placement in boarding or foster homes.

• • • • •

Miss Katherine Billott, supervisor of the home-finding department, division of Child Welfare of the District of Columbia Board of Public Welfare, can tell you the regulations which govern the District of Columbia's placement of dependent children in such homes. Miss Billott's address is 469 C street northwest, Washington, D. C.

The District of Columbia Child Welfare division does occasionally place dependent orphaned children or those from broken homes to board with families in nearby Virginia, particularly in the vicinities of Vienna and Fairfax.

• • • •

Your home would have to be inspected and licensed by the Department of Health and approved by the Home Finding Department of the Child Welfare Division before a dependent child could be committed to your care. The Health Department determines whether the physical aspects of the home meet the standard rquirements of hygiene; and the Home Finding Department determines whether the home offers the child wholesome social environment. As a rule there must be a certain amount of economic security, in order that the money paid for the child's maintenance is spent for that purpose and not to carry the whole family. The family must enjoy a high-respectability rating in the community, and members of the family should have a sympathetic and practical understanding of the complex requirements of successful child rearing.
M. H. D.

Child's Faults Often Traced To the Parent

THE MOTHER who has a "little terror" in her home should start in on a diagnosis of her own character. In all likelihood the child is reflecting her own attitudes toward life.

This viewpoint is expressed in the current issue of the Parents Magazine by Helen Sargent, supervisor of the Psychological Clinic at Northwestern University. Not only in matters of temperament can the origin of a child's problem be traced to the parent, says Miss Sargent, but in the realm of attitudes there is often a definite relationship.

The psychologist calls attention particularly to the "little terror" whose mother has been warned that he has a nervous temperament and must not be overstimulated. She follows expert advice to the letter, makes him rest before going to bed, forbids him exciting radio programs, etc. But he continues to grind his teeth, toss in bed and raise cain during the day hours.

"With studied quiet she asks him to stop banging on the table while she is telephoning, then in a voice tense with annoyance tells the grocer what she thinks of the peas he sent yesterday. She arranges a simple routine for her son, but herself rushes from one task to the next, creating an atmosphere of crackling electricity wherever she moves."

Dorothy's another example. Miss Sargent points out the poor child simply can't or won't make friends and it worries mother. Yet mother confesses:

"I never have liked many people . . . When I'm with a group, I always wish to get back home . . . I don't miss people . . . I have my family."

Miss Sargent's theory is that if mother is to find out what's wrong with Dorothy, she must search her own character. "Mother must determine why her life has become so egocentric that she is content to do without friendly contacts that are a vital part of the life of the average human being."

Seafood Dishes Provide Variety In Dinner Fare

Scalloped Lobster, Baked Eels, Bouillaboise or Salmon Suggested.

By Elisabeth Ellicott Poe.

FRIDAY is "fish day" the world around and those who have enjoyed too much Thanksgiving turkey would do well to substitute some specimen of the finny tribe for the annual fowl as the chief protein element in tonight's dinner.

The more general use of fish at least once a week in the family diet would bring about lasting benefits in the form of healthier adults, better and stronger children. These blessings arise out of the vitamin, phosphorus, calcium and iodine content of fish and seafood.

The waters in and around the United States abound in edible fish, and other forms of sea life that can be utilized in cooking. This great natural wealth can hardly be estimated. Long ago Uncle Sam recognized its value by establishing a Bureau of Fisheries where the welfare of sea life is studied by experts and everything done possible to develop its production.

There are certain types of fish associated with various sections of the country. For instance the cod and the lobster inhabit the waters adjacent to New England, and have long been staple articles of diet in its communities. The lobster associated with after theater supper parties in the public mind is also an excellent family dish, and its meat while more expensive here than in New England, can be used with economy in a number of ways. For instance, try scalloped lobster some Friday night. It is made as follows:

Scalloped Lobster.

Split live lobster, leaving meat in, pour in crevices a mixture of bread crumbs, cream, butter, chopped parsley, celery and onions.

Place in a very hot oven for 25 minutes and serve.

The eel is not so popular in all parts of the country as its tender meat deserves. In New York State and the lake regions of the Middle West it is appreciated, however, and appears on the tables of all classes.

Baked Eels.

Split 1 pound of eels, wash in salted water and drain. Put in bake pan, dust with flour and sprinkle with pepper, dot with butter and enough water to keep from burning, cover. Should be brown as if broiled. They bake quickly.

New Orleans and the far South find epicurean delight in the famous dish known as "Bouillabaise." The New Orleans fish market is one of the famed centers of the country for this type of food, and abounds in variety. Thackeray once praised the Creole cooks in the following words: "In New Orleans you can eat a Bouillabaise, the like of which as never eaten in Marseilles or Paris." Its principal ingredients are snapper, turtle and red fish. This is the way a Louisiana mammy prepares it:

New Orleans Bouillabaise.

6 slices of red snapper
6 slices of red fish
½ bottle white wine
½ lemon
6 big tomatoes
3 onions
1 herb bouquet
3 cloves of garlic
2 bay leaves
3 sprigs of thyme
3 sprigs of parsley
6 allspice
2 tablespoonsful olive oil
1 good strong pinch of saffron salt, pepper and cayenne to taste.

Cut off head red snapper, boil in 1½ quarts of water making a fish stock. Put one slice onion and the herb bouquet thyme, bay leaf and parsley into water. Reduce to pint, take out turtle head and bouquet and strain the water.

Take the six slices of red fish and snapper and rub with salt and pepper. Mince thyme, parsley, bay leaves and garlic finely then add the allspice and mix thoroughly. Rub each slice of fish in this, put two tablespoonsful of olive oil in pan, chop two onions and add to the oil. Then put in the slices of fish thus prepared and let them smother for ten minutes. Then take the fresh fish out and put it in a dish. Pour the white wine into a pan, add tomatoes, sliced lemon and pour a pint of snapper head liquor in, season, boil until strong, then put in fish and boil for five minutes, then spread saffron over the fish. Take out of pan, put on toast fried in butter and then pour the sauce over all. It should be served hot immediately.

Gay Muffler Gives Dash To Men's Winter Attire

By Amos Parrish.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—A good looking muffler—whether gay or quiet, patterned or plain—is a definite addition to a man's winter wardrobe. And this season's mufflers include designs, colors and materials to warm the hearts—and necks—of the men who wear them.

Long Muffler Best.

Men have found that the long muffler "stays put" better than the scarf type, especially when tied Ascot. This season even the paisley types are seen in the long version.

Plain colored, fancy knits are proving very popular — basket weaves, herring-bone weaves and fish net effects. Solid color flannels, as usual, are tops in deep maroon and blue.

Stripes and more stripes. Some knit and some in rep silk. Deep combinations . . . dark blue and somber green . . . dull red combined with rich brown. Some of the sportier knits are in houndstooth checks and monotone plaids.

Plaids in Favor.

Scotch plaids are perennial favorites in flannel and some of these that are hand-loomed have a small fringe at each end and at the sides.

White crepe is the standard for evening mufflers, but last year's fashion for pale yellow still has a large following. Black embroidered initials smarten these and whether fringed or unfringed, they are necessities for formal attire.

Is your face oval, long or round? Whatever its contour, the right hat will accentuate your best features. Amos Parrish talks about "Choosing a Hat" in a bulletin which may be obtained by sending a stamp with your request to Amos Parrish, in care of The Washington Post.

Beauty Budget Of Film Stars Is Large Item

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—The average beauteous movie star spends $100 to $200 a month staying that way, a mere man's survey disclosed tonight. Some spend a lot more.

The high cost of keeping beautiful was brought out the other day when a judge told Mrs. Lloyd Bacon, wife of a director, $25 a month was enough for beauty treatments. In her alimony plea she asked $200.

How, a man who gets "the works" in a barber shop for $2.25 might ask, could a woman spend $200 a month?

Three Facials a Week.

The average actress gets three $3.50 facials a week. If some special imported cream is used, the price is doubled. Many have facials daily.

And a permanent wave (she needs one at least every three months) is $25.

She gets three manicures weekly, at 75 cents each—$1.50 if she wants hot oil. Composition nails, which last a week, are $2.50 a set.

$2.50 For Eyebrow Arching.

Then there is the eyebrow-arching, the first job at $2.50, subsequent archings 50 cents; the dying of eyebrows and eyelashes, marcels, electrolysis (for removal of superfluous hair) at $3 an hour, massages, shampoos and hair-dying.

There are numerous other incidentals, if milady can afford them—including pedicures, scalp treatments, oil baths and the like.

Westmore says there's no getting away from it. "Competition is so keen," he explained, "that the star can not afford, even for a day, to appear any other way than her best."

N. Y. Dressmakers Select 10 Fashion Leaders of America

By the United Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—New York dressmakers selected their own list of the best dressed women in America tonight and disagreed violently with their Parisian colleagues.

The Paris experts gave first place to Lady Mendl, the former Elsie de Wolfe, but she didn't make the local list. The New Yorkers chose:

1. Mrs. Byron Foy, daughter of Walter P. Chrysler.
2. Mrs. Howard Linn, of Chicago.
3. Dorothy Hale, society actress.
4. Mrs. Henry Field.
5. Mrs. Allan Ryan, jr.
6. Mrs. George F. Baker, wife of the New York banker.
7. Mrs. John Hearst.
8. Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, jr.
9. Mrs. Raymond Ives.
10. Miss Mary Taylor.

Burden Placed On Heart Prior To Motherhood

Disease Sometimes Detected That Might Not Have Appeared Otherwise.

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

THERE is an old saying that necessity is the mother of invention; and history is replete with instances in which man has risen above his surroundings whenever the urge was sufficiently powerful. We are no doubt aware of many exhibitions of well nigh superhuman strength when an individual has been under the stress of fright or some emergency.

Ideas are born of a great determination; one that fills the breast of a devoted soul and that results in outstanding accomplishment for the public weal.

Britain's most distinguished heart specialist arose in a moment of stress. James Mackenzie, a Scottish lad from the University of Edinburgh, had set up in practice in the village of Burnley. One night he was summoned to assist in ushering a new life into the world. He had observed the prospective mother carefully during the period of her pregnancy and the case appeared to be normal in every respect. At that time he did not know all the ins and outs of heart disease and he failed to recognize symptoms that later spelled the state of affairs as though written in letters a foot high. The fatal termination of the case from heart failure aroused within the man an earnest resolve. Alone in his consulting room Mackenzie paced the floor in the deepest anguish confronting the question, "Would this death have occurred had I known more about heart disease?"

Answers Challenge.

His own ignorance appalled him and he decided then and there to study heart conditions and if possible learn how to prevent such unfortunate accidents. From that moment he became a student of the functions and the diseases of the heart. It was as though a challenge had been flung to him—one that he could not decline. It was not necessary that he remove to London, Berlin, Edinburgh or Paris. He remained in Burnley and through sheer force of necessity devised ways and means by which he could determine just what the heart was doing, what its symptoms meant, and what could be done from a medical point of view to aid that important structure.

Mackenzie's discoveries might have remained only of local interest if he had not told about them, and with much trepidation he described his studies of extra beats (irregular hearts). He told how he was able to determine the type of irregularity that was without danger to life as well as the type that required careful management. As with many discoveries concerning disease much of his work fell on deaf ears and, although he ultimately challenged medical opinion in London, he was never made one of that group as he perhaps would have wished and as his discoveries fully justified. He lived long enough, however, to be the acknowledged leader of British heart specialists and he recalled with pride that the late Sir William Osler came to study his methods. It is a matter of no little interest that recognition of the value of his contributions to heart disease came first from America and Germany before the great men of his own nation deigned to acknowledge him.

Heart Does Extra Duty.

But what about pregnancy and the heart? During this period the heart is called upon for more work than under routine conditions. This can well be understood when we realize that blood is being pumped to the developing fetus where many of its components are deposited. Because of this extra demand women with somewhat damaged hearts who under ordinary circumstances would remain well may show signs of heart failure.

As the new life develops there may appear with the prospective mother functional (not organic) heart murmurs or certain nervous symptoms that affect the heart—all of which yield promptly to treatment. About 1 out of every 500, however, will exhibit symptoms of organic heart disease not, of course, caused by pregnancy, but because this condition has uncovered a diseased state of the heart that existed long before pregnancy occurred. The added heart load of the developing fetus brought to the surface symptoms that otherwise might not have appeared.

Police Brand Lynch Killing Murder Plot

Burke Not Satisfied With Alibis of Kappel and Cullen.

Convinced "beyond a doubt" that Elizabeth R. Lynch, 35-year-old Potomac Electric Power Co. telephone operator, was slain early Wednesday as a result of a brutal murder plot, investigators last night sent a city-wide broadcast for the apprehension of a taxi driver who may hold a key to solution of the mystery.

While homicide squad detectives continued to question two men, known to have been friends of the slain woman, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, ordered precinct policemen to "contact every taxi driver in Washington" in an effort to find which one picked up a fare at Fourth and H streets northeast about midnight Tuesday.

Inspector Burke indicated he was not entirely satisfied with the story told by William A. (Dutch) Kappel, 34, one of the two men now held for questioning. Kappel reputedly told police that after he took Miss Lynch home about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, he hailed a taxi at Fourth and H streets and rode to the 1200 block of New York avenue northwest and remained at a "club" until 6 a. m. the following morning.

Hailed Cab Alone.

Kappel, said to be a "sweetheart" of the Lynch woman, declared he met Leo T. Cullen, 31, 700 block of Fourth street northeast, the second man held in the case, and that they were together at the "club" all night. Kappel, however, said he was alone when he hailed the taxi and "couldn't remember the name of the cab," according to Inspector Burke.

Miss Lynch, an attractive divorcee, was found with a bullet through the side of her face in the kitchen of her home at 918 Fourth street northwest. A revolver was lying at her feet. Her legs were bruised and a broken chair was found near her head.

Kappel, a roomer at the Lynch house, said he found the woman's body when he arrived home early Wednesday morning and immediately called police. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said Miss Lynch had been dead for several hours.

Quarreled in Club.

Early Tuesday night, according to Kappel's story as told by police, he and Miss Lynch visited the New York avenue "club." The pair quarreled and Kappel took her home. She refused to let him into the house, he was quoted as saying, and it was then he walked to Fourth and H streets and took a taxi back to the "club."

He again met Cullen; they had several drinks and started home about 6 a. m. When he entered the house, Kappel told investigators, he found Miss Lynch lying on the kitchen floor. He ran to the street and summoned Cullen, who was entering his home, two blocks away. They returned together.

Inspector Burke said he wanted to find the cab driver who drove Kappel to the "club."

"I want to check his story," the detective said.

Meanwhile, fingerprint experts are examining the death gun for a possible clew to the slayer's identity.

White Asks Support For Yule Seal Drive

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming and Miss Jane McCallum release carrier pigeons with messages about the Christmas Seal campaign of the Tuberculosis Association. The pigeons will take their message to the association in Virginia, to which Dr. Cumming belongs.

Tuberculosis Association Head Cites High D. C. Death Rate.

Pleading for increased clinical facilities for both children and adults, Dr. William Charles White, president of the District Tuberculosis Association, asked public support for the annual Christmas seal drive, which opened yesterday.

Citing the fact that Washington has the second highest tuberculosis death-rate of the larger cities, Dr. White said:

"We must have more and better-organized public health nursing in the Health Department, to discover new cases and follow-up known cases, protecting others from infection.

"We should provide a larger health camp for tuberculosis children. We intend to continue our educational lectures and free distribution of health literature.

"All this must be done if we are to reduce the shamefully high mortality from this disease. It can be done providing the thinking people of our city support generously by buying and using our Christmas seals on letters and gifts."

Washingtonians fearing they have tuberculosis are being given X-ray examinations as a WPA project. The total examined to date, it was reported yesterday, is 1,270. No examinations will be given during the balance of the week. Colored groups will be examined Monday in the Garnet-Patterson Junior High School.

Surg. Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, of the Public Health Service, issued a statement wishing the campaign success and urging the public to support the drive "to the end that tuberculosis may finally be brought under control."

He pointed out that the Public Health Service has always aided the National Tuberculosis Association and its units in their fight against tuberculosis.

"My native State of Virginia, despite its splendid climate, efficient health organization, tuberculosis santoria, and fine citizenry, still has too high a death rate from tuberculosis, especially among her colored people," he said.

Thanksgiving Thieves Steal Turkeys, Fowl

Poultry Stores Suffer; Stores, Homes Are Ransacked by Burglars.

Even burglars operated in the spirit of Thanksgiving in Washington yesterday. Only instead of giving they took—4 turkeys and 12 chickens from poultry stores.

Ernest Greenleafe, commission merchant at 910 Twenty-first street northwest, told police three turkeys valued at $15 were taken from his shop by a thief who bored his way through a brick wall in the rear.

A turkey worth $5 was stolen from a coop in front of his store in the 300 block of Massachusetts avenue northwest, Herman Hozlow reported. Thomas Bradley, colored, 36, 200 block of L street northwest, was arrested a short time later and charged with the theft.

Twelve chickens were taken from a coop in the rear of a store in the 100 block of D street southwest, Abraham Goldsman reported to police. The chickens were worth $12, he said.

Nearly $300 worth of property and cash was taken from houses and restaurants, police records show.

Morris Edelman, 2210 Georgia avenue northwest, said his shoe shop was entered and two pair of shoes stolen.

By breaking a glass in a side window, thieves entered a shop in the 6000 block Dix street northeast. James H. Randall said a .38-caliber revolver, two boxes of cigars and a carton of cigarettes had been taken.

Thieves broke into a restaurant in the 1000 block U street and $4 in cash and the contents of a vending machine were stolen.

William Taylor, manager of a grocery store in the 400 block First street southeast, told police $30 worth of meats and cigarettes had been stolen from the shop.

U. S. Quizzes Killeen Slayer In Gang Death

Attempt Made to Link Murdered Gangster to Wilson Case.

Results of Questioning of Lillian Maddock Kept Secret.

Efforts to link the late Edward V. Killeen with the murder of Allen B. Wilson, newspaper route agent, were intensified yesterday.

Defense lawyers, it was learned, have permitted Department of Justice agents to question Mrs. Lillian Maddock, 35-year-old mistress of the gambler, whom she confessed she killed last Saturday.

While activities of the Justice agents were closely guarded, indications were Mrs. Maddock was questioned about reports that Wilson was unintentionally slain by gangsters Killeen hired a year ago to "rub out" his numbers racket rival, "Mickey" McDonald.

The nature of information given the investigators by Mrs. Maddock was not disclosed. She was examined, however, on the theory she was as familiar as anyone with Killeen's gambling activities.

State Senator Stedman Prescott, Mrs. Maddock's lawyer, accompanied Justice agents as they questioned the woman in Rockville Jail.

Meanwhile, Judge Harold C. Smith, of Montgomery County Police Court, conferred with James H. Pugh, State's attorney. No date was set, however, for the arraignment of Mrs. Maddock on a charge of Killeen's murder. The hearing probably will be held within a fortnight.

Pugh reiterated the Maddock case would be presented to a special grand jury to investigate the Wilson case in December, should she be ordered held by Judge Smith.

Attorneys for Mrs. Maddock indicated they were prepared to produce witnesses who would testify she shot Killeen in self-defense after a drinking bout at his home in Brookmont, Md.

Bail so far has been denied to Mrs. Maddock.

S. J. Hall Shuns Own Room, Dies in Boarder's Bed.

Had Samuel J. Hall, 50, a clerk in the National Metropolitan Bank, slept in his own room he would have lived yesterday to eat Thanksgiving dinner with his family.

Hall retired about 2 a. m. to a room ordinarily occupied by a boarder who had left the house at 2943 Macomb street northwest for the holiday. Hall told his wife he didn't want to be disturbed.

Gas from a heater installed in the room to replace a faulty radiator, asphyxiated him as he slept. His father, Stanley W. Hall, said he believed his son either went to sleep under the impression the heater was lighted when he turned on the gas or that a draft from a window had blown out the flame.

New D. C. Tax On Utilities Is Held Likely

City Budget to Need $7,000,000 More in Future.

Fresh Inheritance, Auto, Gasoline Levies Are Proposed.

Working out a program of future expenditures and revenues for the maintenance and development of the National Capital is the task to be resumed today by the special tax committee appointed by the District Commissioners with E. Barrett Prettyman, corporation counsel, as chairman.

That some additional taxes will be recommended by the committee seems certain. Those regarded as most likely are a proposed revision and increase in taxes on public utilities, estimated to yield $1,500,000, and an inheritance tax, estimated to yield $600,000 annually.

The committee has under study analyses prepared by Daniel J. Donovan, auditor, and William P. Richards, assessor, members of the committee. These show the fiscal history of the city, from 1920 to date. One of the significant facts developed has been the growth in operating and maintenance expenses. These have been increasing at the rate of about $1,000,000 a year.

Capital Expenditures.

Capital expenditures—that is, purchase of sites, construction of sewers, schools, libraries and such things—have varied sharply during the years. From less than $3,000,000 in 1920 they increased to $10,000,000 in 1925, running along at about that figure until 1929. They rose sharply to a peak of more than $16,000,000 in 1931 and declined sharply since 1932. Capital outlay for the current fiscal year is only little more than $5,000,000.

If the capital expenditures are to be increased to $10,000,000 a year and carried forward on that level, which some committee members believe essential, it would require more than $7,000,000 additional revenue to make ends meet in the future, it is estimated.

Proposed Taxes Cited.

Four proposed taxes were cited by the Commissioners for study by the committee. These were utilities and inheritance taxes, an automobile weight tax, estimated to yield $1,000,000, and an increase of 1 cent a gallon in the gasoline tax, estimated to produce $750,000 more a year. Even these four would leave more than $3,000,000 to be made up from other sources.

The Commissioners are asking for an increase in the $5,700,000 Federal appropriation provided this year to $8,317,500, the average appropriation for the last ten years, which is also favored by some members of the committee. But the Commissioners are not very hopeful of getting the amount they ask, and other members of the committee deride the prospects of an increase.

A compromise is expected which will bring proposed expenditures below the $10,000,000 capital outlay figure, and increase revenues from the inheritance and utilities taxes, it was said. Report of the committee is expected to be made to the Commissioners next week.

Anti-Red Oath Signed By All D. C. Teachers

No 'Scopes Trial' to Test Act Forbidding Instruction in Communistic Theories in Washington Public Schools.

There is no John Thomas Scopes among the teachers, janitors or elevator operators in Washington public schools.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, said last night that he had encountered not a single refusal to sign the teachers' oath required by Controller General McCarl to comply with the anti-Communist rider on the 1936 District appropriations act.

"We have received signed declarations from everybody affected by the ruling except about a half dozen teachers, who are either ill or out of the city," he said.

No Test Case.

As a consequence District officials said there is little likelihood of a repetition of the famed Scopes trial in Tennessee, where William Jennings Bryan made his last fight in defense of a fundamentalist interpretation of the Bible. Scopes challenged the State law prohibiting the teaching of the theory of evolution, and lost the decision.

Washington teachers, who must sign the McCarl declaration or fail to collect their salaries, are presumably going ahead on the interpretation of the rider as expressed by Corporation Counsel E. Barrett Prettyman. That opinion was that they could teach the subject of Communism but are prohibited from advocating it.

Examine Textbooks.

A special committee of the Board of Education meanwhile is laboriously examining the textbooks on modern politics and economics to determine whether any sections might constitute Communist propaganda. They have fixed no time for reporting their findings.

The oath required by McCarl states, among other things, that the signer did not during the period covered by the salary payment "in any school of the District of Columbia, or elsewhere, teach or advocate Communism."

A movement has already been started to prevent a renewal of the rider on the 1937 supply bill. The present law expires June 30, 1936.

Transit Patrons Asked for List Of Grievances

McNeil, in Jail, Continues Fight On Plot Charge

Expected to File Appeal Soon in Park Savings Bank Case.

Benedict M. McNeil, 42-year-old assistant cashier of the defunct Park Savings Bank, yesterday spent Thanksgiving Day in jail while his counsel prepared his appeal from conviction of conspiracy to embezzle $50,000 of bank funds.

As Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District Supreme Court, refused to admit McNeil to bail, he was taken to the District Jail after his conviction Wednesday.

Since his indictment two and a half years ago McNeil has been under bond of $5,000 and at liberty.

An appeal will be filed as soon as Justice Letts disposes of a request for a new trial, probably before the end of the week.

Relief Rolls Here Second Lowest in U. S.

Only 6.5% of Population or 31,409 Persons Getting Aid.

Louisville, With 4.6% of People on Lists, Has Fewest Needy.

Washington had a smaller percentage of its population on relief during October than any other large city in the country with the exception of Louisville, according to Federal relief computations made public yesterday by Elwood Street, director of public welfare of the District.

The percentage of population of the District on relief during October was 6.5. In Louisville the percentage was 4.6. At the other end of the figures were New Orleans, with 23.9 per cent, and Toledo, with 23.3 per cent of their population on relief. Figures for these two cities included the entire counties in which they are located.

The figures covered 32 cities throughout the country having populations between 250,000 and 1,000,000. They reported a total of 702,321 relief cases. The number of cases in the District was 11,763. The actual number of persons on relief in the District was 31,409. Estimating the average relief family at the Census Buraeu figure for cities at 3.81 persons, the compilation showed there were 2,631,026 persons on relief in the other 31 cities. Including the District, the number was 2,662,435.

The average cost of relief per case was $28.71 a month. In the District the cost was $33.21. The lowest cost per case was $11.47 reported for Houston, Tex. Indianapolis reported $14.59. The highest per case cost was reported in Rochester, N. Y., with a figure of $48.61 a month. In Buffalo the cost was $43.12; in Boston, $41.62, and in Oakland, Calif., it was $41.28.

Pittsburgh reported the largest number on relief of any city, 299,717, or 21.8 per cent of its population. In Boston there were 171,877 persons on relief, 22 per cent of population; Buffalo had 131,285, or 22.9 per cent of population. Louisville reported fewest, 14,181, or a percentage of 4.6 of population.

Obligations incurred only for direct relief and emergency work relief programs totaled $20,162,851, which was a per capita expenditure of $1.27 for the entire 32 cities, exclusive of administrative and other expenses incident to the relief program. The per capita expenditure in the District was 80 cents.

Carroll's 41-Yd. Run Seals Cards' Victory; 10,000 Fans Look On

Capt. Karpowich Blocks Punt in Third Period for Safety, After Kicking Duel in First Half; Visitors' Two Early Bids Thwarted.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

LED by its burly captain, Ed Karpowich, and its sure-footed halfback, "Irish" Carroll, the most formidable football team ever assembled under Catholic University's banner drew the curtain on its silver anniversary campaign yesterday at Griffith Stadium with a surprising but convincing 8-to-0 victory over North Carolina State.

Ten thousand fans braved a dreary drizzle to see the game and were rewarded with 60 minutes of grade A football, climaxed by Carroll's seemingly impossible 41-yard run through a broken field for the game's only touchdown. It was a brilliant exhibition of footwork and a fitting fadeout for the most successful season in the Cardinals' 25 years of football.

But before Carroll was turned loose on the unsuspecting Wolfpack, Karpowich had battered his way through the line and blocked a State punt in the third period for a safety and two points that apparently clinched the game. Performing for the last time in C. U. livery, the leonine Lithuanian left an indelible impression on the minds of the 10,000 fans who saw him stop State's running attack almost single-handedly with the best tackle play witnessed in Washington this season.

Mates Share Honors.

It would be difficult, however, to single out the second best man in Catholic's line-up. Dranginis, whose defensive work was above reproach; Makofske and Foley, whose expert toes kept Carolina backed up in its own territory throughout the second half; Anthonavage, Mulligan, McGann, Clements, Yanchulis—verily, all of them—must share in the honors. Without their dogged resistance to State's potent attack Carroll's run and the safety would have been in vain.

Catholic resorted to a punting game throughout the entire first half, electing to play for the breaks, while State resorted to line bucks in a futile attempt to get within scoring range. Two unhappy fumbles at the very outset of the game put the Cards in bad holes, but brilliant line-plays, with Karpowich featured, repulsed the threats.

Draginis Fumbles.

State's first break came when Draginis fumbled Howard Bardes' punt—first of the game—on his own 20, Barnesworth recovering on the 23. Ed Berlinski, the most potent back in the visiting lineup, hurled his bulk at the Cardinal line four consecutive times for a net gain of 2 yards, and C. U. apparently had weathered the first storm.

Catholic took the ball on its own 21-yard mark and attempted a quick kick. But it was blocked by Farrar, and Schwerdt recovered for State on Catholic's 23. Again it was Berlinski smashing gallantly but hopelessly at the line, but Hal McGann stopped him twice. Karpowich came through and nailed him for a yard loss and C. U. took the ball on its own 19.

The Brooklanders tried another line of strategy in the third period and with the rain gradually easing up, brought their running attack into play and finally registered their first first down of the game, Carroll going through center for 5 yards and first down on North Carolina's 39. The drive finally bogged down and Makofska kicked out on State's 14.

They exchanged kicks and North Carolina came into possession of the ball on its own 8-yard line and, with no other avenue of scoring to be found, the Cardinal line settled down to the serious business of blocking a kick.

They were too anxious the first time, although they succeeded in rushing Bardes, who punted weakly out of bounds on his own 23. But a Cardinal lineman was detected off-side and his team drew the customary 5-yard penalty. Again Bardes dropped back to kick, and this time Karpowich went through to block the punt which automatically became a safety for Catholic when the ball rolled into the end zone.

State never got beyond Catholic's 37-yard line in the final half, so well did the line protect that 2-point advantage, and it looked very much like that slim margin would mark the difference betwen the two. But Carroll's elusiveness had not been reckoned with.

Ball at Midfield.

Catholic took the ball at midfield following an exchange of punts, and with Makofska hitting center for 6 yards and Carroll encircling end for 22 more, placed the ball on the 21-yard line. But for interference on the part of Field Judge Branch Bocock, the eel-hipped Cardinal back might have gone for a touchdown on this run. He was running toward the sidelines when Bocock's muddy frame appeared before him. He had to cut back in

Old Line Ties Syracuse in Mud, 0-0

Blocks Field Goal Try on Last Play; Make One Scoring Bid.

By John R. Vosburgh,

A Staff Correspondent.

BALTIMORE, STADIUM, Md., Nov. 28.—Syracuse and Maryland slithered through the muck and mire of a mud-puddled field to a scoreless tie here today. A foggy mist hung over the huge municipal stadium for the greater part of the game as an unrelenting drizzle and unsteady footing aided two charging lines in halting Syracuse's plunging Vannie Albanese and Maryland's great Bill Guckeyson.

Rivalry Is Deadlocked.

A drenched attendance of 4,000 huddled inconspicuously in the amphitheater to watch Maryland make a great scoring bid in the second quarter and Syracuse strike for a score in the closing moments only to fail as Maryland blocked a field goal on the last play of the intersectional contest.

It was a rather muggy and somewhat unsatisfactory Thanksgiving Day afternoon for the two teams, meeting for the third time on a gridiron. The result left their intermittent rivalry deadlocked, Maryland having defeated the Orange, 10 to 7 in 1920 and losing, 42 to 0 in 1921.

For Albanese and Guckeyson, their consistent efforts to flash their famed footwork were thankless tasks, ironically enough, on this holiday. But if the sodden field handicapped the offensives of the teams, it made a setting for a grim battle of the forward walls.

Syracuse was held to 4 first downs and Maryland to 3. The Orange, with Albanese accounting for most of the gains, ran up 143 yards, 137 of them by rushing. Of the 109 yards gained by the Old Liners, Guckeyson was by far the chief contributor.

Kicking Duel.

Deprived of a chance to assume his role of Maryland's great ground-gaining threat, Guckeyson reverted to his punting talent as he and Johnny Nolan, Syracuse quarterback, indulged in a kicking duel little short of startling in view of the soggy, leaden pigskin and necessarily slowed up passes from center. Time and again the two punters lifted their team from its own goal line once again into safer regions or set the opposing forces back on its heels deep in its own territory with long, priceless kicks. Nolan averaged 40 yards in 12 punts. Guckeyson, 39 in 11. All the time fell the fine, pelting downpour.

After the teams had occupied the first quarter in a punting exchange, Maryland cut loose from its own 46-yard line with a drive, which failed to score virtually by inches on a pass which escaped the grasping hands of Vic Willis, Maryland end. Stonebraker opened the drive with a 7 yard gain on two plays. Guckeyson cut off left tackle 18 yards for a first down on the Syracuse 40. Stonebraker pounded to the 32-yard line and Ellinger slid along to a first down on the Syracuse 25.

Pass on 4th Fails.

The Maryland stands were yelling for a touchdown as Guckeyson hit the middle of the Syracuse line for 4 yards. Yeager added another, but Guckeyson was forced out of bounds for no gain. It was fourth down and five to go. Guckeyson fell back and heaved the sodden ball on looping pass to Willis, who made a frantic effort to nab it on the 3-yard line, falling on his stomach as the pigskin fell heavily just out of reach of his outstretched fingers. Nolan and Reckmack, Syracuse defensive men, were dogging Willis in an effort to break up the pass.

Syracuse took the ball and shortly afterward was in Maryland territory as the result of a fumble by Stonebraker recovered by Reckmack on the Maryland 40-yard line. Albanese picked up 8 yards on two plays, but Birkland stopped him short of a first down and Maryland had stopped the Orange threat on the Old Line 32.

Nolan Saves Orange.

Guckeyson's punting had Syracuse back in its own territory for the entire third quarter with Nolan's punting from the vicinity of his goal line consistently pulling the Orange out of extreme difficulty.

Midway in the last period, however, Ed Jontos, the 190-pound Syracuse guard, who made close to half the Orange tackles, broke through along with Webster and Ricktis, to block Guckeyson's punt as the Maryland back attempted to kick from his 40-yard line. Syracuse quick-kicked and after the exchange opened up from midfield on the Maryland 40 as Al-

Mud caked, injured and knocked unconscious for several minutes, Tuffy Leemans is seen being assisted from the field by Roland Logan, trainer, and a teammate during the third quarter at Central Stadium yesterday. Between the halves of the game with North Dakota he had been presented with a diamond-studded football that proclaimed him "the outstanding player ever developed at G. W." It was Leemans' final appearance in a Colonial uniform after three years of brilliant play.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—In the mud and slime of Franklin Field, Pennsylvania's football eleven wrote a successful "finis" today to an otherwise up-and-down campaign, soundly whipping the "winless wonders" from Cornell, 33 to 7, in the forty-second renewal of their traditional rivalry.

Closing the season with their fourth win in eight starts, the Quakers were on top of the play from starting gun to final whistle, and were threatened only once—in the second period, when Cornell, aroused and fighting after getting a break at midfield, scored its only touchdown.

The defeat, their thirtieth in this long-time gridiron series, wound up the 1935 campaign for Cornell without a win in seven starts. Only a tie with Columbia makes the Ithacans' record anything but a total failure.

45,000 See Battle.

Forty-five thousand fans, who took a sound soaking from the rain through the second half, saw Penn score three times in the first two periods, and twice more before the game ended. Cornell, meantime, was stopped cold, both by the rugged Penn line and via the air. Only the splendid kicking of John Batten kept the Quakers from adding at least two more touchdowns to their total.

For the most part, Penn stayed with its powerful running attack, although the Red and Blue took to the air to score its first touchdown, and used long overheads to put the ball in position for the next two tallies.

The first came when the game was less than five minutes old. Lew Elverson, hard-running halfback, and standout on the Penn offensive all afternoon, got away to a 25-yard sweep to the left. Then a long pass, from Franny Murray to John Neil at right end, was good for the score. Minutes later the Quakers started another march from mid-field, with Elverson passing to Ed Warwick for 26 yards of the distance, and Murray finally going over.

Kurlish Plows Through.

Early in the second period, Penn took the ball on their own 40 and drove over another tally, with husky Bill Kurlish ploughing through the heart of the line for the last few yards after Murray advanced the ball 39 yards on an overhead from Elverson.

Late in that period, Cornell put up its one and only effective offensive, after recovering a Penn fumble on its own 40. Batten passed to Andy Peirce for 37 yards. The advance gained 10 more on two off-

Texas Winner Seen Certain Bowl Team

Stanford Reported Ready to Name Methodists or T. C. U.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Nov. 28 (AP).—Stanford probably will invite the winner of the Southern Methodist-Texas Christian game Saturday as its Rose Bowl football opponent on New Year's Day.

This was indicated today when Graduate Manager Alfred R. Masters of Stanford said he would not make a decision until the week-end games had been played. He just had learned of New York University's 21-to-0 drubbing by Fordham.

The outcome of the Eastern game gave Masters a Thanksgiving Day headache. He readily conceded New York University had been considered "highly eligible."

"I will not make a move until Saturday's games have been cleared up," Masters said.

Had Wanted Princeton.

From confidential sources it was learned Stanford did not give up the idea of persuading undefeated Princeton to accept an invitation until yesterday.

Informal meetings of high Princeton officials were held then, it was learned, but the proposition of a post-season game was disapproved. Stanford had no hand in the matter but an influential alumnus prompted the discussion in a telegram to a Princeton authority.

Centenary Is Defeated By Xavier Eleven, 12-0

Cincinnati, Nov. 28 (AP).—Xavier University's Musketeers defeated Centenary of Louisiana, 12 to 0, in a mud-spattered game today.

Beating off every Centenary attack as the teams fought on statistically even terms, Xavier forward-passed to send Sweeney across in the second period, and sent Schmeig across early in the fourth after Sack ran a punt 58 yards to the Centenary 2-yard line.

Fists Fly in Game; Police Nab 2 Boys

Griffin, Ga., Nov. 28 (AP).—When interviewed today about last night's football game between Griffin High School and Phenix City, Ala., County Policeman T. A. Woodruff said: "Good gracious, land sakes alive."

Except for "free-for-all fights that followed nearly every touchdown," the arrest of two visiting players on charges of assault and battery, and the breaking of the nose of the star halfback on the local team, the game appears to have been a quiet, listless affair.

Woodruff said he arrested two players of the Phenix City team and that one of them was held in jail today.

By Dave Herman.

ALPHONSE (TUFFY) LEEMANS, 23-year-old Belgian Bomber, sounded his valedictory football note gloriously for George Washington yesterday on the slimy turf that was Central High Stadium, leading the Colonials to a smashing 13-0 victory over North Dakota's eleven, although he was knocked cold and forced to the sidelines for 10 minutes of the game.

In a grim setting, with 3,000 gridiron-crazed spectators canopied under rainy skies, the "greatest football player ever developed at George Washington," sang the proverbial swan song with a mixture of beautifully placed punts, slashing off tackle jaunts, hawk-like end runs and machine-gun passes that bewildered the big bruisers from the bleak country once inhabitated by Indians.

True, Leemans didn't score a touchdown, but he engineered the first six-pointer scored by Ray Hanken in the first quarter, and paved the way for the second marker put over by Bruce Mahan midway of the third session. For 50 minutes he was a continual thorn in the side of the Nodaks.

A pall as thick as pea soup fog hung over the George Washington camp for the ten minutes Leemans was out of the battle.

He was injured, this Leemans, midway of the third quarter, with the Colonials in command, 7-0.

Jack Campbell, North Dakota quarterback, had kicked from his own 7-yard line to the 50, Leemans caught the punt and raced to the Nodaks' 20. On the very first play the Colonials' quarterback knifed his way through a flock of invading sentinals to the 8-yard line, where two of 'em nabbed him, tossed him outside. Herbie Reeves, halfback, who was running astride of Leemans, and Ben Blanchette, North Dakota full back, one of the tacklers, went down with a mighty thud with Leemans.

Result: Leemans was out cold. Reeves and Blanchette also were injured.

Carried to Bench.

Across the field galloped Trainer Roland Logan to render first-aid to Tuffy. He worked frantically over him for three minutes before three teammates carried Leemans to the bench. Blanchette was replaced, but Reeves remained in the game.

Reeves got 2 yards on the first play. Mahan was stopped dead in his tracks on the second play.

But the Mahan boy was cunning and clever. Ken Rathjen snapped the ball from center like a cowboy throwing his lasso. Mahan grabbed it, and, behind a quickly massing screen of interference, slashed off tackle the remaining 6 yards for the Colonials' second touchdown.

Big Harry Deming, George Washington captain, who played brilliantly in his farewell game, who had kicked the extra point in the first quarter, and whose educated toe has been responsible for several notable Colonial triumphs in his three years of varsity competition, saw his kick for the extra point blocked.

Victory Assured.

With Mahan's touchdown, the boys in buff and blue had sealed their triumph, for it was evident that, even with Leemans out of the line-up, the Colonials were a fighting, snarling band, determined to wind up their season victoriously.

George Washington's first touch-

Rams Check N. Y. U. Bid; Fists Fly

72,000 Watch Fordham Crush Violets' Bowl Hopes, 21 to 0.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A combination of "Rose Bowl prospect jitters" and an alert and rugged Fordham team smeared New York Univeristy's unbeaten and untied record today and shattered the Violets' hopes of participating in the annual post-season Pacific Coast classic.

Before a Thanksgiving Day crowd of 72,000, the largest ever to attend one of these intra-city contests, which started in 1899, the Rams overwhelmed the Violet, 21 to 0, in a game which saw bad blood develop in the second period, when the rival players engaged in a free-for-all fist fight.

The fisticuffs were inspired by Perry Geffen, of New York University, and Amerino Sarno, of Fordham, opposing tackles, who squared off after a 15-yard penalty had been proclaimed against New York University. After order was restored by the officials, Geffen and Sarno were banished from the game.

Violets Are Stopped.

Coming up for the sixteenth game of the series with a spotless record and one of the most widely publicized passing attacks in the East, New York University was virtually shackled on foot by Fordham's closely knit and powerful forward wall, and 20 per cent of the Violet's aerial thrusts were speared by Ram players.

Although he failed to account for any of his team's points, Joe Maniaci, captain and halfback, was the spark plug of the Rams' offense and defense. The big, black-haired fellow closed his collegiate gridiron career with one of the most sparkling individual performance in the 36 years of the series. Fordham gained 230 yards overland and Maniaci contributed almost half of the total yardage, in addition to taking a terrific body battering that twice forced him out of the game.

After an exchange of punts early in the opening period, N. Y. U. appeared on its way to a score when Machlowitz returned Palau's punt 15 yards to the Violet's 43 and then skirted left end for a 13-yard gain. Mandell went through for 6 yards, but fumbled on Fordham's 38 and the ball was recovered there for Fordham by Ed Franco.

Maniaci wheeled around his own left end for a gain of 27 yards to N. Y. U.'s 35. After Dulkie picked up two through center, Maniaci faded back 10 yards and threw a long pass to Palau, who took one step to cross the goal. Palau kicked the extra point from placement. A few minutes before the end of the quarter, Gallivan, substitute for Dulkie, crashed through left tackle and went 25 yards for the Ram second score. Palau also converted.

Starts Passing.

Big Ed Smith got the Violet's passing attack in working order in the second period. A 12-yard heave to Siegel, sub for Somma, and a 12-yard run by Smith put the leather on Fordham's 20 and then the 15-yard penalty for holding was imposed on N. Y. U., and the fighting broke out.

Mautte, who did an admirable job of backing up the line and blocking, accounted for Fordham's final score in the fourth period. After Palau intercepted a Violet pass and ran 25 yards to N. Y. U.'s 35, Mautte broke loose around left end and scored standing up. Palau again kicked the extra point.

Central Held Choice Over Mexicans

International Battle Here Today Promises Colorful Event.

Visitors, Outweighed, to Pin Hopes on Speed and Passing.

UNCLE SAM'S colorful next-door neighbor, Mexico, sends the pick of its capital's schoolboy football talent against the high school champions of Washington today as Mexico City's All-Star team and Central High come together at Griffith Stadium in a brilliant international setting.

One of the world's finest orchestral units, the famous Mexico City Tipica Band will contribute the inimitable strains of Latin America to the spectacle as the two elevens meet. The kick-off is slated for 2 p. m.

Matching the blue, red and gold braid of the big Mexican musical ensemble will be the Washington Police Boys Club band bedecked in brightly-hued new uniforms. Numerous dignitaries of the two nations, including the Mexican Ambassador and his party, are to populate the boxes along the 40-yard line along with Washington's leaders of school and civic affairs.

But the bands, the crowds nor the

22,000 See Tweedledee Win Bowie Thanksgiving Handicap

$12.20 Paid In ½-Length Triumph

Field of Five Competes in Mud; Purple Knight Finishes Second.

By Walter Haight,
A Staff Correspondent.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Marion Du Pont Somerville, Virginia and Delaware sportswoman, cheered along with a good percentage of the 22,000 persons here today as her colt, Tweedledee, won the $2,500 added Thanksgiving Handicap.

The son of Twink and Kippy, trained by Selby Burch, of Washington, answered Jockey Alfred Robertson's whip with a burst of stretch speed that left no doubt as to his superiority over the field of five under the conditions.

A half length behind the conglomeration of colors that are Tweedledee's, came Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Purple Knight, straining every muscle but not good enough for his rival's speed offering at this stage. Another two lengths away, Malbrouk, the early pace-setter, was feeling the effects of the tiredness that comes with too great use during the early part of the race. A neck away from Malbrouk was Only One, winner of this stake and that, finding the burden of 128 pounds over the slippery track too much for him.

Last came Official, representative of the Shandon Farm, far out o' the important running as the result of an injury to his jockey, Johnny Gilbert. Gilbert was hit in the eye by a flying clod of mud soon after the break.

Three Scratched.

The field was reduced by three before post time. Selby Burch's Thursday was an early scratch and Weston and Chatmoss were withdrawn just before the struggle of a mile and a sixteenth.

Despite the threatening weather, the crowd was one of the largest in the history of this plant and, as far as the customers were concerned, racing conditions were at their worst.

A light drizzle that began with the first race gained momentum during the afternoon, to reach the stage of a downpour as the field went to the post for the feature.

Malbrouk proved the "Peck's Bad Boy" of the field at the post. After he had huffed and puffed and threatened to blow the starting gates down, Malbrouk jumped in front at the bell. Purple Knight followed with the others fighting for advantageous positions.

Winner Well Ridden.

At the clubhouse turn, Robertson put Tweedledee under slight restraint to stay within striking distance of the battle between Malbrouk and Purple Knight for the lead. Only One was close by, but the favorite players were already moaning because the horse was not on top as is his custom.

The Malbrouk-Purple Knight battle was waged until the group began to swing for the stretch. It was at this point that Robertson elected to send Tweedledee into the thick of the front running. Malbrouk faltered to leave Purple Knight in front, but not for long. Robertson plied his whip and Tweededee fairly hopped from under him, rushing through the stretch to take command approaching the edge of the odds board. It was all over except the $12.20 mutuel on Tweededee.

Thanks to the excellent advertisement of the last two weeks, during which the daily double has been paying fortunes, today's pool was one of the largest in the history of the twin bet. The early comers bet $29,154 on the "double." Those who backed the "1 and 4" combination of Camino Real and Two Bob were rewarded with a $75.50 mutuel.

Hoops Second, Pays $46.10.

Camino Real, a fleet son of Hand Grenade, showed the way to a field of 11 sprinters in the first race. He was opening daylight approaching the wire on Hoops, a fast-finishing longshot which paid $46.10 to place. Some Good, the favorite, was third. Apprentice Jockey Stafford gave a nice saddle exhibition on the winner, taking him back off the fast pace of Some Good and then bringing him to the front approaching the stretch. Camino Real paid $8.30.

Giant Killer was graduated from the maiden ranks with a move that brought him from last to first in the second race. In charge of Jockey Rosengarten, Giant Killer won with speed to spare over Mars Pledge and Count Me over the mile and a sixteenth course. The 2-year-old, owned by Walter M. Jeffords and trained by Preston Burch, of Washington, was a popular bet and paid $5.20.

The C. V. Whitney and Jockey Alfred Robertson combine accounted for another purse in the third race, a sprint. The little daughter of The Porter, Two Bob, came with a closing drive that disposed of More News, a field horse, and Glen Broom. She paid a $9.10 mutuel.

Mad Frump Wins.

Mad Frump, surprise winner of the Thanksgiving Handicap last year, scored a smashing victory in the fourth race at a mile and a sixteenth. The ancient son of Mad Hatter came from far back in the field to stage a stretch spurt that displaced Sir Ten. Master Lad closed well to be third. The winner paid $8.40.

Rough Diamond brought the C. V. Whitney Stable its second victory of the day in the sixth race and paid a $10.10 mutuel. Safe and Sound was second and Synod third in the mile and a half test.

The last race, run in semi-darkness and through a driving rain, was won by Supreme Court in a nose finish with Patient Saint. The winner paid $12.90.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CAMINO REAL, $8.30, $5.20, $2.20; HOOPS, $46.10, $16.10; SOME GOOD, $3.00.

CAMINO REAL, given a mild breathing spell when SOME GOOD was tiptoed to the front, moved up fast to regain command entering the home stretch, then held on strongly under urging to withstand HOOPS. The latter, slow to settle in his stride, circled his field and finished with a bold rush. SOME GOOD, away nicely, was ridden hard to get to the front, but he weakened when the real issue came. ACAUTAW improved his position on the outside and finished gamely. SATRAPAL was shuffled back early, then closed willingly when clear. SASSABY showed a good effort while in flight quarters most of the trip. MUCHO GUSTO weakened. KAWAGOE was badly outrun. GOLD THORN went lame and was pulled up.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good from stall gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 2:04. Off at 2:05½. Winner, W. M. Jefford's br. or blk. c. (2), by St. Germans—Escadrille. Trained by P. M. Burch. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:50 3-5, 1:16 3-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:50 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GIANT KILLER, $5.20, $4.20, $3.10; MARS PLEDGE, $6.80, $4.80; COUNT ME, $3.80.

GIANT KILLER, a slow beginner, was permitted to settle in his stride before being put to pressure. Went up on the outside rounding the final turn, responded to punishment and came away readily when kept under a drive. MARS PLEDGE went prominently from the start, challenged strongly in the last five-sixteenths and held on gamely. COUNT ME displaced DARK LOVELINESS when ready but weakened badly after going into the lead. BEAR CUB rallied strongly when put to a drive, but failed to gain. BOBS BOYS went well placed and showed an even effort. VIGILANCE could not menace seriously. DARK LOVELINESS tired after having early speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stall gates in chute. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:35. Off at 2:39. Winner, C. V. Whitney's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TWO BOB, $9.10, $5.30, $4.10; MORE NEWS, $14.10, $7.00; GLEN BROOM, $6.40.

TWO BOB, rated within striking distance of the leaders, swung to the outside nearing the home stretch, closed in resolute fashion and was up in the last 50 yards. MORE NEWS had good speed from the start, and held on well after chasing GLEN BROOM. The latter handled his weight well, displayed good speed while setting the pace and continued willingly when forced to a drive. STAGE WHISPER was rushed up on the outside to reach the leaders, saved a lot of ground but failed to stay under severe punishment. TROUPER finished full of run. MISS DIGNITY was hard ridden and had no excuses. TRAMWAY was forced wide throughout. INFLAME lacked early speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAD FRUMP, $8.40, $3.50, $2.90; SIR TEN, $2.80, $2.30; MASTER LAD, $3.50.

MAD FRUMP, allowed to settle in his best stride before moving into contention, swung to the outside when reaching the home stretch, closed with good speed and was up in the closing strides. SIR TEN, forced wide at the first turn, followed closely to UP AND UP, assumed a short lead midway of the final turn, saved ground and continued strongly under a drive. MASTER LAD, weakly handled, was allowed to fall back after holding a forward position, but came again during the closing furlong. BEST BID, away slowly, had much taken out of her settling to the leaders and she weakened from her early efforts. HUT was under urging from the start and saved much ground. NAVAL CADET could not reach a contending position. UP AND UP stopped after being challenged.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,500 added. The Thanksgiving Handicap. For all ages. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:39. Winner, Mrs. Du P. Somerville's b. c. (3), by Twinks—Kippy. Trained by S. L. Burch. Net value to winner, $2,600; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $125. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TWEEDLEDEE, $12.20, $5.90, $4.70; PURPLE KNIGHT, $5.40, $4.10; MALBROUK, $4.90.

TWEEDLEDEE, well handled, was steadied within striking distance of the leaders, moved up fast in the last half mile and, closing stoutly when taken to the outside, wore PURPLE KNIGHT down in the final furlong. PURPLE KNIGHT displaced MALBROUK after 6 furlongs, drew clear nearing the home stretch, but could not withstand the winner. MALBROUK continued with good courage after being overtaken. ONLY ONE, on the outside of the leaders from the start, moved up into second place at the final bend, but tired under his heavy weight during the last quarter mile. OFFICIAL trailed far back all the way.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-half miles. Purse, $2,000 added. The Marlboro Claiming Stakes. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:06. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROUGH DIAMOND, $10.10, $5.00, $4.00; SAFE AND SOUND, $7.50, $4.00; SYNOD, $5.20.

ROUGH DIAMOND, saved behind the leaders for the first mile, moved up stoutly when shaken up, opened up a long lead after disposing of the racemakers, and had speed in reserve at the close. SAFE AND SOUND challenged strongly after setting the pace and continued willingly when forced to a drive. STAGE WHISPER was rushed up on the outside to reach the leaders, saved a lot of ground but failed to stay under severe punishment. TROUPER finished full of run. MISS DIGNITY was hard ridden and had no excuses. TRAMWAY was forced wide throughout. INFLAME lacked early speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:34. Off at 4:35. Winner, Mrs. A. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPREME COURT, $12.90, $7.10, $3.60; PATIENT SAINT, $13.30, $5.90; DARKLING, $2.60.

The 7-8 run in semidarkness and colors could not be clearly distinguished. SUPREME COURT took command passing the stands and withstood a hard drive resolutely at the end. PATIENT SAINT, the latter began slowly. He was racing willingly to outstay PATIENT SAINT. DARKLING was wearing the first two down steadily after finishing on the inside. BILLOWY WAVE was easily best of the others.

Bowie Race Track, Md., Nov. 28.

Dear Al:

Seldom has the turf shown a more consistent sprinter than Camino Real, winner of today's first race. He has been to the post 32 times this year, has turned in 14 victories and today's winning effort was his fourth in a row. The 4-year-old gelding lacks size but must have a heart as big as a watermelon. Charlie Ulbig, Baltimore boy and handy man around the press box, is bemoaning his luck. Charlie had four daily doubles ending on Wedge Lad, the horse which was destroyed in front of the stands yesterday. Charlie is the agent for Jockey Eddie Smith, who was injured in the first race and would have ridden Genie Palatine had he not been hurt. C. Phillips, who rode the $463 horse, was "staked" to more than $500 by those who cashed on his victory. Ulbig would have shared in that good fortune if it had come to Smith. Ulbig had visions of a long vacation on the sunny shores of Old Miami, but now he will have to go to Charles Town with the rest of us. BILL.

First race—Go Now is an educated juvenile and one which appears ready to graduate in this sort of company. Wayaloft works well and may be dangerous. Among the also eligibles Mate Tea, John D. and Evening Hour hold some chance if they see action.

Second race—Bally Bay and Tight Wad seem destined to fight it out in this Maryland foal spring, not be a contest. Ilchester and Maddest for the place and show. I like them in the order named, preferring to stick with the former, a front-runner, against a horse which must come from far back. Cantersine and Marlo are due respect.

Third race—Lady Carrot had some tough luck last out and with clear sailing would be in the thick of it tomorrow. Gets in with only steadying weight and I expect no mistakes. Night Court will not be far out of it. Chilly Ebbie galloped home ahead of maidens last out.

Fourth race—Xandra, despite recent disappointments, gets my call in this field. Has been gradually worked into winning form and will be in charge. Maid of Arches and Saintlite, recent graduates from the maiden ranks, will be keen factors.

Fifth race—Bright Plumage, winner of two in a row, finds a distance he likes. Robertson will be in the saddle again and I'm going to string along. The Jeffords entry of Sweet as Sugar and Indomitable will be in the thick of the battle. Bright Light ran well in the Endurance.

Sixth race—Palamede, a badlegged fellow, finally has been brought to winning form. He outclassed maidens the other day. If his legs hold up tomorrow this may Seventh race—Keep Out will do a lot of running in the last quarter of this long race. I believe, with Richards to urge him, Keep Out will be up in time to take the purse. Little Argo and Mary's May to take care of the others. In the event of mud, Zembla would have an excuse for a form reversal.

Best bet—Palamede.

7,000 See 'Alexandrians' Late Rally Defeat W.-L. High, 12-9

Fones Is Star In Erasing 9-0 Lead

Halfback Leads Furious Counter-Offensive in Final Quarter.

By George Considine.
A Staff Correspondent.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 28.—This Virginia village is thankful to one Lee Fones today—thankful because that young man held the key to Washington-Lee High's defense and was almost singly responsible for the George Washington High football team's bristling 12 to 9 victory at Baggett Stadium. More than 7,000 spectators crowded into the park to witness the stirring battle.

It was Halfback Fones who put life into the locals early in the third period, when George Washington, trailing by 9 points, took possession in midfield. It was Fones who twisted, plunged, spun and zigzagged his way on three successive plays to W. and L.'s 9-yard line. It was Fones who ripped through tackle to the touchdown. And it was Fones who in the closing minutes of the game got off sensational end runs of 10, 22 and 11 yards for the winning touchdown.

As the game got under way the Little Generals took command. After Capt. Paul Shu of G. W. had fumbled the opening kickoff, Billy Bragg recovered on Alexandira's 25. Using the well-known George Washington University spread plays, Len Hippler and Jimmy Fixx advanced the ball to the Twins' 3, from where Hippler scored through center. Eddie O'Brien's toe accounted for the extra point.

Going into the second quarter Coach Johnny Baker's Ballstonites still looked good enough to avenge last year's 12-to-7 defeat. Not only was the forewall doing more than expected but Ball-toters Fixx, Wheeler and Hippler were functioning as smoothly as a well-oiled machine. A battering onslaught put the visitors on Alexandria's 8-yard line but Washington and Lee lost the ball on downs. Cornered in his own end zone, Fones was tackled by Bragg, who thereby boosted the score to 9 to 0.

Coming back after the intermission, George Washington's offense began clicking, and the Presidents' team took complete charge of affairs. Shu kicked off the Washington-Lee's 30-yard line. The George Washington line threw the Washington-Lee backs for losses totaling 20 yards on three successive plays, and Fixx kicked to midfield.

At this point, George Washington started its first touchdown drive. Paul Shu crashed through center for a first down on the 40. Fones went around his right end for another first down on the 30. Al Stewart picked up 4 yards on an end around play. Worden added four more on a plunge over right guard, and Fones dashed 12 yards around end again for a first down on the Washington-Lee 10-yard line.

The visitors braced and held Shu, and then Fones for no gain. An attempted pass from Fones to Burrell was knocked down by Wheeler. Fones then took the ball around right end for 10 yards to score standing up. His attempted placement for the extra point was short.

The remainder of the third quarter was fought in midfield, with Burrell and Shu repulsing every Washington-Lee threat with their hard and fast tackling. At the opening of the fourth period, Fixx kicked to Fones on his own 20-yard line. Shu made 6 yards through center. Fones added 3 more, and Worden made it a first down on the 35-yard line.

Hippler, key man in the Washington-Lee offense and defense, was removed from the field on the next play, with injuries, when Shu crashed through center for 8 yards. Fones went around end for a first down on Washington-Lee's 48. Worden cracked right tackle for 9 yards, and Shu made it a first down on the 35. Here Fones broke loose around the end for 25 yards, and a first down on the 10-yard line. Shu smacked the line twice, gaining 5 yards, and Fones went around left end for 5 yards to score for the second time. Kirchener attempted a drop kick for the extra point, but it was wide.

Penn's two second-half touchdowns were the results of long runs, with Elverson clicking for the first on a 60-yard run-back of a punt late in the third period, and Dougherty, a third-string right end, getting away for a 45-yard scoring gallop with only minutes remaining of the final quarter.

Lane Humbles Tech, 6 to 0, In Drizzle

Special Dispatch to The Post.

CHARLOTTSVILLE, Va., Nov. 28.—Lane High School defeated McKinley Tech, of Washington, here today, 6 to 0, to register its fourth victory of the season.

Today's game was played in Scott Stadium in a drenching rain which continued throughout the afternoon and was witnessed by a small crowd.

The Washington eleven, slowed up by the muddy gridiron, was unable to make much headway and registered only one first down. Lane, on the other hand, made substantial gains at intervals, with Carl Deane carrying the ball. In the first quarter he raced 65 yards to Tech's 15-yard line. On the next play, however, Acker, Lane's center, made a bad pass over Carl Deane's head and the ball was recovered by Tech on Lane's 45-yard line.

Pass Brings Score.

The lone touchdown was scored early in the second period. After an exchange of punts Robert Deane tossed a pass to his brother, Carl, who, behind superb interference, raced 30 yards to score standing. The try for extra point failed.

Tech's team twice threatened in the third and fourth periods after recovering fumbles, but in each case lost the ball on downs. Crimmins, Tech fullback, gave a fine exhibition of punting throughout.

Lane was credited with nine first downs. Three passes were completed for short gains.

banese returned Guckeyson's punt 10 yards to that point.

Almost single handedly, Albanese took Syracuse to the Maryland 13-yard line on short smashes which accounted for two first downs on the way. With third down and 7 to go from the 13, Rockmack tried a flat pass to Albanese, but it was incomplete. Another pass attempt for touchdown ended in a 10-yard loss and Maryland took the ball only to lose it as Gormley fumbled and Touchton recovered on the Maryland 20.

Coach Vic Hanson rushed Clarence Buckwald in the game for Ricktis to gamble on a field goal from the 25. The placement attempt of the heavy ball skimming low off the ground was smothered by a swarm of Maryland players as the game ended.

Vandy Upsets Alabama, 14-6, As Curley, Sub, Steals Show

By the Associated Press.

DUDLEY FIELD, Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 28.—Beneath cold, bleak skies, Vanderbilt's golden-shirted Commodores thrilled 18,000 Thanksgiving Day football fans this afternoon with a spectacular 14-to-6 triumph over Alabama's favored Crimson Tide.

The victory, Vanderbilt's first in the last six games between the traditional gridiron foes, clinched runner-up honors in the Southeastern Conference race.

A little quarterback who had warmed the bench for most of his varsity career, diminutive Pete Curley, was sent into the game in the second half and stole the show with a dazzling piece of work that gave Vanderbilt its second touchdown.

Stages 72-Yard March.

The Commodores had taken the lead early in the second period, marching 72 yards to Alabama's goal. With Rand Dixon tossing passes to Dick Plasman and Capt. Willie Geny, Vanderbilt drove to the Tide's 41. On the third play Dixon shot a low pass to Geny, who sprinted to Alabama's 2 before he was brought down. Dixon then plunged through tackle for the touchdown and Ranny Throgmorton place-kicked the extra point.

The Alabama eleven struck hard at the start of the second half, driving 61 yards for its touchdown. Riley Smith's place-kick was wide.

Near the middle of the final period Vanderbilt advanced from its own 33 to Alabama's 45 on a lateral from Fullback Sam Agee to little Pete Curley. Line plays and a 15-yard penalty carried to the Tide 20. Curley tossed two passes and then Byron Beard, substitute halfback, lost 3 yards.

Makes Surprise Kick.

Curley dropped back for a fourth down pass. The toss from center was wide and the ball rolled down the field. Curley dashed back, picked it up, and surprised the packed stands by swerving quickly and kicking the ball toward Alabama's goal.

Kansas, Missouri Battle to 0-0 Tie

Each Eleven Makes Only One Mild Threat.

By the Associated Press.

Lawrence, Kans., Nov. 28.—Kansas, after defeating Missouri for five straight years, was held to a scoreless tie today in a battle of the State university elevens before 17,000.

Except for one mild threat by each team, the game was played between the 20-yard stripes. Big John Peterson led a Kansas drive that reached the Tiger 16-yard line in the third quarter. Once the Tigers got to the Kansas 14 but there Hapgood intercepted a pass on his own 2-yard line.

One of the game's features was the opening kickoff which Jack Frye, of Missouri, took on the goal line. He raced to Missouri's 46 before Hapgood, the last Kansan in his path, brought him down.

The Washington Track and Field Club was first among the Washington teams with 28 points; Johns Hopkins' 19 points were too good for Maryland in the collegiate competition, and the Baltimore Cross-Country Club ran a perfect score of 15 in the out-of-town club event.

Colgate Victor Over Brown By 33-0

Raiders Coast to Triumph After 4 Touchdowns in First Half.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 28.—Two extremes in Eastern intercollegiate football completed their most unsuccessful seasons in many years today when Colgate coasted to a 33-to-0 victory over Brown's feeble Bears.

The air-minded victors met defeat three times during the campaign, bowing to Iowa, Holy Cross and Tulane, to set a new Colgate low for an Andy Kerr-coached eleven, and this Thanksgiving morning drubbing was the eighth setback the Bears suffered in nine starts.

Less than 5,000, one of the smallest crowds that has ever watched the famed Red Raiders in major action, silently endured steady rain and an overdose of one-sided football.

The Raiders bore down during the first half, when they scored four of their five touchdowns, put a replacement unit in for the third period action, when the final trip was made into the Brown end zone, and with the regulars back in action for the final, stalled gracefully until time expired.

Longhorns Are Routed By Texas Aggies, 20-6

College Station, Tex., Nov. 28 (AP). The Texas Aggies feasted on Longhorn meat instead of turkey today for the first time in four years as A. and M. trounced the University of Texas, 20 to 6.

The Longhorns scored in the first three minutes of play on a beautiful 38-yard run by Buster Jurecka, but the Aggies held the upper hand the remainder of the way.

Pitt Frosh Subdue Navy B Team, 33-7

Colonials 13-0 Victors Over Nodaks

Leemans Stars in His Last Game; Paves Way for Both Scores.

down came with less than two minutes remaining before the end of the first quarter. Call it a break, if you want to, but give the Colonials credit for their alertness in blocking the punt.

Penned in on his own 22, after the Colonials smothered numerous attempts by the Nodaks to move into G. W. territory, Quarterback Campbell attempted one of his low spirals.

Hanken Recovers.

Dale Prather, G. W. right tackle, came in fast with four other Colonial linemen and threw his bulky form in front of the ball. Ray Hanken, halfback, his eyes glued on the ball, followed it to the 25, where he pounced on it, holding it for dear life.

After Reeves had picked up two yards and Leemans five in two plays, the Colonials called time out.

The little rest seemed to be helpful, for out came the Colonials like an inspired team. Leemans dropped back, surveyed the situation.

Over in the extreme left end zone raced Hanken and Frank Kavalier, with arms stretching toward the horizon. The Nodaks were closing in fast on Leemans, Hanken and Kavalier.

Leemans' trigger-like toss reached the tips of Hanken's fingers. Hanken pulled the mud-caked ball into his arms, and dropped for the touchdown amidst the thunderous cheers of Colonial supporters. It was a beautifully timed 17-yard toss.

As a tribute to his football valor, Leemans was presented with a diamond-studded football during intermission. On it was inscribed "To the greatest football player ever developed at George Washington."

Accepts Modestly.

Leemans, his face and uniform covered with mud, accepted the gift modestly, merely saying, "Thank you." Bourke Floyd, president of the student council, made the award.

George Washington outplayed the Sioux in virtually all departments, making eight first downs to two. As a matter of fact, the invaders didn't make a first down until five minutes of the fourth quarter had elapsed—a fourth quarter in which the Nodaks looked dangerous.

Charbonneau, halfback, reeled off 18 yards on an off-tackle play for the initial first down just one minute after the injured Leemans had returned to the Colonial line-up.

After an exchange of kicks, Walter Halvorson, substitute back, started a bit of rampaging which enabled the Nodaks to gain another first down.

With the official nervously fingering the gun, Leemans recovered a fumble on the G. W. 3-yard line. He immediately kicked out of danger to the G. W. 34. Charbonneau attempted a long pass, but Mahan sneaked in and intercepted it on the G. W. 25-yard line, where the game ended with the ball in the Colonials' possession.

While he was in there, Leeman's gained 77 yards from scrimmage and returned punts 98 yards. Once, in the second quarter, Leemans made a strategic kick. It was a 40-yard quick punt that traveled on a low trajectory and ended on the Nodak's 11-yard line. It completely stunned the opposition as Campbell was forced to kick after gaining only 6 yards in two plays.

Chicago's Cards Beat Packers, 9-7

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—The Chicago Cardinals scored their third victory of the season over the Green Bay Packers, 9 to 7, today in a bitterly contested pro football game at Wrigley Field.

The triumph gave the Cards a record of six victories and three defeats, while the Packers have won seven games and lost four. Detroit, winning today over the Chicago Bears, is tied with the Cardinals in a .667 average, but had two no-decision games on the books. The Cardinals have played one tie game and the Packers none this season.

All of the scoring in the game at Wrigley Field came in the first half, with the Cards clinging desperately to their two-point margin throughout the last two periods.

Temple Upset By Bucknell; Score, 7-6

Owls Rally in 3d Period, Miss Chance for Tie by Fumbling.

By the United Press.

TEMPLE Stadium, Philadelphia, Nov. 28.—A thundering herd of Bisons from Bucknell College skidded and slipped to a 7-to-6 upset triumph over the Temple Owls today. The game was played in a driving rain before 15,000 drenched spectators.

It was a game of breaks, with Temple missing numerous chances to score. The Owls backfield failed to live up to past performances, due mostly to the slippery condition of the playing field.

With Bucknell leading 7 to 0 in the final quarter, Temple had a chance to tie the score. The Owls scored a touchdown after Gurzynski recovered a fumbled punt by Sitarsky, Bucknell quarterback, on the Bisons' 22-yard line.

Kusko Goes Over.

Taking possession of the ball, the Owls, aided by a pass from Johnny Kusko to Frey, advanced to the 11-yard line. Kusko then took up the burden of attack and after several thrusts at Bucknell's line, crashed through for the touchdown.

The "breaks" evened up on the try for extra point, however, and saved Bucknell from a tie game. Frey fumbled the throw back from center. He recovered, but too late to try for the placement. Deciding to run the ball, Frey swept around an end but was stopped a yard short of the Bucknell goal line.

Arizonans on Parade, Rout Drake Team, 53-0

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 28 (AP).—The University of Arizona, uncorking a powerful running and accurate passing attack, trampled Drake University 53-0 here today in an intersectional football clash.

Ted Bland was the spearhead of the Arizona onslaught.

Equally important were Ronnie Henderson, Kennth Knox, and Fred Wallace. With Bland feeding them the ball on reverses and spinners they accounted for a good portion of the yardage gained by the victors and also took part in the scoring.

Sisler Admits Plan to Buy Browns

Expresses No Doubt Deal Will Be Made; Hornsby Remains as Pilot.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 28.—George Sisler, once considered the best first baseman in baseball, tonight confirmed reports he and a group of local business men and sportsmen planned to purchase the St. Louis Browns.

Sisler, for a decade a leading big league hitter and for three years manager of the Browns, said the deal was in a "formative stage," but that there was "little doubt" it would go through.

"We know just about how much it will take to buy the club, and it looks like we'll have little trouble raising the necessary amount," Sisler told the Associated Press tonight.

Silent on Sum Involved.

He declined to name the sum involved, but said contact had been made with Louis B. Von Weise, New York, president of the Browns and trustee of the Phil Ball estate, owner of the club.

Sisler asserted he expected the purchase to be completed in "ample time" to prepare for spring training activities.

The former first-sacker, who led the Browns in 1924, 1925 and 1926, said his projected return to the diamond wars would not be in an active role.

"No, I don't plan to manage the club," he added. "I'm through with that phase of the game. Hornsby will do the managing."

Waived Out in 1928.

Failing eyesight forced a premature ending to Sisler's brilliant playing career. Voted the American League's most valuable player in 1922, he was waived out of the big leauges in 1928 after an attack of sinus trouble left his vision impaired.

Since retiring he has operated a sporting goods store here and engaged in the promotion of soft ball.

Arkansas Beats Tulsa First Time in 10 Years

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 28 (AP).—For the first time in ten years Arkansas University defeated Tulsa today, the Razorbacks taking a two-touchdown lead in the first three periods and fighting off a last-period Tulsa rally to win, 14 to 7.

Tulsa threw the crowd into turmoil late in the game with a 99-yard touchdown march led by Woodrow Estel, senior quarterback. In the final minutes Tulsa drove to within 8 yards of the tying touchdown.

Navy Ends Drills for Army in Rain; 'All Set,' Says Hamilton

Coach Picks His Starting Line-up

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 28.—Ready to play their best game of the season, the Naval Academy football squad finished its training on a wet field here today and left for Philadelphia to meet the Army Saturday in the thirty-sixth clash between the service rivals.

"We're all set," Tom Hamilton, head Navy coach, said as he boarded the train. "The squad is in good physical shape. We hope it's good enough to take the Army.

"When the Army and the Navy get together there is no place for bear stories. We are going up to play our best game of the year."

Squad in Light Drill.

The squad was given a light workout in the rain. Charging and down-field work took up practically all the practice period.

Last year before the squad left to defeat Army, 3 to 0, the players worked out in the rain. This fact was cited by many today as a good luck sign for the sailors.

Hamilton named a starting line-up for Saturday that averages 177 pounds as a team, and includes five players who won their major letter when the Navy defeated Army last fall. The line of the starting team averages 179 pounds, and the backfield, 174 pounds.

The line-up:

Center—Louis B. Robertshaw, captain, 179 pounds, senior, Haverford, Pa.
Right guard—Rivers J. Morrell, jr., 183 pounds, junior, Los Angeles, Calif.
Right end—Archie H. Soucek, 182 pounds, junior, Oklahoma City, Okla.
Quarterback—Richard R. Pratt, 171 pounds, senior, Washington, D. C.
Right half—Thomas S. King, jr., 178 pounds, senior, Annapolis, Md.
Fullback—Frank D. Case, jr., 172 pounds, sophomore, Evanston, Ill.

Philadelphia, Nov. 28 (AP).—Army and Navy came to town in the rain tonight for their annual football battle on Franklin Field Saturday.

While the West Pointers bivouacked at Green Hill Farms, to the west of the city, the Annapolis collegians dropped anchor at Manufacturers Country Club, to the north.

Huge tarpaulins were hastily pulled over the field of battle as the first step in getting it back to condition after today's going over by the rain and the football warriors of Pennsylvania and Cornell.

Police and University of Pennsylvania officials kept a keen watch for ticket speculators, who were reported doing a thriving business since the boxoffice was sold out days ago. Reports were received that as high as $40 was being asked for a 50-yard line seat.

Carnegie Holds Pitt to 0-0 Deadlock

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 28.—The do-or-die Scots of Carnegie Tech, on the short end of 10-to-3 odds, battled the football forces of Pitt to a scoreless draw in their twenty-second annual "neighborhood scrap" this afternoon.

Approximately 25,000 roaring fans watched the teams struggle on the soggy gridiron and saw Carnegie, noted for its "upset" talents, courageously turn back every Pitt scoring threat and launch a few of its own. Tech only won two games this season but one of these was a victory over Purdue.

Pitt outgained the team "from down the street," 262 yards to 64.

Once the ball slipped through the fingers of Hubert Randour, Pitt backfield ace, as he stepped across the goal line to catch a pass hurled by Leon Shedlowsky.

The Panther's big scoring threat came in the second period. The entire backfield alternated in carrying the ball to the Skiboe's 5-yard-line. There the Tartans turned back a touchdown drive.

Frank Patrick's kick from placement on the 13-yard line in an effort to save the drive went wide.

Army in Final Drill; Squad In Shape

'Sink-the-Navy' Spirit Is High; Gridmen Leave for Philadelphia.

By the Associated Press.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 28.—The Army went through its stiffest practice session of the week in a sea of mud today as it wound up its strenuous preparations for the annual football game with Navy on Saturday.

A light workout had been planned for today, but Coach Gar Davidson, wishing to acquaint his charges with a soggy gridiron, took advantage of conditions to run the players through a lengthy drill.

"Sink the Navy" spirit was high following upon a rally last night at which Maj. Gen. Leon B. Kroner, chief of cavalry and former Army football captain, gave the Cadets a rousing fight talk.

At the close of today's practice, Davidson said:

"The Army is physically and mentally ready for Navy. We will have only 15 or 16 players who have had the experience and seasoning necessary to enter the game against as strong an opponent as Navy, while Navy is three deep in every position. I think the outcome of the game will depend on whether our limited number of regulars can stand up against Navy's powerful reserves. I think Navy is stronger this year than they were last fall."

Davidson said his starting line-up would have Shuler and Stromberg on the ends, Erikson and Wolf at the tackles, Smith and Necrason, guards; Clifford, center; Grohs, quarterback; Meyer and Grove, halfbacks and True, fullback.

The team entrained for Philadelphia at 5:30 p. m. (E. S. T.) and will be quartered at the Green Hill Farms until just before game time. Headquarters of the Army Athletic Association will be established at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel.

Corsairs in 6-6 Draw With Washington Team

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 28.—The Fredericksburg Corsairs held the powerful Procurement football team, of Washington, to a 6-to-6 tie in a blinding rainstorm here today. More than 3,000 fans witnessed the game.

In the first few minutes Schmutzer, of the visitors, intercepted one of Johnny Fenlon's passes and ran 20 yards for a touchdown. Procurement held its lead until the last minute of the final period, when Kane pulled down a 30-yard pass from Fenlon and sprinted 10 more to tie the score.

Dodgers Bow, 25-0, To Giants in Mud

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—The veteran New York Giants increased their lead in the Eastern division of the National Football League today by drubbing the lighter and more inexperienced Brooklyn Dodgers, 21 to 0, before a holiday crowd of 25,000 in the mud of Ebbets Field.

The Giants now are two full games ahead of the Flatbushers. With Eddie Danowski, former Fordham star, hurling overheads to Tod Goodwin and Dale Burnett, the Giants charged down from their own 35 to score their first marker. Burnett speared a 9-yarder behind the goal line for the score

In the next period, Danowski took a Dodger kick on the Dodger 35 and passed to Goodwin who ran 10 yards to count.

Lincoln Downs Howard U. by 14-7 Score

Special Dispatch to The Post.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 28. Before a crowd of 4,000 holiday fans at the Auditorium here tonight, Lincoln University defeated Howard in their annual clash, 14 to 7.

Mayor C. D. White and members of the city council witnessed the proceedings, enlivened by the blare of drums and trumpets from the rival R. O. T. C. bands of the two leading colored institutions.

Lincoln scored early in the first period when J. Jackson hit center for 5 yards, following a 55-yard run by G. Jackson, which put the Lions within striking distance. J. Jackson place-kicked the extra point.

Lions Make Advance.

The rest of the period looked like a walk-away for the Lions, who, with a driving game, carried the oval to the Howard 12 as the quarter ended.

The second period likewise was dominated by the Lions. W. Brown smashed center for 9 yards, and G. Jackson hit the line for a first down on the Howard 1-yard stripe, from which point Brown made the second touchdown off tackle.

Chicago Bears Are Interested In Signing Leemans for 1936

TUFFY LEEMANS, George Washington firebrand, who wound up his collegiate football career yesterday as the Colonials gained revenge for last year's defeat at the hands of North Dakota by winning 13-0, may become a member of the Chicago Bears next year.

Len Walsh, Colonial line coach, in praising Leemans after the game, admitted the Chicago pros were interested in the young star.

Asked if he had made up his mind about becoming a professional, the George Washington star declared: "Wait till I finish playing basketball."

Leemans is a letter man in basketball.

"If Tuffy were playing with Notre Dame or some other big-time football school, he'd be a sure cinch for All-American," Reinhart said, adding, "Show me a back who can handle the ball better than Tuffy."

V. P. I. Defeats Cadets, 12-6, For Title

Piland Falls on Fumbled Punt to Bring Touchdown Near End.

By Bill McCormick.
A Staff Correspondent.

ROANOKE, Va., Nov. 28.—On a field as slippery as League of Nations politics the Virginia Polytechnic Institute clinched the Virginia State football championship by defeating the Virginia Military Institute, 12 to 6, in the thirty-third edition of the classic Virginia rivalry here today.

Some 12,500 overstuffed patrons arose from their Thanksgiving tables to witness the game, a thriller from the opening kick-off, which Wayt Clark, of V. M. I., returned 90 yards for a touchdown, to the final whistle. Tech's lengthy march for the tying touchdown added to the excitement, but it remained for Flinky Piland to supply the climactic punch by recovering a blocked punt in V. M. I.'s end zone for the winning touchdown.

The first half was played in a monotonous drizzle which for a dozen hours had been converting the playing surface into a mud bath. In the second half the drizzle suspended operations, but a fog swooped down from the mountains, enveloping the field and players in a very artistic haze.

The ceiling zero weather completely grounded the aerial attack upon which V. M. I. had been pinning its hopes of victory. Less than a half dozen forward passes were attempted in the entire game, and only one of them was successful, that when the Techmen flipped the ball for a 4-yard gain.

The slithery underfooting also hampered Virginia Military's fleet backfield—excepting when Clark was running back that opening kick-off—but then it did Tech's superior line practically no good either, leaving the game to be decided on "the breaks," with the ultimate winners getting them in the decisive third period.

To start at the beginning, George Sodaro booted the opening kick-off for V. P. I. Clark, dry and unmuddied for the first and last time during the game, waited with open arms for the ball. It plopped into his arms on the 10-yard line starting a series of hair-elevating thrills.

Clark waltzed through to the enemy's 45-yard stripe, where lurked George Sodaro. Sodaro lurked just a bit too long, however, and his tackle failed as he was partially blocked out. There was nothing between Clark and the V. P. I. goal-line but the rain and he sped between the drops for the touchdown. He failed to convert from placement for the extra point and the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of the underdogs.

Dazed and somewhat agog, the Techmen again kicked off to Clark, who received on his own 5. He got back to his own 21 before being dumped by V. P. I.'s Joe Robison. V. M. I.'s Bill Roberson nudged the ovoid up 2 yards, then kicked out on his own 40, giving the ball to V. P. I. on the V. M. I. 40.

Mel Henry plunged through the line to the 39. Dickerson went off tackle to the 32. He shot over the line to the 29 for a first down. Henry handed the ball to Dickerson on a reverse and the pigskin wound up on the 25. Henry was held for no gain on an attempted line plunge and again failed to gain on a fake reverse.

The ball was advanced to the 20 on a 5-yard penalty. Henry shoved it to the 15, then found a clear path to the 2-yard line before being dropped by Embry Rucker. From there it was a simple matter for Dickerson to shove into the end zone for the tying touchdown. Sodaro's attempt to convert from placement failed.

Both teams were struggling desperately to break the stalemate at the half. The issue was decided in the third quarter as Dickerson booted a touchback, giving the ball to V. M. I. on its own 20. Roberson bounced off the Tech line to the 17 on an attempted line plunge.

Roberson then dropped back to kick the sodden ball and V. P. I.'s Robison shot up from nowhere to block the kick. The ball bounced back into the V. M. I. end zone for what would have been a safety—and the two points from a safety would have won for V. P. I. anyway—had not Plinky Piland fallen on it to officially score a touchdown for the ultimate winners.

toward the center and the time he lost on this maneuver enabled C. Gadd to catch him from behind.

"Irish" picked up 9 more on the next play, but Catholic drew a 25-yard penalty for roughness and it was first down on the 41-yard line. It looked like a hopeless cause until Carroll picked a hole in the left side of the line, slipped through, dodged two defensive backs and got over on the sidelines, where he looked like a dark shadow as he romped the remaining distance for the touchdown. It was a 41-yard run.

The Wolf Pack never threatened in the remaining minutes. Although C. U. reserves manned the ship, the muddy field helped hold Berlinski in check and what the mud couldn't do the line could.

Kentucky Wins In Rout Over Tennessee

By the Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 28.—Kentucky's Wildcats ran wild over the Tennessee Volunteers on the muddy sod of Stoll Field here today, sending their traditional Thanksgiving Day rivals home to Knoxville blanketed under four touchdowns and a 27-to-0 beating. More than 15,000 shivering fans saw the contest, Kentucky's first victory over Tennessee since 1925.

Behind an inspired line, Kentucky's backfield shone brightly. Bert Johnson, Wildcat star who scored two touchdowns last year against Alabama's Rose Bowl team, delivered two of the four scores today. Quarterback McMillan, of Millington, Tenn., accounted for the other two. Fullback Elmore Simpson, of Besemer, Ala., kicked three of four tries from placement.

Bob Davis, sophomore halfback, who has scored 66 points for Kentucky this season, dashed through the Tennessee line and around ends and caught passes for a good share of the 225 yards Kentucky gained from scrimmage. Tennessee gained only 41

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 28 (AP).—Herbert Tade, 21-year-old center on the University of Tennessee football team, was in a critical condition here tonight from a fractured skull suffered in the last quarter in the Kentucky-Tennessee football game here today.

Hospital physicians said tonight Tade had "a good chance" to recover, if he lives through the night.

125 Hounds—No Fox.

Douglas, Ga., Nov. 28 (U.P.).—Gov. Eugene Talmadge led State dignitaries and 125 hounds here in "the greatest assemblage in fox hunt history of the State." The affair lacked only one element—all the Governor's horses and all the Governor's men couldn't find a fox.

Nebraska Winner On Late Touchdown

By the Associated Press.

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 28.—A sensational comeback drive which carried the Cornhuskers 65 yards to a touchdown in the last two minutes of play gave Nebraska a 26-to-20 victory over the Oregon State Beavers in an intersectional football game here today before 25,000 persons.

Nebraska scored a touchdown in the first four minutes of play, and counted again nine minutes later on a blocked punt. Oregon State went into the lead, however, early in the fourth quarter, and it looked like the tide had turned.

Celanese and Brewers in 2-2 Draw

WASHINGTON'S only holiday soccer game, played yesterday on Benning Field, between Heurich Brewers and Celanese ended in a two-goal tie, all the scoring being done in the first half.

Rain possibly was the most prominent factor of the contest; besides keeping the attendance low, it made the ball soggy and the footing treacherous, but the players nobly struggled on.

Celanese started proceedings but were repulsed by Burton, and Blanche let Koennel away for a try at the visitors' goal, where Orr cleared. Play was very even for some time, with both goalkeepers making good saves, and finally Herath converted a nice cross by Blanche for the opening goal. The visitors pressed afterward and soon equalized, Darnley heading through from a corner taken by McKenzie.

O'Rourke Makes Goal.

This was followed by another goal for Celanese, from the foot of O'Rourke. Just before the interval Bailey equalized for Heurich's, from close in, a cleverly headed ball beating Eichhorn.

The second half was a ding-dong affair all the way, both sides fighting hard and both goals having many narrow escapes, the Celanese custodian, in particular, being fortunate more than once in averting disaster. The closing minutes saw a determined rally by the visitors but Burton and McBain staved them off until the final whistle.

Southeast Hockeyists Win 2 at Cleveland

Cleveland, Nov. 28 (AP).—Two teams from the Southeast demonstrated their field hockey superiority today by defeating the Great Lakes Reserves, 17 to 0, and the Midwest Reserves, 12 to 0, in the first day's play of the women's national tournament at Laurel School field today.

The Southeast team of girls, mostly from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Virginia and Washington, showed a compact forward line and used short, sharp passes to win, 12 to 0, over the Midwest Reserves.

Mexicans Rely On Speed and Air Play

Meet Heavier Central High Team in International Grid Test Today.

appearance of a quarterback calling his signals in Spanish and exhorting his teammates in a foreign language do not form the chief talent of interest of this invading Mexican team. From a stand-point the game has every indication of developing into a gripping contest as well as a precedent shattering spectacle brimming over with international significance and expression of good will between the two great republics of North America.

Though this Mexican team will be outweighed close to 17 pounds per man, it has displayed such proficiency with a football, notably in passing and kicking, and such speed afoot that it is the candid opinion of observers that Central faces no set-up today.

Four All-high stars will be in the Central starting line-up with Billy Richardson and Johnny Jones at the halfback posts; Paul Whedon at one end and Ross Chaimson at guard. Only Charlie Jones, the other All-High choice, will be among those on the bench. The stocky guard is recovering from the effects of a slight concussion of the brain suffered in a recent game.

Villarreal Triple-Threat.

Against this array of stand-outs, the Mexicans offer a spectacular squadron of its own, headed by young Ernesto Villarreal, their triple-threat quarterback and captain, who passes and punts as well as any man in the recent inter-high series. Possibility of a wet field may slow up the Mexican plan of attack, centered as it is around deception and frequent passing, as natural to its coach, a product of Coach Gus Dorais, of the University of Detroit, one of the early developers of the pass as a great scoring threat.

Tarheels Bury Virginia by 61 to 0

Special Dispatch to The Post.

KEENAN STADIUM, Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 28.—Led by Don Jackson, North Carolina's great halfback, whose passing, running and punting figured largely in a Thanksgiving Day touchdown parade, the Tarheels went on a scoring spree to trounce Virginia, 61-0, in the South's oldest holiday classic. A colorful crowd of 15,000 witnessed the game.

It was the largest score North Carolina had ever run up against Virginia in their 40-year rivalry. It almost equalled the worst licking, 66-0, the Cavaliers handed Carolina in 1912. It was the worst defeat Virginia ever suffered at the hands of a Southern team.

Roll Up Nine Touchdowns.

The Tarheels rang up nine touchdowns and Babe Daniel, Carolina center, converted six of the seven tries after touchdown. Pendergraft made one.

The Tarheel juggernaut rolled up 21 first downs to 2 for the Cavaliers and gained a net total of 591 yards from scrimmage to 51 for Virginia. The losers were in Carolina territory only once.

Jackson scored on a brilliant 43-yard run early in the first quarter and his passes accounted directly for three others on gains of 61, 40 and 35 yards. His passing also figured prominently in two other touchdown drives.

Carolina scored in each period.

Score at Outset.

Carolina scored on a 60-yard drive the first time it came in possession of the ball. Co-Captain Harry Montgomery took the ball across from the 9-yard line on a reverse play.

A minute later Jackson swept around his right end and shook off several tacklers to score after a 43-yard scamper.

After Jackson had passed 18 yards to Dick Buck, Jim Hutchins plunged over from the 5-yard marker for the third score. With several minutes to play in the first half, Montgomery took the ball over again after Jackson's 19-yard toss to Buck McCarn had placed the ball on the 7-yard line.

Carolina was on the Virginia 10-yard line as the period ended as a result of a 26-yard pass from Jackson to Buck, who later hurled to Hutchins.

Score on Blocked Punt.

The Carolina second team started the second half and Martin, of Virginia, attempted a punt on the first play, but Marvin Ray, tackle, broke through and blocked it, recovering in the end zone for a score.

Dick Dashiell tallied soon after from the 4-yard line.

On The Air Today

BOB BURNS is soon to be a full fledged radio star. The Arkansas bazooka player, who has been entertaining with his homespun humor on guest spots with Vallee, Whiteman and others, has been booked for half a year with the new Bing Crosby "Music Hall" series, which soon replaces the Paul Whiteman series of the same name and which will be heard at the same hour.

In celebration of the contract signing, Bob strolled out and bought a new pair of "yaller shoes." Whenever something mighty big happens in Bob's life, he "jest buys a new pair of yaller brogues." Twice before he got those new shoes. Once when he won the A. E. F. rifle championship in France—and when he married.

He goes to the West Coast immediately following the "Music Hall" show tonight, and by way of Van Buren, Ark., where the townsfolk plan a big celebration for him.

Bob Burns has a future before him as wide as the proverbial barn door. Some readers of this space may recall a report of his visit with me some few weeks ago at which time I was impressed with his droll humor. And the idea which is currently in the minds of every one associated with him came naturally to me, too—that Burns has an opportunity of becoming in a modified sense a new Will Rogers. His humor and philosophy are not Rogers. But in a general enough way, he qualifies.

Clearings Rise Higher Gaining 31% in Week

By the Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 28.—Bank clearings continue to score heavy gains, according to the report of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., issued today.

The total for the 22 leading cities in the United States for the week ended Wednesday, November 27, was $5,472,471,000 compared with $4,174,354,000 a year ago, an upturn of 31 per cent. For the preceding week the gain was 21.7 per cent.

At New York City, clearings were $3,521,727,000, an increase of 34.4 per cent over the total reported a year ago. The aggregate for centers outside New York was $1,950,744,000, or 25.7 per cent ahead of the 1934 total. Clearings continue ahead of a year ago at every city reporting.

Continued large gains at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Detroit, reflect conditions in important industries centering at those cities, the survey stated. Clearings were also much higher this week at Boston, Baltimore, Buffalo, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville, Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City, Dallas, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle.

Increase Is General.

Clearings at the leading centers for the week of Nov. 27 compared with the previous week follow:

Foreign Markets Show Hesitancy

By the Associated Press.

London, Nov. 28.—Hesitancy prevailed on the stock exchange today under the influence of the French crisis. Far Eastern issues were affected by the situation in China and New Zealand shares by the election in that country. Gilt-edged securities were dull, transatlantic issues and industrials firmer, and oil shares easier. The market closed irregular.

Paris, Nov. 28.—Trading on the bourse was calm today with price movements indecisive as apprehensions in financial circles as to the possibility of unexpected developments occurring in connection with the opening of the French Chamber of Deputies diminished. Rentes strengthened after a small decline, while industrials and international issues held mostly firm. The closing was irregular.

Cord Corp. to Retain N. Y. Shipbuilding

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Directors of New York Shipbuilding Corporation have elected W. H. Beal chairman of the board to succeed L. B. Manning, resigned. In announcing his resignation, Mr. Manning, who is president of the Cord Corporation, said:

"Mr. Beal, vice president of Cord Corporation, is moving his headquarters to Camden and will devote his principal attention to the affairs of New York Shipbuilding. This move definitely refutes the rumor recently circulated that Cord Corporation's interest in New York Shipbuilding Corporation has been sold or is for sale."

Wheat Prices Yield Fractions In Winnipeg Pit

By the Associated Press.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—Undecided whether to decline with Liverpool or advance with Buenos Aires, wheat prices on the local exchange today held within fractions of their previous closing levels. Values closed ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower, November at 86⅛; December, 86; May, 90, and July at 90¼ cents.

Operations dwindled to negligible proportions in the quietest session of the week. No export sales of Canadian wheat were reported, and with United States exchange on holiday, trade news was scarce.

A 6,871,000-bushel decrease in west Australia's wheat crop this year, from 26,980,000 to 20,109,000 bushels, was less than most traders had anticipated and resulted in net declines of ⅝ to ½d at Liverpool. Buenos Aires was up 1⅛ cents.

Natural Forces Won Recovery Over Government, Bank Holds

Emergence From Depression in Spite of Federal Interference a Tribute to Country's Vitality, Says First National Bank of Boston.

Boston, Nov. 28.—The sustained advance in business activity since midsummer, with practically all lines sharing in the upturn, is confirmed in the monthly letter of the First National Bank, which will say tomorrow:

"The underlying force behind this movement is the huge pent-up demand which is now finding expanding and broadening outlets. Business recovery is definitely under way, although it may be temporarily retarded by unfavorable foreign developments or by political uncertainties incident to the Presidential election in 1936."

After setting forth detailed evidence of recovery in various fields, the bank letter says:

"Busness is definitely emerging from the depression. Due to natural recuperative forces and in spite of governmental intervention recovery is coming. This is a tribute to the vitality of our economic system. Depressions are not futile, for they do cause a necessary purging whereby wastes, inefficiencies and unsound business practices are eliminated and the system is brought back into better balance. Without these depression periods serious maladjustments would accumulate in the course of time and throw the whole machinery out of gear.

Deflation Completed.

"The deflatonary forces have practically run their course despite desperate governmental efforts to hold back the tide. Private enterprise has made drastic retrenchments, wastes have been cut out, debts written down, weak concerns wiped out or reorganized and the productivity of labor and efficiency of management have been greatly increased.

"In spite of many governmental policies, engendering fear and retarding revival, the immutable forces of economic law are producing results.

"Economic progress is dependent upon elasticity in our business system to the end that constant adjustments can be made and benefits from lower costs passed on to the consumer thereby increasing his purchasing power and raising his standard of living. Attempts at artificial control and extensive regulation defeat this process. The more the Government intervenes the more rigid becomes the system and in consequence the more difficult for natural forces to apply correctives. A rigid system is pernicious when fluctuations in industry and trade are narrow. It is hazardous when the fluctuations are violent. Governmental efforts to freeze the status quo by fixing prices and wages and regulating production and hours of labor entail a terrific drain on our resources besides being all to no avail.

Spending Threatens Reserves.

"The most serious danger we face today is the draining of our reserves through profligate Federal spending and its accompanying extortionate taxes, the imposition of unknown social burdens perhaps beyond the capacity of the country, penalizing bigness and success through punitive and discriminatory taxation and a hodge-podge of governmental interference with economic law. These factors not only deplete our reserves but discourage further accumulations of reserves which form the basis of our economic structure and are the shock absorbers of depression periods. For example, according to a recent study by the Department of Commerce, during the past four years private enterprise paid out $26,000,000,000 more than was produced.

Drain on Business.

"In other words, business drew upon its reserves to that amount to meet wages, salaries, interest charges, taxes and the like as well as to absorb losses. Now the Federal Government has no power whatsoever to create reserves. Reserves come only from hard work and thrift under intelligent and energetic leadership in private enterprise. Without reserves there can be no replacement of equipment, no continuance of our economic structure, nothing but a drift back to primitive existence. On the other hand the Federal Government has unlimited power to dissipate reserves and it is now doing that on a prodigious scale with its haphazard spending of every conceivable nature.

"Our recovery is coming because of the vitality and reserves made possible by 150 years of hard work and thrift under a government adhering to the proper functions of government. These reserves are huge and cannot all be immediately dissipated by profligate spending. But if the present rate of dissipation of our resources and the extension of paternalistic tentacles is not checked then in the course of time, and not too long a time, we shall so sap our vitality that we shall not have the recuperative power to cope with another depression."

Power Output Again Attains All-Time Peak

Production for Week of Nov. 23 Is 14.5% Above Year Ago.

New York, Nov. 28.—Production of electricity by the electric light and power industry for the week ended November 23 reached a new all-time peak with output of 1,953,119,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 14.5 per cent over output of 1,705,413,000 in the same week last year, the Edison Electric Institute reports.

In the preceding week output totaled 1,938,560,000 kilowatt-hours, against 1,691,046,000 in the same 1934 week, a gain of 14.6 per cent.

For the last seven consecutive weeks power output has been at new record levels, with indications that the seasonal movement will continue until after the Christmas week, when output normally turns downward. Production in all the major geographic regions was sustained at a high rate and in four of the seven regions comparisons with last year showed a greater rise than was the case in the preceding week.

The following shows the percentage changes for the last three weeks for the major geographic regions.:

Peggy darling, please don't hang on that phone all day. This is the third time in an hour that I came in here to call up Aunt Tillie.
I'm done now. It was Hartford. He's at the Eldorados' arranging the trip.
Trip? What trip?
For Hartford's estate. The treasure. Monty is taking him on the yacht. Hartford invited me, but....
What's that about a trip?
Hartford? Who all did he invite, Peggy? Me?
They're going south. Gosh! That's the life.
I'll say so. We got some of it when we saw your brother Ches, Jo. When are they leaving, Peg? What day is this? Where's Hartford now?

By Robert Shosteck.

Sunday's Wanderbird trek along Wolftrap Run in nearby Virginia starts from the 140-year-old Tom Carper Mill, a place of great historic interest, where one can still buy a bag of fine whole-wheat flour and view the old burrs which have ground out meal and flour for more than a century. Also on the itinerary is Gantt Hill, from which may be seen the Blue Ridge Mountains on clear days.

To allow some time for inspecting the old mill, the group will start somewhat earlier—9:30—from The Post Building. Readers and regular hikers are invited to go on this 7-mile hike, to be led by Dr. H. N. Stokes. The round-trip fare will be 60 cents a person, and bus reservations must be made at No. 4200 by, midnight Saturday. Bring lunch and a cup for water or cider.

The starting-point of the hike is the Tom Carper Mill, a weather-beaten stone structure dating back to 1794. Little is known or recorded of the history of the mill prior to the Civil War, according to Sam Millard, the retired miller who lives nearby. The Millard family bought it in 1882 and operated it until last July, when illness forced Mr. Millard to sell. The present owner operates the mill but a few days a month.

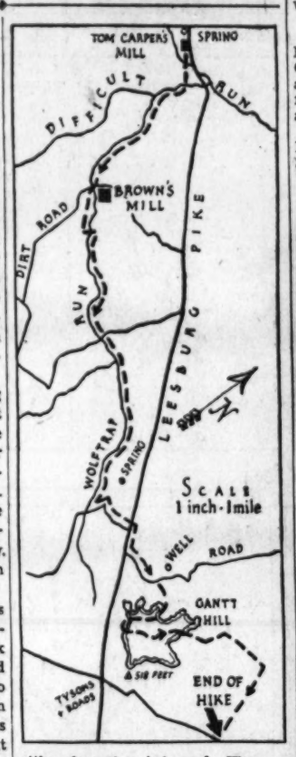
Follow Difficult Run.

Leaving the mill, we follow Difficult Run for a short distance and then proceed along the left bank of Wolftrap Run for about one mile to the ruins of Brown's Mill, which was torn down about two years ago. The trail follows the millrace through the woods and past the big dam. About 2 miles upstream is Jarrett's Farm, a good place to stop for lunch. Not far from the end of Wolftrap Run, the Wanderbirds turn left up a dirt road to the Leesburg Pike and thence across to Ayer's Farm, where the hikers will be treated to good old apple cider.

From this point the route lies along a woods road which traverses scenic countryside and gradually ascends to the top of Gantt Hill, from which one may get a clear view of the Blue Ridge. To the northeast is Scott Run, and south of us is Tyson's Crossroads. The trail skirts the hillside above Scott Run, and follows a lane to Maplewood Dairy on the Langley road, where the hike ends.

Wanderbird Dance.

The Wanderbird dance will be held on Wednesday, December 4, at 9 o'clock in the gym at McKinley Technical High School, Second and T streets northeast. Admission is 50 cents a person and one may come either formal or informal. The program will include several Paul Jones numbers. Dick Stiles and his five-piece orchestra will furnish the music.



The Red Triangle hikers will meet at Fifteenth and Constitution avenue at 2 p. m. for a 3-mile hike along Accotink Creek. Reservations may be made through H. B. George, phone Georgia 2176. The fare will be 25 cents.

Next week's Wanderbird hike will be in the Blue Ridge Mountains, from Nethers to Old Rag Mountain. This 7-mile hike is one of the most scenic in the entire region. Watch Friday's Post for full details.
